

EYE OPENER — The landing of this Army National Guard helicopter Saturday in the Washington Square Shopping Center brought a number of double-takes by passersby. This was exactly what the National Guard was seeking as they began a special public awareness program. The helicopter is pictured above just prior to taking off for the shopping center.

Helicopter kicks off Guard awareness week

By MARK REA

Under the auspices of the United States Army National Guard, the Junior Naval Reserve Officer's Training Corps cadets from Washington Senior High School were treated to a ride in an Army helicopter, Saturday morning.

As part of the National Guard's program of public awareness to the Guard's presence and service, seventeen cadets rode in the "Huey" type helicopter. They were taken in groups of six for a 20 minute aerial view of Washington C.H. area and surrounding Fayette County.

The helicopter, piloted by Lt. William Yasco, took off from the National Guard base in Columbus and, after its journey to Washington C.H., touched down in the Washington Square Shopping Center parking lot.

Previously, the helicopter was okayed for landing on land situated behind the Washington Senior High School by Washington City School officials. It is hoped that the helicopter will return next week to the school. If school officials again concur, the remaining 80 cadets in the JNROTC program at WSHS will get their chance for helicopter flight.

The host of the cadets for the event was Guard Capt. Larry Hott of Washington C.H. Hott, a police officer, who recently took over the reigns of the local National Guard operation and is the commander of the local armory.

On hand, for safety reasons, were the Washington C.H. police and fire departments along with a representative from the Fayette County Sheriff Department.

The event was termed a success by National Guard and JNROTC officials in attendance and was paid for by the Army National Guard.

The ride was restricted solely to JNROTC cadets in uniform.

The JNROTC program was started in Washington C.H. in 1970 and was headed for its first four years by Cdr. Robert Self. For the past two years, the program has been headed by Cdr. Harold Vail. The assistant Naval Science instructor is CPO Kenneth Hays.

Other activities scheduled in conjunction with the Ohio National Guard awareness program include Monday morning's proclamation by City Manager George Shapter. He has designated March 21-27 as Ohio National Guard Organization and Affiliation Week.

The action was taken to recognize the continuing efforts of the local Guard company to secure Ohioans from civil disorder and to provide emergency service in time of disaster.

Candidates await Carolina vote

By The Associated Press

Republican Ronald Reagan and Democrat George Wallace blitzed North Carolina today for votes in Tuesday's presidential primary, while President Ford and Jimmy Carter, the apparent frontrunners, looked ahead to future races.

In Washington, R. Sargent Shriver prepared to announce a decision on the future of his already shaky Democratic campaign. Shriver, after a poor showing in Illinois last week, said he would limit his efforts to Texas' May 1 primary and the election May 8 in Maryland.

And the Federal Election Commission was scheduled to meet, also in Washington, to certify a final $1 million to presidential candidates. Its authority to give out matching federal funds expires at midnight under a Supreme Court order.

North Carolina's election is important to both Reagan and Wallace, who are trying to reverse earlier primary setbacks. They have spent more time campaigning in the state than the others.

Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson, Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall and former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris also are trying for some of North Carolina's 61 Democratic convention delegates. But they spent very little time in the state, concentrating their efforts on other upcoming races.

Ford spent some time over the weekend in North Carolina, and aides said after he left that they are confident of a sixth straight victory over Reagan, the former California governor. Carter, the ex-Georgia governor, was working elsewhere as the week ended.

Reagan scheduled appearances today at the Asheville, Charlotte,

Shriver bows out

WASHINGTON (AP) — R. Sargent Shriver, the Democrats' 1972 vice presidential candidate, today withdrew from the race for the party's 1976 presidential nomination.

Shriver, who finished third in last week's Illinois primary, released all of his convention delegates and said he will spend a week or so vacationing and then is likely to endorse another candidate.

Even before his announcement at a news conference, Shriver had dropped from active campaigning. With his announcement, he became the fifth Democratic candidate to stop major campaigning.

Shriver's withdrawal leaves seven major Democratic candidates in the race for the White House.

Panel power ends

No more election funds to support candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Election Commission loses its most important powers at midnight because Congress has been unable to meet a deadline to cure what the Supreme Court says are the commission's unconstitutional defects.

The Supreme Court ruled Jan. 30 that the commission's makeup was unconstitutional because four of its six members were selected by Congress, rather than the president. The court then set a March 1 deadline for Congress to remedy that problem. When that deadline was not met, the court extended the deadline for an extra 20 days.

Because there is no chance that Congress can act by midnight, the commission is meeting today to certify another $1 million in matching funds to presidential candidates.

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he would meet with other leaders to decide whether to ask the Supreme Court for another extension. However, Mansfield said there was no guarantee that Congress would be able to meet any further extension either.

The commission earlier this year certified $11.6 million to 14 presidential candidates. Once candidates have raised $5,000 in donations of $250 or less in each of 20 states, they are entitled to dollar-for-dollar matching money.

The Supreme Court ruling did not abolish the commission but terminated its powers to pay matching funds. Nor will the FEC be able to carry out other responsibilities for administering and enforcing the law passed in 1974 to govern the financing of federal election campaigns.

The law set limits on contributions and expenditures, in addition to providing for taxpayers' subsidies for the campaigns of presidential contenders.

Supporters of the commission say the panel's objectives would not be harmed by a brief period of suspended powers.

Legislation to restructure the FEC in compliance with the court's decision has bogged down. The Senate debated the measure last week, adopting some amendments and rejecting others, and then agreed to try again this week to break the impasse. The House starts consideration of its own version of the legislation Wednesday or Thursday.

The basic dispute is whether to amend the law merely to meet the Supreme Court requirement that all members of the commission be appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate.

Some lawmakers, including some prominent Democrats, also want to limit the power of corporations to set up employe groups to solicit campaign contributions and to make other changes in some of the commission's rulings.

President Ford has threatened to veto any bill that goes beyond restructuring the commission.

Council accepts loans for village projects

BLOOMINGBURG — The Bloomingburg Village Council met in special session this morning to work out remaining details for the proposed sewage plant construction and the upgrading of the village's water system.

After the brief meeting, contracts for FHA loans totaling $472,000 — $322,000 for the sewage plant and $150,000 for the water system — were signed.

A luncheon was slated for noon in the village and several state and federal elected representatives were invited. A brief groundbreaking ceremony was to follow at 1 p.m. followed by the finalization of land contracts for the construction sites.

The money borrowed from the FHA represents approximately 25 per cent of the total cost of each project. Federal grants will cover the other 75 per cent of the cost.

Following some two years of actual construction, the village will have central sewage service in addition to a central water supply. Water meters being installed at each residence will monitor the flow of water and be used for the billing of both water and sewer rates.

The project includes construction of a sewage treatment facility, installation of sewage lines to each home, drilling of a second water well and improvement of the iron filtering system, and installation of the water meters.

The village will bear the cost of installing the sewer lines on public property, but each homeowner will be responsible for installing the tiles from the street sewer to his home.

Hearst sentencing studied

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, convicted of bank robbery by a jury convinced of her guilt by her words and actions as the revolutionary "Tania," faces up to 25 years in prison and another trial on more serious charges.

Evidence presented by the government to show that the kidnapped newspaper heiress willingly embraced the terrorism of her captors outweighed her testimony that she cooperated with them to save her life, jurors said.

"I don't think it was any particular thing at all that led to our finding her guilty," said Marilyn Wentz, a member of the panel that found Miss Hearst guilty of armed bank robbery Saturday after 12 hours of deliberation. "I think it was a combination of all the evidence."

Mrs. Wentz, 36, a dental assistant and mother of four from Hayward, Calif., said in an interview Sunday night, "I know I went over it, and over it — everything — before deciding."

She said she thought that both the prosecutor, U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr., and chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey "did a very good job in presenting the case."

Another juror said the ordeal of deliberations was so intense that some members of the panel wept and others became sick to their stomachs.

Today, the 22-year-old Miss Hearst waited behind bars for the unfolding of a fate now in the hands of her judge, attorneys and prosecutors.

Sentencing by U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter is scheduled for April 19. He said Sunday that the maximum penalty he would consider would be 25 years in prison and a $10,000 fine for armed bank robbery.

Miss Hearst also was convicted of using a weapon in a felony, which carries a maximum 10-year sentence. But Carter said, "I don't consider that I could impose the second penalty on top of the bank robbery, since that really is included in the first offense."

The minimum sentence would be probation.

The heiress to a vast publishing fortune showed no emotion Saturday afternoon when the guilty verdict returned by the seven women and five men was read in the hushed courtroom.

Miss Hearst had testified tearfully that she had joined the April 15, 1974, holdup at a Hibernia Bank branch here after being raped, tortured and threatened with death by the Symphonie Liberation Army band that kidnapped her two months earlier.

Carter said the federal government would turn her over to authorities in Los Angeles for arraignment on state kidnapping, assault and robbery charges within the week. If convicted on those charges, which stem from a crime spree a month after the bank robbery here, she could be sentenced to life in prison.

Carter said he and Browning had agreed to allow her transfer to Los Angeles — probably by mid-week — upon completion of interviews with probation officers on the condition that she be returned here for sentencing "without any legal squabble."

JFK conspiracy rumors probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet KGB agent who defected to the United States in the months immediately after the November 1963 slaying of President John F. Kennedy sought to assure U.S. investigators that Lee Harvey Oswald was not a KGB agent, newly released CIA documents show.

The Russian, Yuri Nosenko, was one of two defectors from hostile intelligence agencies who played a key role in the U.S. investigation into whether Kennedy's assassination was the work of a foreign conspiracy, according to CIA documents.

The other defector, a Cuban linked to Fidel Castro's intelligence service, also arrived in the United States in the months immediately after the assassination. The Cuban told his interrogators that Oswald may have been in contact with Cuban intelligence agents just seven weeks before he killed Kennedy, according to the documents.

Because both defections came so soon after Kennedy was killed, former U.S. intelligence officials say they doubted the authenticity of the information provided by the two men, particularly Nosenko, since his testimony seemed to eliminate any possibility of Soviet involvement.

The Warren Commission concluded there was no evidence of a conspiracy, but a CIA memo written in May 1975 said that the Warren report "should have left a wider 'window' for this contingency. That, indeed, was the opinion at the working level ... in 1964."

That memo is among some 1,500 pages of documents just released by the CIA in response to a Freedom of Information request.

A March 1964 CIA memo to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says Nosenko "reported that his own department was involved directly with Oswald because Oswald came to the USSR in 1959" but "there had not ever been thought given to recruiting either of them (Oswald or his Russian-born wife, Marina) as agents."

Nosenko, who according to the documents was questioned about Oswald as recently as 1967, insisted that "Oswald was of no interest to the KGB" because of his emotional instability as evidenced by an unsuccessful 1959 suicide attempt in Moscow.

The Cuban defector is described by the CIA documents as "a well-placed individual who has been ... in contact with ... officers of the Cuban Directorate General of Intelligence."

In addition to telling the CIA about the possibility of a contact between Oswald and Cuban agents, the unnamed defector testified that the Cuban intelligence agency took extraordinary security precautions immediately following the Kennedy slaying.

This information was relayed to the Warren Commission, which "saw no need to pursue this angle any further," according to a June 1964 memo.

Thailand demands full U.S. pullout

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The United States began dismantling its big radio listening post in northeast Thailand today following the Thai government's weekend decision that all but 270 of the 4,000 American military personnel in Thailand must leave the country within four months.

Thousands of leftist students marched on the U.S. Embassy Sunday for an anti-American demonstration. A bomb thrown into the procession along the way killed four students and wounded more than 80.

Representatives of 18 rightist groups in favor of the U.S. military presence broke into the headquarters of the National Student Center of Thailand (NSCT), smashed furniture and broke windows. They also demanded that Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj "suppress Communists," investigate Soviet spying in Thailand and arrest a top leftist student leader.

Some NSCT leaders blamed the rightist groups for the bomb attack, but police said they had no suspects. One youth was badly beaten by students who believed he threw the bomb, but police let him go after questioning him.

A U.S. military spokesman said two C130 transports took 118 American personnel and equipment from the Ramusen Electronics Intelligence Center out of the country.

The listening post 300 miles northeast of Bangkok ceased its monitoring of radio transmissions from Communist Indochina before midnight Saturday, the deadline set by the Thai government. About 900 U.S. employees remained at Ramusen, a spokesman said, and the withdrawal of them and other American personnel is expected to continue at a rapid pace.

Kukrit told reporters the contingent of 270 U.S. advisers to remain "could be fewer if the United States cuts its military aid to us." He added that the question of the American military presence might be reopened by the new government to be chosen by the new parliament that is to be elected April 4.

"If the new government wants to renegotiate and have a new debate, it must be submitted to parliament, and it won't be a secret agreement as with the military regime (that ruled Thailand before 1973)," he said.

The Ford administration has proposed a $51.5-million program of sales, grants and loans to Thailand for the coming fiscal year.

Claudine Longet held in slaying

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Singer-actress Claudine Longet has been arrested in connection with the shooting death of Vladimir "Spider" Sabich, who dominated the world professional ski tour in the early 1970s, Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker says.

Tucker said Miss Longet posted a personal recognizance bond at the Pitkin County sheriff's office Sunday and was released.

"I anticipate Miss Longet will be charged sometime Monday in connection with the shooting death of Mr. Sabich," Tucker said in a telephone interview.

Tucker said the charges would be filed in Pitkin County District Court here. He refused to say what charges would be filed.

Tucker said Sabich died at his home in an exclusive subdivision near this Rocky Mountain ski resort town from a shot fired from a handgun.

Earlier, Dr. Charles Williams, the county coroner, said Sabich, 30, had been shot in the abdomen. He was taken to the Aspen Valley Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival shortly after 5 p.m.

Tucker declined to say how many times Sabich had been shot or provide other details.

He said the body was being removed to Denver for an autopsy.

Israel, PLO to clash today in U.N. debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Israel today squares off against the Palestine Liberation Organization for the first time in the Security Council against a backdrop of Arab unrest in the occupied West Bank.

Moslem Libya and Pakistan asked for the council meeting to press a charge that Israel is creating an increasingly explosive situation in East Jerusalem and other Arab towns by its "policy of absorbing occupied Jerusalem into Israel."

Arab and other Moslem countries were expected to seek a resolution finding Israel guilty of changing the status of Jerusalem, taking "measures of repression" against West Bank Arabs and desecrating Moslem holy places in Jerusalem.

An uneasy calm was reported throughout the West Bank after the worst Arab rioting there since Israel seized the territory from Jordan in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. The riots were sparked by an Israeli court decision six weeks ago permitting Jewish worship on Jerusalem's Temple Mount, site of two Moslem shrines and of King Solomon's Temple.

On Sunday, however, the Israeli Supreme Court overruled the decision and upheld a police ban on Jewish prayer in the area.

In other attempts to ease the situation during the council debate, the Israeli army withdrew its troops from Hebron, a West Bank town that was the scene of some of the fiercest riots, and closed for two weeks a Palestinian newspaper that called for continued demonstrations.

In their letter requesting the council meeting, Libya and Pakistan said the furor unleashed by the Temple Mount dispute must "be seen, along with recent expropriations of Arab-owned lands in Jerusalem and the establishment of Jewish settlements in Arab areas, as part of a policy of absorbing occupied Jerusalem into Israel and changing its cultural and demographic character."

Israel's decision to participate in the council debate alongside the PLO was seen as an indication of the importance Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's government puts on publicly defending its policies toward Jerusalem and other territories captured from the Arabs in 1967.

Israel refused previously to debate the PLO in any forum, although it is recognized by the United Nations as the spokesman for the Palestinian people, because it is a terrorist organization dedicated to the destruction of the Jewish state. Israel's U.N. delegate, Chaim Herzog, boycotted two previous Security Council meetings to which the PLO was invited.

William W. Scranton also was making his debut as chief U.S. delegate at the council meeting. His predecessor, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, was a vociferous supporter of Israel in U.N. debates, while Scranton is the author of a widely quoted 1968 call for a "more even-handed policy" in the Middle East, that is one less oriented toward Israel.

Lebanese fighting worst in 11 months

On the political front, the Phalange Party said Christian President Suleiman Franjeh was expected to announce a plan for his resignation within hours.

The 65-year-old Franjeh, holed up in the presidential palace on a hilltop five miles east of Beirut, has defied scores of military threats to bomb him out since the Moslem commander of the Beirut garrison, Brig. Aziz Ahdab, proclaimed himself provisional military governor of Lebanon 10 days ago.

A Phalange spokesman said Franjeh's announcement would follow the broad lines of an agreement worked out by a Phalangist delegation in three days of talks with Syrian government leaders in Damascus. He said the plan includes:

—Expansion of Moslem Premier Rashid Karami's six-man government to an 18-man cabinet of national union.

—Announcement by the new government of an immediate timetable for political reforms designed to meet the demands of the Moslem majority for equal powers with the Christian minority which has dominated the political and economic life of Lebanon.

—A constitutional amendment that will shorten Franjeh's six-year term by six months, making it end now. Parliament will then elect a new president from among the Maronite Christians.

Two charged in 1975 theft

Two men have been arrested and a third is being sought by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department in connection with a grand theft incident that occurred at Truck-O-Mat of Ohio, U.S. 35, on November 30, 1975.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson stated that the two were arrested Friday afternoon by Sheriff's

South Solon man faces four charges

A South Solon man was arrested for two traffic violations early Sunday morning by Washington C.H. police officers, and after he became unruly, he was charged with resisting arrest and assault.

Ervin Miller, 35, of South Solon, was travelling the wrong way in the Municipal Parking lot, on S. Fayette Street, when, upon seeing a police cruiser, he stopped and then backed into a concrete retaining wall.

The minor accident caused only slight damage to the vehicle at 2:50 a.m. Sunday, but Miller refused to leave the car, in spite of repeated requests by Ptl. Larry Mongold and Aux. Ptl John Bane.

Miller had to be removed bodily. Once outside, he broke free, attempted to strike Bane with his fist, and kicked Ptl. Mongold in the leg.

In the attempt to subdue Miller, he was injured, and though he was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital for treatment, refused any aid, and engaged in verbal abuse of the police officers, according to the police report.

Miller was charged with driving while intoxicated, driving while his license was under suspension, resisting arrest, and assault. He was incarcerated in the city jail.

Approximately a month ago, Miller was arrested by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. Making an appearance in Washington C.H. Municipal Court, he had been released on his own recognizance, pending a continuance of the case to be heard March 29.

Demo candidates set Ohio trip

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Six Democratic presidential candidates have announced they will appear at the Ohio Democratic party's fund-raising dinner April 9, state party Chairman Paul Tipps said.

Alabama Gov. George Wallace, former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, U.S. Sens. Frank Church of Idaho and Henry Jackson of Washington, U.S. Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona and Ellen McCormack of New York are scheduled to attend, he said.

Tipps said he expects 2,000 to 3,000 persons to attend the $100-a-plate dinner at the state fairgrounds.

All Democratic candidates expected at state dinner

Ohio Democratic Party chairman Paul Tipps has announced that plans are being finalized for the Ohio Democratic Party's annual state dinner to be held Friday at 8 p.m. April 9th, in the multi-purpose building on the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

The chairman indicated that he has received confirmation of attendance from five out of the six U. S. Presidential candidates and expects all six candidates to attend. Those who will attend the annual dinner are ex-governor Jimmy Carter of Georgia, Senator Frank Church of Idaho, Senator Henry Jackson of Washington, Ellen McCormack of New York, Representative Morris Udall of Arizona, and Governor George Wallace of Alabama.

An added feature of the Ohio Democratic Party's annual $100-a-plate dinner will be the representation for the first time of a woman candidate for President. Ellen McCormack, the Pro-Life candidate, is running on the Democratic ticket and state treasurer Gertrude Donahey will be running as a favorite daughter on an uncommitted state slate.

"We expect this event to be one of the finest political events of this Presidential year," stated Tipps. The party expects to have in attendance between 2,000 and 3,000 people.

Tickets may be obtained from Democratic State Headquarters, 88 E. Broad St., Columbus.

Convict man of murder

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — A Washington County jury has convicted a Bentleyville man of first-degree murder in the slaying of a teen-aged boy who was shot to death at an ice cream stand last summer.

A jury of eight women and four men returned the verdict Saturday against Michael Campo, 26. The panel also set a sentence of life imprisonment.

Campo was accused of murder in the death of 15-year-old Sean Armstrong of Cincinnati.

Stamps in the News

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures

There's good news for collectors of U. S. Bicentennial philatelic material.

The four Bicentennial Souvenir Sheets to be issued May 29 at INTERPHIL 76 will be an unusual memento even to those who are not stamp enthusiasts. The 6 x 8 inch Souvenir Sheets are based on famous paintings — Washington Crossing the Delaware, Washington Reviewing his Ragged Army at Valley Forge, The Declaration of Independence, and The Surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown.

Each of the Souvenir Sheets has five stamps as part of the design. The stamps are perforated and may be detached for postage, but most people will want to keep the items intact.

All five stamps in each sheet are the same denomination; however, each of the four sheets has a different rate. For example, the Surrender of Cornwallis has 13-cent stamps, Declaration of Independence — 18-cent stamps, Washington Crossing the Delaware — 24-cent, and Washington at Valley Forge — 31-cent.

The Souvenir Sheets will be sold in full sheets only during INTERPHIL 76 (U. S. International Philatelic Exhibition in Philadelphia May 29 thru June 6), at the philatelic centers in post offices throughout the country and by mail order from the Philatelic Sales Division in Washington. The cost of each sheet will be the face value of the postage stamps in the sheet.

Air patrol slide show

Cadet Lt. Jerry Curnutte and Cadet Sgt. Mike Graham gave a slide presentation of the Civil Air Program to students at Eber School recently.

The slides explained the purpose of the CAP, and any other school or group desiring to see the films may contact Major Paul E. Woods or JoAnn Davis.

The local CAP Squadron 206 has completed a weekend survival course. This section of the training included emergency shelters, the use of a compass and mapping under the Ranger program.

Those completing the weekend training were Cadets Curnutte, Graham, Bob Rhonemus, Jim Everhart, David and Ora Rhoads. Seniors participating were Major Woods, WO Richard Pierce, Rosemary Rhoads, and CIO JoAnn Davis, along with new recruits Dewayne Wright, Bob Philips, and Joe Smith.

Work completion delay reported

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A delay in completion of spillway repair work will hamper early spring boating at Cowan Lake State Park in Clinton County, the Department of Natural Resources said.

The lake is usable, but it may be difficult to launch some types of craft until the water level returns to normal about April 10, park Manager Roger O'Dell explained.

The level of the 700-acre lake was lowered six feet this winter while repairs were underway, O'Dell said.

should be addressed to: "Bicentennial Souvenir Sheets, Philadelphia, Pa. 19104."

Orders must include self-addressed envelopes of a size large enough for the mounting of the 6 x 8 inch sheet. Remittance must be by money order, not cash.

Your orders must specify which sheets are desired. The costs are: Surrender of Cornwallis 65 cents, Declaration of Independence 90 cents, Crossing the Delaware $1.20, Valley Forge $1.55. The price for all four sheets is $4.30. If you include return address labels it will expedite the return of the sheets under cover. Orders must be postmarked by May 29.

You may purchase uncanceled sheets from the Philatelic Sales Division. Orders should be addressed to: "Souvenir Sheets, Philatelic Sales Division, P. O. Box 764, Washington, D. C. 20044." The cost is the face value of the stamps in each sheet, as mentioned above, plus the usual 50-cent handling charge.

Allow up to 60 days for processing and filling your order. Mail orders will be accepted through July 5.

The centenary of Alexander Graham Bell's first telephone call is echoing throughout the world and countries are issuing stamps to honor the occasion.

We previously reported the U. S. 13-cent commemorative issued March 10. On the same date, the British Post Office released four new stamps highlighting the importance of the telephone in every day communications.

The 8.5-pence shows a mother at home making a telephone call. The 10-p depicts a policeman making an emergency call. The 11-p illustrates a nurse making a social welfare call. The 13-p features an industrial worker on the phone giving instructions. Each stamp bears the vignette of Queen Elizabeth II in the upper right corner and the inscription "Centenary of the First Telephone Call by Alexander Graham Bell."

Two other nations issuing stamps for the telephone anniversary are Malawi and Ethiopia, where phones are not so plentiful. Malawi's set consists of four stamps and Ethiopia's has three adhesives.

OSU senior Miss Ohio

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — One of the first things the new Miss Ohio, a loyal Ohio State University football fan, said after being crowned here Saturday night was she wished the Buckeyes had been as successful.

"I wish Ohio State would have done this at the Rose Bowl," said Karen Myers, 23, an OSU senior, after being selected from a field of 38 contestants. The 5-foot-6, 115-pound Miss Myers, who competed as Miss Columbus, now will represent the state in the Miss USA pageant at Niagara Falls, N.Y. in May. The winner there advances to the Miss Universe contest.

Runnersup were Vicki Nye, Miss Franklin County; Debra Smith, Miss Springfield; Tina Keith, Miss Midletown, and Diana Carty, Miss Cincinnati.

Contestants were judged on their appearance in swim suits and evening gowns and on personality. There was no talent competition.

Olympic professionals

As someone used to exclaim when conversation veered a trifle from the norm: "Oooh, what the man said!" The man, in this case, being Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee. And what he said being that, in effect, he thought admitting professional athletes to Olympic competition was not a bad idea.

It is a heresy that the late Avery Brundage inveighed against without letup during his 20 years as kingpin of the Olympics. Brundage was far from being alone in this. To many, the idea of letting in the pros runs counter to the essential spirit of the international games.

This may be. We ourselves lean toward that view. Somehow, the notion that professional athletes who compete or train for pay on a regular basis should be matched against dedicated amateurs goes against the grain.

The realities of the situation must be considered, however. Brundage did not like the Winter Games because he regarded them as pretty much a circus staged for the benefit of ski manufacturers. There is considerable basis for this judgment; some of the competitors, though technically amateurs, reap handsome rewards from their association with manufacturers of sports equipment.

Another pertinent element in the picture is the de facto professionalism of athletes from some countries, notably the Soviet Union. The Soviets train the year

'round under full subsidy from the government. The definition of amateur has to be stretched far out of shape to accommodate them. Yet they compete on equal terms with bona fide amateurs from many other countries, including ours.

What Lord Killanin said the other day in an interview at Innsbruck was, "I am not against open competition, particularly in the period between the Olympics . . ." Perhaps that is a realistic position, but we would modify it to this extent: either the rules defining amateurism should be tightened to eliminate current practices which make a mockery of the word, or the Olympic Games should be thrown open to all comers whether amateur or professional.

WASHINGTON CALLING...By Marquis Childs

Other primary concerns

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has a small plot going that gives him a certain private satisfaction as he smarts under the attacks on foreign policy in the campaign. He is sealing in an envelope to be opened in 1977 a prediction of the course the next President, whether his name is Ford or Reagan or Carter, must inevitably follow.

That course will be to come to an agreement with the Soviet Union on a limitation of offensive nuclear weapons. The interim agreement reached in the SALT I negotiations of 1972 expires in October of next year. If nothing is to take its place then the sky's the limit and it will be necessary to step up the defense budget from $5 billion to $10 billion a year.

It is not that Kissinger has any illusions about spending on nuclear weapons. With a military budget in the hundred-billion-dollar range on both sides of the great divide, new and ever more lethal killer devices such as the Trident submarine and the B-1 bomber are being researched and developed. But the agreement of 1972 did put on restraints and those restraints are being observed despite the charges that Soviet violations have been overlooked.

The attack on the Ford policy of relaxation of tensions and reduction of nuclear armaments has its comic side as the campaign heats up. Four years of detente, says Ronald Reagan, using the French word the President has put out of his vocabulary, and the Soviets have two to three times as many men in uniform and under arms as the United States.

Yes, Kissinger observes, that has been true since 1945. And one million of those troops are deployed on the 3000-mile border with China.

In his prediction for 1977, Kissinger omits one name prominent in the presidential sweepstakes. That is Sen. Henry (Scoop) Jackson. He believes that Jackson, whom he rates as shrewder and more sophisticated by far than Reagan, wants a standoff with the Soviet Union — no concessions — and that standoff, in addition to involving huge new expenditures for nuclear weapons, could mean a nuclear war.

While Kissinger has had no response from Moscow yet to the latest proposal which he put to Leonid Brezhnev on his last visit to the Soviet Union, he believes the Russians want a SALT II agreement. Failure would put the same vastly increased arms burden on them and while under their totalitarian system they might be able to force their people to bear it the cost under their weak economy would be great.

When he speaks privately of the Russians, Kissinger is moderate. They slid into Angola without perhaps realizing the full consequences of their move. They had taken a considerable beating in the Middle East and as the recent party Congress showed the communist leadership in the West is no longer subservient to the dictates of Moscow. Kissinger believes another element is the domination the Chinese have achieved in Mozambique. Thus the two Communist giants are head to head in West Africa. This could be a peril with an explosive potential nearly as great as the border dispute.

The Jackson amendment to the trade bill negotiated with the Soviet Union was intended to require the Soviets to release Jews who desired to emigrate to the Soviet Union. Three weeks after it was signed, Moscow renounced the treaty, considering the amendment an intervention in Russian domestic policy. Jewish emigration had numbered more than 30,000 prior to this conflict. It has since declined to a mere fraction of that.

To the rest of the world it must seem that we are so wrapped up in the game of primaries that nothing happening beyond our shores is of any moment. The Secretary of State gets the blame for every misadventure in a turbulent world in which the balance between stability and total disarray is perilously kept.

Thus he sees the great hazards in the public leaks of the Lockheed bribes. The result, with the alleged involvement of Prince Bernhard, may be the forced abdication of the House of Orange in the Netherlands. In Japan the liberal party, the mainstay of U.S. policy, may be destroyed. Why, he asks, could this not have been handled between government and government? This last, of course, is what the increasing attack centers on — Kissinger is in the old tradition of power politics.

It is well to remember there was once a Republican who said that politics stops at the water's edge. His name was Arthur Vandenberg, from Ford's home town of Grand Rapids, and he was a bulwark of strength just after World War II.

As far back as 1808 the Scioto Valley in Ohio had furnished cattle to the eastern markets. By 1825 about 15,000 head were being driven over the mountains annually, a procedure that continued until the railroads ended it about 1850.

Another View

"MOMENTUM — NOW THERE'S A WORD I CAN USE."

EDITOR, Record-Herald:

Adolph Hitler said "The most foolish mistake would be to allow subject races to bear arms." Stalin said, "If the opposition disarms well and good. If it refuses to disarm, we shall disarm it ourselves."

Very recently the House Judiciary Committee (Peter W. Rodino N.J. chairman) came within one vote of reporting out to the full House a bill which would have banned a known 71 per cent of all hand guns in the United States.

Legend has it that if the king did not like the news the messenger bore, then he had the messenger killed. Sort of like the man who did not like the news being reported in the media, so he simply quit reading. The anti-gun fanatics and sociologists would disarm law-abiding citizens because criminals use guns to commit crimes.

According to "Accidental Facts for 1972" deaths due to accidental discharge of firearms ranked seventh, trailing suffocation, poison, fire and burns, drowning, falls and motor vehicles. A September 1973 report of the FBI said 628,488 guns were reported stolen or missing. This whole business of gun control is a hoax on the part of liberal politicians, social planners and totalitarians to put us at the mercy of a police state, common criminals or possibly an invading foreign power.

"How can one enter a strong man's house and plunder his goods, unless he first binds the strong man. Then, instead, he may plunder his house." Matthew 12:29. "He who kills a beast shall make it good; and he who kills a man shall be put to death." Lev. 24:21. "If a thief is found breaking in, and is struck so that he dies, there shall be no blood shed for him." Exodus 22:2. "If a man steals an ox or a sheep, and kills or sells it, he shall pay five oxen for an ox and four sheep for a sheep." Exodus 22:1.

Isn't it about time folks who live peaceably, productively and respectfully of the law and their fellowman be given more consideration by our legislators—both elected and appointed.

The second amendment to our Constitution states, "A well regulated militia being necessary for the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed." Please note the Constitution does not grant the right but protects an already existing privilege of a free people. Please note also that this right cannot be infringed upon.

This might be a good subject to discuss with Senators Glenn and Taft and Representative Harsha.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

A golden oldie
from Abby's mailbag

DEAR READERS: I am presently writing a book that will contain choice letters I've received in the last 20 years. In selecting the material, I came across a letter that gave me a chuckle. I hope it gives you one, too. It was published in my column in October, 1968.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 44-year-old bachelor who digs women, but I'm not looking for any matrimonial involvements. I live alone in a modest bungalow and enjoy my privacy.

My problem is an aggressive divorcee who lives next door. She's not bad looking, but she comes on awfully strong. She's a rip-roarin' Republican and a Nixon booster from way back. If she sees a light in my place, she runs right over with a prepared meal and an armful of Nixon campaign literature. She's even offered to cook for me and do my ironing, but I'm not about to fall for that trap. When she's not trying to sell me on Nixon, she's talking about marriage.

Last week I had it, so I moved my refrigerator, stove and TV down to the basement so she won't know I'm home. So now she phones me! What should I do?

NOT INTERESTED

DEAR NOT: Tell her you're going to vote for Hubert and move back upstairs!

DEAR ABBY: PENNA. READER wrote: "I went to a nice supper club with my lady friend and another couple, when a male friend of the other couple approached me and asked if I minded if he danced with my date. I said 'Yes, I do mind,' and my date thought I was rude."

You said, "You were. You should have asked your date if SHE wanted to dance with the stranger."

Well, I think you were wrong. Why should a man who goes to a supper club (probably left his wife or girlfriend at home) expect some other guy to provide him with a girl to dance with?

I say nuts to him. If he likes to dance, let him bring his own date!

WYOMINGITE
DEAR WYOMINGITE: I led with my chin on that one. You're right!

DEAR ABBY: A school dance is coming up next month, and the girls are supposed to ask the boys.

I want to ask a certain boy I know, but my mom says I shouldn't ask a boy who hasn't ever asked me out, and this one hasn't.

Abby, I think it's only fair that this once I should be able to ask the boy I really want to ask. What do you think?

TO ASK OR NOT TO ASK
DEAR TO ASK: The purpose of a girl-ask-boy dance is to change the boy-ask-girl tradition with which girls have been stuck for so long. If girls ask only boys who have asked them out, where's the breakthrough?

Your Horoscope

by FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Your planetary aspects advise against useless activity, negative attitudes, opposing others without reason. A day for exercising tolerance and plain common sense.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

A splendid day for improving methods and for experimenting generally. With your innate enthusiasm, you can give a lift to practically any project.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

A day in which you MUST avoid extremes: They will tempt in various ways. Some situations may prove difficult, but all can be made easier through the trying.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

You may consider making some changes now, but be careful not to make too many, or go too far in any one direction. A good adjustment should work out well, however.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

It will take patience, soft words and a great deal of humor to keep some things (and persons) in line now. But well worth it - and for a long time to come.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Stellar influences now suggest prudence, careful deliberation before acting. Don't "toss a coin" or make decisions in a haphazard way. Be painstaking.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Stellar influences excellent! Both artistry and imagination stimulated. Use both well and results will please.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Weigh fitness and the validity of proposed action carefully. Keep eyes on the farthest horizon possible as you steer your course.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You may have an unpleasant situation to deal with, or some complexity in a job matter. But your optimism and know-how can turn things to advantage if you don't panic.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Information needed to consummate a business deal now forthcoming. With the added facts on hand, proceed as originally planned.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Be cautious in dealing with associates. Some may urge you to make certain commitments against your better judgment. Don't let yourself be pressured.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Your intuition and self-reliance stimulated now. And both will be useful if you are to solve some possible "tricky" situations. Don't yield to anxiety, however.

YOU BORN TODAY are governed by Mars, a Sign of power, ambition and intensity. You are a person of extreme capability, though many of you have no realization of your potentials. Realizing them fully, however, you can be an effective leader, an enthusiastic organizer. You can excel in the fields of art, science, the theater or the law. Whatever you do, you will do well, but a profession, backed by a sound education, will get you further than a business career.

Manpower program applications being accepted for fiscal year 1977

The Regional Manpower Services Council, Area 6, is requesting proposals for fiscal year 1977 Manpower programs.

Programs are funded through Title I money authorized by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 (CETA). As a component of CETA, the general purpose of Title I programs is to provide job training and employment opportunities for economically disadvantaged, unemployed and underemployed persons and to assure that these services to maximum employment opportunities. Economically disadvantaged persons have been chosen by the primary priority group for the manpower plan. Within this group, other priority groups to be served include, but are not limited to: unemployed heads of households; youth-in-school, ages 14-18; youth out-of-school, ages 14-18; disabled; older workers, age 55 or older; and, veterans with each of the groups.

The council has established certain goals for fiscal year 1977 to establish marketable skills for economically disadvantaged persons within the region so they can become and remain competitive job seekers in the labor market; continuation of subsidized employment to persons chronically disregarded by the mainstream of jobs in this region, in order to prepare the participant for placement in an unsubsidized position; and, emphasis on expanding training opportunities to affect long-range solutions to the expanding unemployed, underemployed, and disadvantaged population of Region 6.

Any individual or organization may submit a proposal; however, the CETA regulations disallow the funding of a program which would produce profit for the contractor. The geographic area to be served is RMSC, Area 6 which includes Fayette Clinton, Fairfield, Madison, Pickaway, and Union counties.

Applications may be obtained from the Fayette County Action Commission office, 110 E. Market St.

Further information may be obtained from the CAP office, John Borrowman, 18½ E. Sugartree, Wilmington, or from Barbara Thall, Manpower field representative at (614) 466-8428.

Completed applications should be returned to Chester White, planning coordinator, Office of Manpower Development, 30 East Broad St. - 27th Floor, Columbus, Ohio 43215, no later than April 9, 1976.

Proposals must be submitted in triplicate in the form provided by request.

Weekend weather damage heavy

By The Associated Press

Violent weekend windstorms, often accompanied by precipitous drops in temperature, have left death and damage in widespread areas east of the Mississippi.

Tornadoes were blamed for several deaths in the Midwest and South Saturday and early Sunday. Then a line of furious storms accompanied a sharp cold front into the Northeast, putting a quick end to the June-like temperatures that ushered spring into that area.

The mercury plunged 20 degrees between noon and 3 p.m. in Washington and 10 degrees in a half-hour in New York City. A tornado-like storm was reported in New Jersey, where funnel clouds are rare.

Large chunks of glass showered to the street near midManhattan's Pennsylvania Station when some windows on a skyscraper shattered. A number of autos were crushed by falling trees in Washington.

In Pennsylvania, television station executive Patrick H. Mahoney, 36, of Unionville, was pinned under rubble when galeforce winds picked the roof off his barn. His wife suffered a broken neck.

And a tornado killed Thomas Maculley, 14, of New Castle, Del. He was on a fishing trip and had sought shelter in a portable toilet which overturned. Ten persons also were hurt when a roof collapsed at the Mother Union American Methodist Episcopal Church in Wilmington, Del.

Meanwhile, Kilbourne, La., was picking up after a tornado touched down Saturday night. Twenty-two of the town's 340 persons were injured, two seriously. Sixteen other twisters were seen. Three churches were severely damaged, the town's water storage tank flattened and electrical and telephone service knocked out. Seven homes were destroyed and 29 damaged, and four businesses damaged or destroyed. The recreation center, post office and town hall were flattened.

In Mississippi, Rex Johnson, about 40, was killed when a tornado destroyed his trailer home in Dancy. Tornadoes, high winds and hail were accompanied by up to 2½ inches of rain.

Alabama Civil Defense officials said they probably would recommend that the state seek federal disaster aid. Forty persons were injured and authorities put damage estimates at $1.25 million. There were at least two tornadoes and a number of heavy thunderstorms.

In Illinois' Champaign County, a tornado caused more than $2.5 million in damage and left three persons hospitalized on Saturday.

Tornadoes left two persons dead in Michigan and at least 40 injured Saturday night. In one mile-long path through West Bloomfield Township in Oakland County, about 50 homes were demolished or heavily damaged and at least a dozen business establishments hit. A motor home was flung through the window of a bank.

Claim MM was hooked on sex

NEW YORK (AP) — Fourteen years after her death, Marilyn Monroe is quoted as saying she was "hooked on sex" and her image as a sex goddess became a burden to her — "an albatross."

"There was a period when I responded too much to flattery and slept around too much, thinking it would help my career, though I always liked the guy at the time," she is quoted as saying in a book being excerpted in the April issue of the Ladies Home Journal.

British journalist William J. Weatherby, who says he interviewed Miss Monroe between 1960 and 1962, the year she died, quotes her:

"My body turned all these people on like turning an electric light, and there was rarely anything human in it.

"Marilyn Monroe became a burden, a what-you-call-it? — an albatross. People expected so much of me I sometimes hated them."

Weatherby also says Miss Monroe told him, "I was never kept, I always kept myself. . . . I sometimes felt I was hooked on sex the way an alcoholic is on liquor or a junkie on dope."

Weatherby quotes Miss Monroe as saying she was having an affair with a Washington politician whom she never identified. "Only problem is, he's married right now and he's famous, so we have to meet in secret," she is quoted as saying.

NOTICE TO EMPLOYERS OF WITHHOLDING REQUIREMENTS FOR MUNICIPAL INCOME TAX

Effective April 1, 1976

- Ordinance No. 5-76 enacted as an emergency measure by the Council of the City of Washington, Ohio on March 1, 1976 levies a one half of one per cent (.005) city income tax effective April 1, 1976.
- In accordance with the provisions of the abovementioned ordinance, employers within or doing business within the City of Washington, Ohio are required commencing April 1, 1976, to deduct at the time of payment of salaries, wages, commissions and other compensation the tax of one half of one per cent (.005) of the gross salaries, wages, commissions and other compensation due by the employer to an employee.
- Employers shall on or before the last day of the month following the close of each calendar quarter make a return and pay to the Tax Administrator the amount of taxes so deducted. Said returns are to be made on form or forms prescribed by or acceptable to the Tax Administrator and shall be subject to the rules and regulations prescribed therefor by the Tax Administrator.
- Employers shall be liable for the payment of the tax required to be withheld whether or not such taxes have in fact been withheld.
- On or before the thirty-first (31st) day of January following any calendar year employers shall file with the Tax Administrator an information return for each employee (Wage and Tax Statement, Form W-2) from whom the City of Washington, Ohio income tax has been or should have been withheld, showing the name, address and social security number of each employee, the total amount of compensation paid during the year and the amount of City of Washington, Ohio income tax withheld from each employee.
- Employers collecting the tax are deemed to hold same, until payment is made by such employer to the City of Washington, Ohio, as a trustee for the benefit of the City of Washington, Ohio and any such tax collected by employer from his employees shall, until the same is paid to the City of Washington, Ohio, be deemed a trust fund in the hands of such employer.

What's ahead in puddings?

NOODLE PUDDING — This version includes canned apricots and peaches.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Noodle Pudding, from Jewish cuisine, can be prepared in dozens of ways. Last spring we used a recipe for it, concocted by a friend's mother, that included medium-wide egg noodles, apples and raisins. Recently another friend gave us her cousin's recipe for a noodle pudding that features fine egg noodles, canned apricots and peaches. Now that we seem to be in the business of caddging noodle pudding recipes from friends' relatives, who knows what will turn up next?

NOODLE PUDDING.
BARBARA'S VERSION
1/2 pound (about 4 cups) fine egg noodles
1 cup commercial sour cream
1/2 cup small-curd creamstyle cottage cheese
1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons salad oil
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon salt
1-3rd cup apricot syrup, from a 16-

ounce can
1-3rd cup peach syrup, from a 16-ounce can
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup apricot halves, from a 16-ounce can
1/2 cup peach slices, from a 16-ounce can

Cook the noodles according to package directions; turn into a colander to drain.

Stir together the sour cream, cottage cheese, sugar, oil, cinnamon, vanilla, salt, apricot syrup and peach syrup. Add noodles and eggs and stir until well mixed.

In a 1-quart round casserole layer 1/2 the noodle mixture. Arrange the apricot halves and peach slices over the noodles; spread the remaining noodle mixture over the fruit.

Bake, uncovered, in a pre-heated 350-degree oven until center is hot — about 1 hour. Garnish with extra apricot and peach slices. Serve hot or warm as an accompaniment to meat or poultry or as a dessert.

Makes 8 servings.

SHEPHERD'S PIE — A mashed potato topping goes over leftover cooked meat for a family supper.

Shepherd's Pie is Old-Time

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Through the years Shepherd's Pie has been a favorite way of using leftover cooked meat. For example, in her "Domestic Receipt Book," published in 1846, Catherine Beecher (sister of Harriet Beecher Stowe) gave a recipe for it. She titled her dish "A Nice Way of Cooking Cold Meats" and her directions follow:

"Chop the (cold cooked) meat fine, add salt, pepper, a little onion, or else tomato catsup, fill a tin bread pan one-third full, cover it over with boiled potatoes, salted and mashed with cream or milk, lay bits of butter on the top and set it onto a Dutch, or stove oven, for fifteen or twenty minutes."

Modern cooks, when making Shepherd's Pie, are inclined to add gravy to the meat mixture; and they are also likely to mash butter into the potatoes instead of dotting it on top. Here's such a recipe.

SHEPHERD'S PIE
4 to 5 cups finely chopped leftover cooked meat (1 to 1 1/4 pounds)
1 small onion, finely chopped (about 1/4 cup)
1 cup leftover gravy from meat
Salt and pepper to taste
Mashed potatoes, see below

Into a medium saucepan or skillet turn the meat, onion, gravy and salt and pepper. Prepare the Mashed Potatoes. Just before the potatoes are ready, bring the meat mixture to a boil and then keep hot over very low heat. Turn the hot mixture into a 1 1/2-quart baking dish. Top with the Mashed Potatoes. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until potatoes are lightly browned — about 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

MASHED POTATOES
2 pounds (about) potatoes
1 cup water
Salt
One-third cup butter or margarine
one-third cup (about) milk
Pepper to taste

The first harness races were held in England in 1829.

'A Sunday in America' Cecilian program theme

Mrs. Kenneth Kelly was the hostess for the March meeting of the Cecilian Music Club. Preceding the regular program Miami Trace students Lynn Acton, Denise Beoddy, and Bud Mountcastle presented selections from "South Pacific" which will be performed on April 2 and 3 at their school.

Mrs. Frank Creamer, President, welcomed guests Miss Lorie Robison and Mrs. A. B. McDonald. Introduced as a new active member was Miss Anita Pruitt and as an associate, Mrs. Gilbert Crouse.

"A Sunday in America" was the theme of the program with Mrs. Edwin Thompson as chairman. The first portion of the program was a miniature church service. Mrs. Creamer played a medley of hymns as an organ prelude. They included "Onward Christian Soldiers," "O Sacred Head Now Wounded," "Softly and Tenderly," "What a Friend," "Old Rugged Cross," and "In the Garden."

The Federation Hymn of the Month, "Amazing Grace," was sung by the members accompanied by Mrs. Creamer. A vocal ensemble composed of Miss Fonda Fitchthorn, Mrs. James Grinstead, Mrs. John Frederick, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. William Temple, and Mrs. Creamer, accompanied by Mrs. Wayne Spengler, sang "Whispering Hope." Miss Fitchthorn read the 98th Psalm. The church portion was closed by special guest, Mrs. Damon Merritt, who sang "Stand Up for Jesus," and "Rock of Ages," accompanying herself on the auto harp.

The second portion of the program featured a Sunday afternoon Musicales. Mrs. Grinstead played several organ selections which had belonged to her grandmother: "The Wreck of the Titanic," "General Sigel's Grand March," and "Scottish Bells." Mrs. David Fabb, guest violinist, played "Beautiful Dreamer." Mrs. Merritt played and sang "When Irish Eyes are Smiling" and "That's an Irish Lullaby." Mrs. Frederick read the poem, "Sing, America, Sing." The Musicales closed with "The Sound of Music," presented by the ensemble.

The last portion of the program was a Sing-Along featuring songs which describe other Sunday activities in America. Included were weddings with I Love You Truly; bicycling in Daisy Bell; While Strolling Through the Park One Day; In my Merry Oldsmobile; Take Me out to the Ball Game; Row, Row, Row your Boat; and those who stay home and Let the Rest of the World Go By.

Following the program refreshments were served by the hostess committee, Mrs. Wayne Spengler, chairman; Mrs. Ira Barchet, Mrs. Donald Schwaigert, Mrs. Carl Meriweather, and Mrs. Edmond Woodmansee.

Jenny Adams Circle meets

Mrs. John Case welcomed the Jenny Adams Circle of the First Baptist Church to her home for the March meeting. Assisting hostesses, Mrs. Hubert Dowler, Mrs. Charles Manker and Mrs. Howard Burnett Sr., served Italian cream cake and ice cream preceding the business meeting.

Mrs. Frank Reno read "Colors of Spring" followed by roll call. Members responded with naming of Baptist mission fields, and pen sketches were presented of missionaries. Mrs. Robert West's devotions theme was "Missions," since it is Missions Month. Names of those serving in the various mission fields were given and other reports made.

Mrs. Albert Caplinger, program chairman, announced that seven large boxes of clothing had been sent to Christian centers, and that several boxes of clothing had been given to the local Church Women United center.

Mrs. John Baker announced the Baptist Women's Retreat to be held March 26 at Camp Kirkwood near Wilmington.

The annual Mother-Daughter banquet was announced for 6:30 p.m. May 15, to be held at the church.

Mrs. Myrtle Swayen presented several interesting readings from memory, "Burial of Moses," "Out of Balance," and the "Old Homeplace," an original poem written by the late Mrs. Carrie Wilt.

Cards were signed for shutins and offerings collected. Mrs. Marshall Boggs gave the closing prayer.

Association studies 'Esther'

The Women's Association of McNair Presbyterian Church met in the home of Mrs. Ted Long with Mrs. Marvin Waddle the assisting hostess. Mrs. Charles Wood, president, opened the meeting with "Look to This Day." In memory of Mrs. Faye Stult, she read "On the Other Side of Death" and "Death is only a Part of Life." She also read from the news letter concerning missionaries for 1976.

Eleven members answered roll call with things pertaining to Lent or Easter. The next meeting will be

March 22 in the home of Mrs. William Bricks, and Sewing Day was set for 10 a.m. April 29 at the church with a potluck lunch. The Spring Presbyterial was announced for March 31 at 9:30 a.m. at the Lancaster Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. John Warnecke gave an interesting Bible study on "Esther."

Refreshments were served following the Mizpah benediction. A white elephant sale was featured during the social hour.

Youth Activities

WAHANKA KA TA

The Wahanka Ka Ta Camp Fire group held a meeting at Wilson School Tuesday. We started on the Potlatch project and completed some of the decorations. Ann Sollars served treats and the next meeting, Pam Yarker, will serve them.

Two girls were present when they worked and completed items for the Potlatch decorations. The group also presented Wilson School with three Liberty Bell plaques for the three sixth-grade rooms, for Camp Fire Birthday Week in appreciation for the use of the school for their meetings. Refreshments were served by Pam Yarger.

JOLLY JILLS 4-H

Bridget Meredith, president, called the meeting of the Jolly Jills 4-H Club to order in the home of Kili Mick. Kathy Junk called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting. Reports were heard on health by Rhonda Dean entitled "A Daily Food Guide." She gave all pamphlets on the subject.

Cheryl Coil's safety report was entitled "Toward Safer Cycling." She, too, gave pamphlets to all.

Service projects of painting trash cans and volunteer program at the Memorial Hospital were discussed.

A committee was appointed to plan possible trips for the club. The committee members are Debbie McHolan, Lisa Jackson, Bridget Meredith, Kellie Mick, Rhonda Dean and Melissa Wheeler. A committee to decide new fund-raising projects is composed of Kathy Junk, Leann Mattson, Teresa Dean and Janelle Meredith.

Refreshments were served by Kellie Mick and Debbie Tice. Melissa Wheeler gave a demonstration on "Mixing Colors for Art." Debbie Tice gave a demonstration on "Meal Appeal" and Bridget Meredith gave one on "Preparing a Salad and its Dressing."

CHERRY HILL HOMEMAKERS

Jennifer Barnette called the meeting to order, and led the 4-H Pledge. All answered by naming a favorite food. Dawn Ellars made the secretary's report and Jenny Slager the treasurer's report. Merri Surritt read a health report and Jenny Slager and Merri gave a community report.

The club voted to collect for the Cancer Society, and make favors for a nursing home. Merri Surritt brought refreshments.

The next meeting will be March 23. Karen Ingram, reporter

EASTSIDE CUB PACK 20

Bear Dens 1 and 3 and Webelos Den 7, 8 and 9 met in Eastside School Thursday evening. Cubmaster Charles Starkey introduced County Engineer Charles Wagner who spoke on engineering, bridges and maps. This informative talk helped the Webelos who are working on their Engineer Activity Badge. At the close of the meeting, Mr. Wagner distributed maps of Washington C. H. and Fayette County to the Cubs.

SPOOLS & SPOONS 4-H

The Spools and Spoons 4-H Club met in the home of Mrs. J. Parker, and President Leann Sheppard conducted the meeting. Lori Wilson gave the secretary's report. Teresa Johnson read the treasurer's report. Diane Alltop presented the health report and Doreen Marks the safety report.

Julie Huff led the 4-H Pledge, and Pam Huff the Pledge of Allegiance. Doreen Marks and Kelly Knox gave a demonstration on how to make apple crisp.

The club members played records and danced. Pam Huff and Dana Cate served refreshments. The next meeting will be at 7 p.m. March 29.

Conner Farm Women meet

Mrs. Emerson Martin entertained the Conner Farm Woman's Club at her home, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. W. Barton Montgomery, president, opened the meeting by reading "So You're Going to Marry a Farmer". Mrs. R. Carleton Belt, chaplain, gave the devotion and read an interesting article concerning St. Patrick's Day in Ireland. The Club Creed was read in unison. Mrs. Lorain Morter, secretary-treasurer read the minutes and gave the roll call. Each member responded by telling "Your Irish Heritage". Cards of thanks were read from Cassandra Delay and Lelia Palmer. A letter was read by Mrs. Morter from the Veterans Administration announcing Hospital Day for Sunday, May 2. Mrs. Montgomery announced the April roll call would be "The Time You Made the Biggest Fool Out of Yourself".

Mrs. Maryon Mark, program chairman, turned the program over to Mrs. Marting, who in turn introduced Mrs. Richard Wintringham. Mrs. Wintringham, assisted by Mrs. Marting, told of the proper skin care and the correct use of the art of make-up. Their models for the demonstration were Mrs. Mark, Mrs. Belt, Mrs. Russell Lanman, Mrs. Maurice Sollars, Mrs. Heber Deer, Mrs. Kenneth Bush, and Mrs. Anna Smith.

At the close of the afternoon, Mrs. Marting served St. Patrick's Day refreshments to Mrs. Belt, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Orville Bush, Mrs. Robert I. Case, Mrs. Robert D. Coffman, Mrs. Deer, Mrs. Lanman, Mrs. Mark, Mrs. W. Barton Montgomery, Mrs. Jean S. Nisley, Mrs. William D. Shepard, Mrs. Millard H. Weidinger, Mrs. Edgar Wilson, Mrs. Otties Smith, Mrs. Sollars, Mrs. Job Burris, Sabina, Mrs. Loraine Morter of Greenfield, and guest Mrs. Wintringham.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Russell Lanman with Mrs. Orville Bush, program chairman.

Lisa Maddux guest of honor at party

Miss Lisa Ellen Maddux, daughter of Mrs. Mariellen Maddux, 611 Sycamore St., celebrated her 15th birthday this week at a dinner in her home. The center of attraction was a beautifully decorated cake inscribed with "Happy Birthday" with pink and purple flowers.

Guests present were Larry Hunter, Richard Humphrey, Sandra and Sonya Wills, her mother, and Lisa's sister, Stephanie, and Dr. Ned D. Abbott.

After the opening of many gifts, the remainder of the evening was spent dancing to records, and the serving of pizza and soft drinks.

Lisa is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Shaw, 465 Carolyn Rd., and the great-granddaughter of Mrs. Opal Exline of the Margaret Clark Oakfield Convalescent Home.

Energy problems due to federal regulations?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Switch on the gas stove, start the car, turn down the heat from the oil furnace. These everyday activities are all touched by the federal energy regulators.

From the price on the gasoline pump to how warm a home is in winter, the regulators' decisions affect the costs and availability of energy in this country.

Indirectly, the energy regulators' decisions affect the surf and sand of a summer vacation and the purity of the air.

The energy regulators, created to shield consumers from industry abuses role in setting base prices for oil and and monopoly price gouging, make up a major portion of Washington's alphabet soup — FPC, FEA, NRC, BLM, EPA, FTC, ICC.

From the consumers' level, federal regulators seem to have little impact. None of the federal energy regulators has a direct consumer price authority like the Civil Aeronautics Board does on airline fares. Such visible consumer impact is wielded by state and local regulators — mostly utility commissions.

But federal energy regulators play a natural gas and in providing incentives for marketing some types of energy.

Industry critics blame federal agencies in part for recent energy shortages and warn of more severe shortages to come unless regulatory policies are changed.

Although these broad charges do not always withstand close scrutiny, they do cast a harsh light on one fact — energy regulations have a cost.

NATURAL GAS

Perhaps the single most controversial energy regulation today is the Federal Power Commission's control of prices charged for natural gas by producers to interstate pipelines.

The nation is faced with a growing shortage of natural gas, which industry spokesmen repeatedly blame on "22 years of federal regulation."

In fact, there is evidence the shortage had other important causes: heavy industry promotion of gas usage, disappointing production from overrated fields and the shift of exploration in the 1960s from the United States to the Middle East and other low-cost areas.

But the accusation against federal regulation has gained legitimacy in recent years as inflation accelerated drilling costs.

The wheels of federal regulation grind slowly. By the time the FPC is ready to authorize price increases, costs may have soared even higher.

For example, Pennzoil Producing Co. asked the FPC in 1973 to approve natural gas sales at 47 cents per thousand cubic feet. But the commission balked, demanding actual cost figures.

Two years later, after studying the figures, an FPC examiner concluded Pennzoil really needed 65 cents a thousand. But, by then, the company wanted 80 cents.

Price increases granted in recent years by the FPC for gas at the well have shown up later as price increases on the homeowner's gas bill. But such federally approved hikes are not even the major factor in soaring gas bills.

Industry statistics show that, since 1969, the national average price of natural gas at the well has added about $30 to the average annual gas bill. But, in the same period, the average bill has actually jumped a total of $82.

This means about two-thirds of the increased prices paid by gas consumers reflect increases in costs all down the distribution system and not just the wellhead price rises.

The industry complains that federal regulation simply cannot adjust prices quickly and fairly enough to stimulate all out exploration for new gas supplies.

And the nation does face a deepening shortage of natural gas — temporarily disguised this winter by a slow economy, availability of substitute fuels and mild weather.

The Federal Energy Administration estimated gas supplies were 11 per cent below needs in 1975 and projected a 16 per cent shortage for this year — a shortfall that might not be cushioned again by the economy or the weather.

The industry's solution is for Congress to end federal price regulation of natural gas.

If the industry is right, the consumer will pay more for gas — perhaps a lot more — but a reliable supply will be assured.

But what if the industry is wrong?

Oil

In the 1950's, Arab oil was cheaper than U.S. oil, and the domestic producers wanted protection against a raid on their customers. They got it in 1959 when President Dwight D. Eisenhower imposed a quota limiting oil imports.

But domestic oil production has dwindled until the United States now depends on foreign sources for nearly 40 per cent of its oil, the dependency that made the 1973 Arab oil embargo possible.

Some industry spokesmen now blame the very quota system, imposed for their protection, for driving domestic production down.

They say the quota system was not tight enough, that it let in too much foreign oil. And they say the threat of larger quotas was used to keep domestic producers from raising their prices higher, and earning the profits they claim were needed for exploration at home.

The quotas were removed in 1973 because the nation simply needed all the oil imports it could get.

But while they lasted, did the quotas protect consumer from high prices, or did they discourage domestic supply and set him up for even higher prices once the foreign producer's cartel was in the driver's seat?

Another dilemma of energy regulation.

Sentencing slated in factory arson

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Six men convicted of plotting to blow up a Shelton factory a year ago are scheduled to be sentenced today in U.S. District Court.

They are the Rev. David N. Bubar of Memphis, Tenn., Peter Betres and his distant cousin, Ronald Betres, both of Butler Pa.; Dennis C. Tiche of Boyers, Pa.; Anthony Just, Greensburg, Pa., and Albert R. Coffey, Akron, Ohio.

They were among 10 men originally indicted in connection with the March 1975 dynamiting of the Sponge Rubber Products Co. plant. The FBI has called it the costliest arson case the bureau has investigated.

Bubar, who claims to be a psychic, Peter Betres and Tiche were convicted early this year of four arson-related counts. They could receive prison sentences as long as 30 years, but shorter terms are expected.

Just, Coffey and Ronald Betres were convicted of two of the four counts against them and could be sentenced to up to 10 years. They also were indicted recently on first-degree kidnapping charges filed by the state in the same case. They and six others face state charges ranging from kidnapping to burglary.

Bubar, an ordained Baptist minister who was an adviser to the president of Sponge Rubber's parent company at the time of the blast, was accused of paying $35,000 in company funds to eight other arsonists.

The president Charles C. Moeller of Cridersville, Ohio, also was indicted but was acquitted. He heads Ohio Decorative Products Co. of Spencer-ville, Ohio.

The government's star witness, John Shaw of Pennsylvania, was allowed to plead guilty to reduced charges after he agreed to testify against the others. His sentencing date has not yet been set.

Of the two remaining defendants, one was acquitted and the other, Michael Tiche of Boyers, Pa., is awaiting word on whether he will be retried. Proceedings against him ended in a mistrial.

Meanwhile, Moeller's company has filed two lawsuits totaling nearly $74 million against insurance companies and brokers involved in policies issued on the Shelton plant. Claims for damages were rejected after Moeller and the other nine men were indicted.

Weekend road toll reaches 8

By The Associated Press

Ohio traffic accidents claimed at least eight lives over the weekend, one less than the previous weekend, the Highway Patrol reported. There were no multiple death accidents.

The weekend count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

A high pressure system covering the Great Lakes and extending through the middle Mississippi Valley to east Texas should bring clear skies and moderating temperatures to Ohio in the next few days.

Skies cleared over much of the state overnight with clouds remaining only in the northeast. Temperatures ranged from a low of 13 at Toledo to 23 at Youngstown and readings in the low 30s along the Ohio River.

Fair Wednesday and Friday and a chance of showers Thursday. Highs during the period in the 60s and low 70s. Lows in the upper 30s and 40s.

LEGAL NOTICE REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS

COMPREHENSIVE MANPOWER PROGRAMS

Notice is hereby given that the Regional Manpower Services Council, Area 4, is requesting proposals for FY 77 Manpower Programs. Programs are funded through Title I money authorized by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 (CETA). As a component of CETA, the general purpose of Title I programs is to provide job training and employment opportunities for economically disadvantaged, unemployed and underemployed persons and to assure that these services lead to maximum employment opportunities. Economically disadvantaged persons have been chosen as the primary priority group for the RMSC plan. Within this group, other priority groups to be served include, but are not limited to: unemployed heads of household; youth in-school, ages 14-18; youth out-of-school, ages 14-18; disabled; older workers, age 55 or older; and, veterans (within each of the above groups). The Council has established the following goals for FY 77: 1) to establish marketable skills for economically disadvantaged persons within the region so they can become and remain competitive job seekers in the labor market; 2) continuation of subsidized employment to persons chronically disabled by the mainstream of jobs in this region in order to prepare the participant for placement in an unsubsidized position; 3) emphasis on expanding training opportunities to affect long-range solutions to the expanding unemployed, underemployed, and disadvantaged population of Region 4. Any individual or organization may submit a proposal; however, the regulations disallow the funding of a program which would produce profit for the contractor. Geographic area to be served is RMSC 6: Clinton, Fairfield, Fayette, Madison, Pickaway, and Union Counties. Applications may be obtained from your county's Community Action Program office. Further information may be obtained from the CAP office, From John Borrowman, RMSC 4 Chairman at (513) 382-8345, or from Barbara Thall, RMSC 6 Field Representative at (414) 444-8238 or 1-800-382-1050 (toll free). Completed applications should be returned to Chester White, Planning Coordinator, Office of Manpower Development, 30 East Broad St., 27th Floor, Columbus, Ohio 43215, no later than April 9, 1976. Proposals must be submitted in triplicate in the form provided by request. Mar. 22, 29 - April 5.

Prevention week observed

Poison among top child killers

This week's observance of National Poison Prevention Week, March 21-27 is a reminder that man is still attempting to remedy an age-old emergency medical problem.

Today thousands of children are accidentally poisoned each year through the ingestion of common household substances such as cleaning agents, laundry detergents, furniture polishes, medicines, cosmetics, petroleum products such as gasoline and turpentine, and garden chemicals.

The theme for 1976 poison prevention week, "Children Act Fast... So Can Poison," points to the heart of the problem, according to the Council on Family Health.

Small children, especially those between ages one and three, are naturally inquisitive. This tendency, says the council, places an unavoidable responsibility on parents to keep youngsters away from household items that can tempt their instincts to touch and taste.

Most parents strive to prevent accidents through close supervision of their children. But few adults also consider the basic safety of the home environment from day to day and in the course of using and storing potentially toxic substances.

As a result, despite educational efforts and the increasingly widespread use of child-resistant packaging or

"safety caps," poisonings continue to rank among the five leading causes of death to children under age five.

To help make National Poison Prevention Week of year-round benefit to families with small children, the council, a non-profit, public service organization sponsored by the manufacturers of medicines, offer these tips to homemakers —

—At spring cleaning time, and routinely during the year, survey the home from room to room to be sure all potentially toxic products are stored where children can't reach them;

—Examine medicines and other substances to determine whether any items are no longer being used and may be discarded.

One mishap involves pedestrian

North-Court intersection site of several accidents

A number of traffic accidents, all without major injuries, were reported over the week-end. Washington C.H. police officers reported three different accidents which occurred around the intersection of North and Court streets.

Mary L. Summers of 2663 Snow Hill Rd., told police officers that as she was in the crosswalk on Noth Street when she was struck by a hitskip vehicle which had just turned from Court Street onto North Street at 10:32 p.m. Saturday. She said she was knocked down, but suffered only bruises.

Lloyd E. Burlile, 37, of Bloomingburg, was southbound on North Street when he failed to stop for a red light at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, and struck a car driven by William D. Smith, 19, of 10B Wagner Court who was eastbound on Court Street. There was moderate damage to both vehicles. Burlile was cited for a red light violation.

A car driven by Steven E. Beverly, 20, of 510 S. North St., struck a residential tree after swerving to avoid striking an unidentified pickup truck that was in the process of backing from a space on S. North Street, just south of East Street. The 6:14 p.m. Saturday accident resulted in moderate damage to Beverly's car.

Voretta J. Morris, 25, of Jamestown, was in the process of turning west onto Columbus Avenue, when she turned into the path of an eastbound car driven by Ralph A. Vance 41, of Hillsboro. The 2:30 p.m. Sunday accident, which occurred near the Washington Square east entrance, caused moderate damage to Vance's car, and Voretta Morris was cited for failing to yield.

Another accident that occurred at the Washington Square Parking Lot at 4:13 p.m. Sunday, involved slight damage to two cars. Alfred C. Swearingen, 19, of Woodstock was traveling westbound in the lot when he struck a car parked and belonging to Betty G. Hill, of West Jefferson.

The Washington Senior High School parking lot was the scene of an 11:30 p.m. Saturday accident where Donald L. French, 18, of 146 Hawthorne Dr., backed into a parked car belonging to Edgar G. DeWeese, 18, of 210 McKinley Ave. There was moderate damage to both vehicles.

A car belonging to Robert P. Harris of 651 Warren Ave., and parked in front of his residence, was reportedly struck by a hitskip vehicle sometime Saturday night. There was slight damage to the Harris car which had been sideswiped, police officers stated.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that David Rankin, 23, of Rt. 4, was pulling an empty horse trailer on the Old Springfield Road, when it came loose one and a half miles north of U.S. 22 at 1:25 a.m. Sunday. The trailer went off the right side of the road, damaging two rods of fence in the process. There was slight damage to the trailer.

A car driven by Dorothy D. Smith, 17, of Hillsboro, was traveling south on Ohio 753 when, as she was trying to pass a car driven by Frederick M. Schultz, 64, of Grove City, she lost control of the vehicle. Her car then struck Schultz's vehicle on the right side and veered to the left of the road, striking a fence. There was moderate damage to both cars in the 4:50 p.m. Saturday accident, and the Hillsboro woman was cited for reckless operation.

As Norman A. Garringer, 22, of Leesburg was eastbound on the Miami

Trace Road at 7:15 p.m. Sunday, a deer came into his path from the south side of the roadway, and was struck. The accident occurred about a mile east of the Rock Mills Good Hope Road, and there was moderate damage to Garringer's car. The injured animal ran from the roadway and could not be located.

Land Bank holds annual meet

Approximately 400 Land Bank members and guests attended the Federal Land Bank annual meeting held Thursday.

Members attending elected Karl E. Krieger, 9983 Jeffersonville-W. Lancaster Rd., as well as Roger McFadden and Donald Lynch of Clinton County to serve three-year terms on the board of directors.

Director's terms which did not expire included those of Gene M. Gustin, Anderson Rd., Leslie S. Laird and Bernard Conway of Madison County and Fred Cowman of Clinton County.

Special recognition was given to Clinton County farmer, Herbert M. Peterson, who had served as a member of the Federal Land Bank Association of Washington C.H. Board of Director's for 30 years. Letters of recognition were presented to Peterson and he was also presented with a plaque.

Featured speaker of the meeting was Dr. John Moore, Extension-Economist Farm Management of Ohio State University. Dr. Moore's speech was on Estate Planning.

The group also heard reports from Ronald D. Ratliff, manager; Fred Cowman, president of board of directors; Press S. Alexander, assistant manager and Charles Wehner, nominating committee chairman.

The Federal Land Bank of Washington C. H., provides long term credit to farmers in this area to purchase or improve farm land and buildings, including facilities of a specialized nature, to provide homes, refinance indebtedness and other eligible purposes.

Blacks fail to attract candidate

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National Black Political Assembly is determined to run an independent political campaign for the presidency, but it has misfired on both of its choices to do the job.

Within a week, Georgia State legislator Julian Bond and U.S. Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., both praised what the assembly was trying to accomplish in attempting to "pose the alternative," but both men declined the nomination.

Bond, even before he turned down the bid last Monday, expressed doubts about the effectiveness of the third party effort this late in the campaign. He did come, however, to address the convention at the urging of its chairman Ron Daniels, of Youngstown, Ohio.

Dellums, who said he rejected an endorsement a year ago, was again thrust into the forefront of consideration following Bond's decision and admits he spent an agonizing 72 hours before declining the nomination in an emotional speech to the convention Saturday night, minutes after receiving his formal endorsement.

"This is not my role and this is not my moment," Dellums told the convention, "but if I ever do decide to run, it will be with you."

The 40-year-old Dellums said personal reasons and the contradiction that would develop from running both an independent presidential campaign and being a Democratic congressman from California's 8th Congressional District forced him to decline the nomination.

The convention briefly contemplated organizing a draft to pressure Dellums to accept but Sunday decided to adjourn and continue its search for a candidate to lead its effort.

Steel mills feel pressure of buying

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steel industry sources say hedge buying against price increases and a possible Teamsters strike have put more pressure on flat-rolled mill facilities.

Industry Week magazine said today the flat-rolled facilities are expected to be humming at 90 to 95 per cent of capacity this month and in April.

And the trade publication said steel firms report that requirements in the remainder of the second quarter "will push that figure even higher."

The magazine said it started with "an extremely strong surge of buying from automotive companies for January delivery."

"That has intensified. Then, container makers took more steel in hedging against a February price increase, and their ordering has remained strong."

Now, IW reported, steelmakers "suspect more pressure is being added to sheetmaking capacity" by hedging against expected increases in prices of flat-rolled products and the possibility of a Teamsters strike "that would take steel hauling trucks off the road."

King Kong actor still has flair

CHICAGO (AP) — King Kong is alive, well and happy as a security guard for a Chicago insurance company.

"It was me in my gorilla suit up on top of the Empire State Building, clutching Fay Wray in one hand or putting her gently on a ledge and knocking down attacking planes until the bullets got me," says Carmen Nigro, recalling the memorable, final scene of the 1933 movie classic, King Kong.

"Of course, what I was on was an eight-foot model on the RKO stage with a backdrop of New York City," said the man who was known for 25 years as the Hollywood Apeman.

"Fay Wray was an animated doll. Planes were projected on the backdrop. There were a few little gasoline-powered planes hooked on wires that were aimed around me. I wore fur-covered ballet slippers with rubber suction pads on the bottom. I looked 50 feet tall."

Nigro, whose professional name was Ken Rood, is a lively 71-year-old who still can mimic the shuffle of an ape. He appeared as a stuntman in about 100 movies and played a gorilla in 33 others.

A barrel-chested 5-foot-6, Nigro was the hairy beast in Mighty Joe Young, The Unholy Three, Tarzan and His Mate, Night of Horror and Ape Man Nabonga. His last gorilla movie was Gorilla At Large in 1954.

Nigro said he studied the way an ape moves when he accompanied the late

Frank Buck, the animal collector, on two jungle trips.

"I was ready when I heard RKO was looking for a gorilla man in 1931 to play the title role of King Kong," said Nigro. "I had to beat out a couple of other guys. I was the most realistic and besides I paid $3,500 to have a gorilla suit made out of six bear skins. I still have it at home but it's in pretty bad shape now."

"The hardest part of the job was withstanding the heat buildup inside the suit. I'd have to take the head off every 10 minutes to get my breath. Over the years I wore out eight Kong heads and 10 sets of arms and extension hands."

For his part as King Kong, one of the most famous roles in movie history, Nigro said he was paid $7,500, "and when you deduct the cost of the costume, I netted only $4,000."

Nigro now lives in a small apartment in Cicero, a Chicago suburb. He says producers would not let him use the name King Kong in the girl-and-gorilla acts he took across the country. He also worked as a dining car cook on the Sante Fe Railroad, finally became a chef and retired in 1970 after 32 years of service. He said he gets no money when King Kong or some of the other old movies he appeared in are on television.

They are remaking King Kong now in Hollywood, but Nigro says he is through with gorillas. "I'm just happy being a security guard and having my memories," he said.

HAYES MUSEUM — Visitors at the Hayes Museum stop to look at an exhibit on the military life of President Hayes when he was a general in the Union Army during the Civil War.

Located outside Sandusky

Hayes Memorial offers insight to Ohio history

Ohio has figured significantly in America's past 200 years, supplying the country with no less than eight U.S. Presidents.

One of them was Rutherford B. Hayes, elected to office during the nation's first centennial celebration in 1876. The beautifully preserved estate in Fremont, where he lived prior to and following his years at the White House, is now a state memorial offering vacationers an intimate insight into the lifestyle of the former chief executive and his family.

Located 21 miles southwest of Sandusky, nestled in a wooded plot on the outskirts of town, "Spiegel Grove" stands a century apart from the concrete and steel of our modern day architecture.

Here, is the well-furnished house that Sardis Birchard purchased for his promising young nephew and his family in 1846. Looking much smaller in old prints of Birchard's time, the "modernization" of the home, can be largely attributed to Hayes. Here he lived with his wife and three sons during his second term as governor of Ohio, until 1877, when he left Spiegel Grove and headed for Washington to become America's 19th President.

Agreeing to serve only one term in office, he returned to his Ohio home in 1880, but not before building another substantial addition and remodeling the interior of the older section. At 51, Hayes, far from "retirement" was kept busy raising his youngest son and daughter, and, as a speaker on prison reform, was in popular demand.

In 1889, he made further changes to the home, adding a large dining room and several rooms upstairs. Living as a private citizen and keeping out of public observation, his remaining twelve years in Fremont were happy ones, as his last wish to a friend testified: "I would rather die at Spiegel Grove than to live anywhere else."

Today, softened by age, the gracious four-story brick home is made even more so by the collection of personal belongings of the Hayes family. Inside, the tastes, traditions and the quality of life that grew out of a more romantic era, have been preserved for 20th century visitors.

Although not an ostentatious home, the dignified portraits, gas-burning chandeliers, ornate brass door knobs and fifteen fireplaces found throughout the rooms, indicate that the owners were a family of wealth and importance.

Outside, the spacious grounds of the estate contain as much history as the home it surrounds. A section of the famous Sandusky-Scioto Indian trail follows one of the major drives, running along the southern portion of the estate. Used by the French and Indians in their war against the British, it later became a supply trail for William Henry Harrison during the War of 1812. Winding through the estate for nearly half a mile, the trail provides visitors a scenic walk through the well-landscaped grounds.

Dennis seeks re-election

Ohio Senator Max H. Dennis (R-Wilmington) today announced the filing of petitions and his candidacy for re-election to the Senate subject to the June 8 primary election.

Dennis presently represents the Tenth Ohio Senate District which comprises all of Greene and Madison Counties, the greater portion of Fayette Clinton, and Highland Counties, and the city of Springfield, together with the southwest portion of Clark County including Enon and New Carlisle.

He has served in the Ohio Senate since 1963, originally by appointment, and has been successfully re-elected in 1964, 1966, 1968, and 1972.

Dennis is currently one of the senior Republican members of the Ohio Senate and is the ranking minority member of the Senate finance committee. He also serves on the health and retirement and the elections, financial institutions, and insurance committees.

One of Senator Dennis's current key assignments is upon the State Controlling Board which supervises the allocation and release of funds for all of the various state departments and agencies as well as approving contracts for the construction of state buildings and the hiring of architects and consultants.

He holds the distinction of being the only Republican chairman of a committee in the General Assembly under Democrat control. He heads the Legislative Budget Committee, comprised of both House and Senate members, whose responsibility is to study and recommend improvements in the various aspects of the state fiscal system.

During his period of service in the Ohio Senate he has served on a variety of special projects and select committees such as the Ohio Tax Study Committee, the Task Force on Higher Education, the Legislative Service Commission, the Select Committee to Investigate the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, and the Interstate Cooperation Commission.

In addition to his Senate duties, he also maintains a law practice in Wilmington. A graduate of Wilmington High School and Washington and Lee University, he and his family reside on a farm in the Clinton County community.

Toledo Edison hearings delayed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hearings on Toledo Edison's proposal to build two additional nuclear units at the Davis-Besse nuclear power station in Ottawa County have been postponed by an Ohio Power Siting Commission administrative law judge.

The delay from May 4 to July 6 was granted by Ralph E. Nusken as a result of a request by Toledo Edison Co. for additional time to answer commission questions. Nusken gave Toledo Edison until April 5 to provide the data.

Plan programs about nature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Five weekend programs on nature awareness and outdoor recreation are planned this spring by the natural resources department.

The first workshop, to study wildflowers, is scheduled April 23-25 at John Bryan State Park in Greene County.

Local group sponsors medical training class

A group of Washington C. H. area citizens concerned about a shortage of trained medical technicians in Fayette County have formed the Fayette County Emergency Medical Service.

Their goal is to increase the number of area residents who are trained to cope with emergencies and provide on-the-spot medical assistance.

In accordance with this goal, the group has obtained the services of Phillip Brewer, an employee at Mac Tool, Inc., who is a certified as an emergency medical technician instructor.

He will hold medical training classes each Tuesday night beginning April 13. Ralston Smith, Fayette County Disaster Services director, said a site for the classes has not yet been selected.

Smith, who has served as spokesman for the Fayette County Emergency Medical Service, said the program will consist of 60 hours of training. The class will convene for approximately four hours each night. The weekly meetings may continue for as long as four months.

Tuition has not yet been established, but Smith estimated that it would be $10-$15 per enrollee. Those who are interested in participating may contact 335-4608 or 335-2590 to register or obtain additional information.

Smith said the group was prompted to action by a report of the Ohio Bureau of Information Services which cites deficiencies in skilled areas for each of Ohio's counties. Among those listed for Fayette County was a shortage of emergency medical service technicians.

PTO slates school fair

The Madison Mills Parent-Teacher Organization will hold its annual "Fun Fair" Saturday, March 27.

The cafeteria will open from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. when sandwiches, salads, pie, pizza, coffee and soft drinks will be served.

The game area will be open from 6 to 9 p.m. These games will include cake walks, basketball and football throw, fish pond, rifle match, cartoon movies and bingo.

Drawings for a $50 and $25 Savings Bonds will be held at 9 p.m. All proceeds from the Fair will be used to purchase a duplicating machine and other items for the school.

Wilson School spelling bee

Wilson Elementary School held a Spelling Bee last week with Mrs. Vicki Leasure serving as spelling judge.

The winners were Emily Engle, fifth grade; Steve Main and Ann Sollars, sixth grade. The top three students in the school received a plaque and will participate in the Miami Trace Spelling Bee March 27.

Huntington Notes Our America

MEDICINE IN THE COLONIAL ERA

by Pauline Thornton

When old Doctor Hillman called on a patient and left some medicine, he'd say: "If the dose I've prescribed doesn't have any effect, take a double dose. Then you'll either be better or worse, or you'll be about the same."

As this anecdote suggests, the practice of medicine throughout the colonial period was pretty much a "hit-and-miss" affair.

Another medical man, Dr. John Arms of Brattleboro, Vermont, was likewise skeptical about his ability to cure disease. Of his own illnesses, he said, "I live on corn meal pudding until my disease gets disgusted and leaves me."

The first doctors in this rather "dark era" of colonial medicine were the local ministers. These clergymen-physicians tended the souls as well as the bodies of the sick. The difficulty of importing medical supplies led them to use native plants and to imitate the practices of Indian medicine. The common cold, for example, was treated with "Wormwood, Sage, Marygolds and Crabs-claws boiled in posset drink."

According to the medical observer John Josselyn, the residents of Massachusetts in the late seventeenth century combatted the dread disease smallpox, which "carried away abundance of their children," with pills of cotton which they swallowed, with sugar and salad oil boiled thick and made into pills, and with alioes taken in the pap of an apple.

From the Indians, the colonists learned to prepare a great variety of purgatives. Already a favorite Old World cure-all, the emetic or laxative was used to rid the body of almost any disease or poison. Induced sweating and bloodletting were also practiced widely and indiscriminately.

Josselyn says of the Indian practice of sweating that after sitting next to a great fire, the smallpox victims "run into the Sea of River." Soon after, "they come to their Huts again where they either recover or give up the Ghost."

In the early eighteenth century, theories of sympathetic medicine gave rise to a number of peculiar practices. During epidemics, many colonists carried little boxes, each containing a spider and a toad. Both of these supposedly venomous creatures would draw the contagion away from the carrier and protect him from disease.

So much quackery abounded in connection with this medical theory that one Revolutionary Almanack maker proclaimed: "From quack lawyers, quack doctors, mad dogs and yellow fever, Good Lord, deliver us!"

During the Revolution itself, military conditions favored the spread of fevers and the pox and pointed up the complete insufficiency of all the usual cures. The founding father, John Adams, wrote that smallpox was "ten times more terrible than Britons, Canadians and Indians together." It was, in fact, the chief killer during the Revolution.

The diaries of army physicians contain everything from complaints to Congress for its failure to supply adequate staff and supplies (nurses were paid one-fifteenth of a dollar per day), to vivid accounts of death from disease on the front. Dr. Lewis Beebe of the Canadian campaign reports that "No mortal will ever believe what these suffered unless they were eye witnesses." His diary records the daily death toll of hundreds of soldiers herded into large barns, while he himself "had not one article calculated for their assistance."

It was Dr. Benjamin Rush, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, who finally restored some order to the chaos. He had been shocked by the sight of feverish soldiers lying uncovered on the cold October ground Moved to compassion by the sight of so much suffering ("My heart is almost broken at seeing the distresses of my countrymen without a power to remedy them"), Dr. Rush instituted sane medical reforms. He focused especially on the dress, diet, cleanliness, and encampment of American soldiers.

Men like Rush, who emphasized sanitary conditions and inoculation, lead America out of the dark ages of medical practice.

Prep basketball semifinals

By GEORGE STRODE

AP Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "People said it was a fluke last year. We've got something to prove," said Jene Davis, who led Columbus Linden-McKinley to the Ohio Class AAA state tournament title last spring.

Davis hit the jackpot in his first head high school basketball coaching season in 1975, leading a quick, short team all the way.

So the Panthers are back in their customary underdog role. Their 21-3 record is the poorest of the four big school semifinalists. And they were ranked 10th statewide to Barberton's No. 2, Toledo Scott's No. 3 and Middletown's No. 5.

"We snuck up on everybody last year. We've had a lot of pressure this time. Our kids have a lot of confidence from winning last year," said the young, intense Davis.

Linden-McKinley is rematched with seven-time state champion Middletown (22-2) at 11 a.m. Friday. Barberton's 24-0 Magics and Scott's 23-0 Bulldogs battle in the other AAA semifinal at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

The two games are part of a three-day spectacle in Ohio State's St. John Arena to crown Ohio's 53rd state boys champions.

In opening Class AA semifinals Thursday, third-ranked Lorain Catholic (24-0) tangles with Brookfield (23-1) at 6 p.m. while No. 4 Wellsville

(22-0) goes against Dayton Roth (20-5) at 9:30 p.m.

In Class A semifinals Friday, Arcanum, ranked second and 25-0, bids for its third state title against Pettisville (24-1) at 6 p.m. Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South (23-1), the 1972 Ohio victor playing in its fifth straight state semifinals, tests Windham (20-4) at 9:30 p.m.

The title contests will be played Saturday with the AA finale at 11:30 a.m., the AAA championship at 3 p.m. and the A windup at 7:30 p.m.

Linden-McKinley has only one regular back from its 1975 championship squad, but he's all-state guard Todd Penn, the spindly, swift Panthers' acknowledged team leader.

"He can do whatever it is necessary to win games," Davis promised of his 5-foot-9 junior guard. "He could score 35 points a game if we played that way."

Paul Walker, who has coached five of Middletown's unprecedented seven state titles, guided 17 of his 30 teams into regional play, but this is his first state semifinal appearance since 1959. Aware of that, Ohio Commissioner Harold Meyer shook his hand at a meeting of state coaches Sunday and said, "Welcome back, Kotter."

The 64-year-old Walker, his career victory total at Middletown up to 694, concedes Butch Carter and "our great improvement over the season" are the reasons for his return to the state semifinals.

"Carter and Lucas are the two best players I ever coached. But they were in different categories. Lucas was the best high school player ever to come out of Ohio," said Walker.

Carter, a 6-5 senior forward, has the all the tools that major colleges look for, too. He's averaged nearly 24 points in the Middles' 24 games this winter.

Barberton Coach Jack Greynolds, who has produced 21 straight winning seasons in his career, took a look at his starting five of four boys 6-1 and another at 5-7.

"We've got to be the smallest team ever to play in the state tournament," he said. "With that size, we should be in a junior high tournament. But we play bigger when they throw the ball up."

The Magics, pressing full court defensively and running on offense, have sped by four big, powerful teams in a row, Akron Central-Hower, Akron East, Cleveland East Tech and No. 1 Canton McKinley.

"We forced something like 38 turnovers by McKinley," said Greynolds proudly of his team's 77-70 conquest of the Canton powerhouse in a regional championship Saturday.

A Toledo school never has won an Ohio basketball championship. That, however, does not ruffle tall Ben Williams, the coach of Scott.

"No, it doesn't bother me," said Williams. "It's encouraging to me." In 6-7 second-team All-Ohioan Donald Collins, Barberton's shorties will tangle with another tall, talented star.

Collins averaged nearly 19 points and 11 rebounds and led the Bulldogs in assists and blocked shots and was second in steals, helping Scott to the Toledo city championship.

Miami Trace sets cage all-star game

A junior high school all-star basketball game will be held Tuesday night at Miami Trace High School.

The contest will match a north all-star squad composed of eighth graders at Jeffersonville and Bloomington against a south squad from Wayne, Eber and New Holland.

The junior high school contest will begin at 7 p.m. and a game between non-varsity juniors and non-varsity seniors at Miami Trace will begin at 8:15 p.m.

The finals of the high school's one-on-one competition will be held between games. A donation of 50 cents for children and $1 for adults will be collected at the door.

Owls upset Gears, 6-4

By The Associated Press

The Columbus Owls, in the cellar of the International Hockey League South Division, upset the North Division-leading Saginaw Gears 6-4 Sunday night in an IHL game at Saginaw.

Steve Lyon had three goals to pace the Owls, now 24-45-7. The loss dropped the Gears to 41-24-9.

In other IHL games Sunday, Muskegon and Flint fought to a 2-2 tie.

UCLA, Indiana rematch

By ALEX SACHARE

AP Sports Writer

Gene Bartow remembers the first time UCLA played Indiana this season. It's not a very pleasant memory, but it's one he's getting a chance to erase.

"It was my first game at UCLA," said the man who stepped into the shoes of the legendary John Wooden as coach of the Bruins. "It meant so much to me, the pressure that was on me was extended to our players. I think we were over-prepared."

Indiana overran UCLA 84-64 in that season opener in St. Louis Nov. 29, the Hoosiers' first triumph in a perfect string of 30 so far this year. The Bruins, meanwhile, stumbled through the early part of their schedule but then put the pieces together to win the Pacific-8 title and a berth in the NCAA tournament, where they are defending the title they won 10 of the past 12 years under Wooden.

Bartow will get a chance to wipe out the memory of that initial defeat Saturday when Indiana and UCLA square off again in the NCAA semifinals at the Spectrum in Philadelphia. It's the second game of a doubleheader that will be nationally televised (NBC, 2 p.m., EST), with Rutgers, 31-0, and Michigan, 24-6, meeting in the first semifinal. The winners meet in the final Monday night, March 29.

If top-ranked Indiana's 65-56 triumph over No. 2 Marquette in the Midwest Regional Saturday was the Game of the Year, the UCLA-Indiana matchup must rate as the Rematch of the Year.

The last time, All-American center Kent Benson of Indiana was the dominant factor, controlling play at both ends of the court. But since then, 6-foot-10 freshman David Greenwood has replaced 7-2 senior Ralph Drollinger as UCLA's starting pivotman, and Bartow hopes the two of them will be enough to contain Benson.

Also on display in the big rematch will be two of the game's premier forwards, Scott May of Indiana and Richard Washington of UCLA. The 6-foot-7 May is a first-team All-American and college basketball's Player of the Year, while the 6-10½ Washington was a second-team All-American.

Both played prominent roles in Saturday's regional finals.

Washington scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead fifth-ranked UCLA, 26-4, past 15th-ranked Arizona 82-66 in the West Regional on UCLA's home floor, Pauley Pavilion. The game was tied 58-58 with eight minutes left before UCLA broke it open with 12 consecutive points, Washington getting two baskets and an assist in the burst.

May picked up three personal fouls in the first 6½ minutes of Indiana's game against Marquette at Baton Rouge, La., and sat out the rest of the first half. But he came back in the second half to help his team to its 64th victory in the last 65 games.

The red-hot Hoosiers hit 15 of their first 21 shots from the field and raced to an early 30-19 lead before Marquette closed to 36-35 at halftime. The Hoosiers built a 10-point lead midway through the second half, but again the Warriors rallied.

Wildcats capture NIT championship

NEW YORK (AP) — The North Carolina-Charlotte 49ers took three bites of the "Big Apple" — but couldn't get the fourth down.

After delicious victories over the University of San Francisco, Oregon and North Carolina State, time finally ran out Sunday for the cinderella team of the 1976 National Invitation Tournament.

"I think we did a tremendous job and I'm really proud of my team," said North Carolina-Charlotte Coach Lee Rose after losing the NIT finals 71-67 to the red-hot Kentucky Wildcats. "I think you must keep in mind that Kentucky's got three high school All-Americans on their team — and we have none."

The unheralded 49ers had a seven-point lead with ten minutes left in the game and the opportunity to knock off one of college basketball's traditional powers. But strangely, they went into a slowdown while Kentucky's entire starting front line was sitting on the bench in foul trouble.

"When they started backing off," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall, "that was just fine with us. We appreciated that."

Eventually Mike Phillips, Jack Givens and James Lee — all of them saddled with four fouls — came back into the game to help Kentucky win the 39th NIT title.

The Wildcats, who landed in the finals at Madison Square Garden with close victories over Niagara, Kansas State and Providence, didn't do things the easy way in the championship game, either. Phillips scored five points in the last minute, including a crucial tap-in on a missed foul shot, and the 49ers contributed two key turnovers at the end.

"Phillips' big play at the end was a super effort," said Hall, whose team was given up for dead in midseason but finished with 10 straight victories. "The big thing about this team is that for the last 10 games, they have simply refused to be beaten. I had all the confidence in the world that we were going to win this one."

Hall, whose Wildcats lost the NCCA championship game last year to UCLA, put the whip cream on his 1975-76 season by beating the 49ers.

The Wildcats' dramatic victory overshadowed a splendid performance by UNC-Charlotte's Cedric Maxwell, who scored 24 of his tournament-leading 109 points to win the NIT's Most Valuable Player prize.

"Cornbread" just came in here and captured the imagination of the New York press," said Rose. "That's really a heck of a thing."

Hubert Green wins Jacksonville Open

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Hubert Green counts himself a lucky man.

"I'm lucky I can play golf for a living," he said.

"I'm lucky that playing golf enables me to go all over the world, places my mother and father never even thought about going. I've played in Australia and New Zealand and Morocco and Japan. I've played in England and Scotland and other places in Europe. I'm lucky I can do this. Not everybody can."

And how about the money he's piled up while playing his game, well over one-half million dollars in the last 3½ seasons?

"Money isn't everything," Green replied in his curiously quick, clipped delivery. "It's nice to have, but it isn't everything."

"I'm trying to pile up the titles, not money. If you win the titles, win the golf tournaments, the money will follow."

And Green, rapidly advancing

through the ranks of the game's premier performers, piled up another one Sunday, rallying from the potential disaster of a double bogey with a gritty, two-under-par 70 that won him the $35,000 first prize in the Greater Jacksonville Open.

It was the second title in as many weeks for the man who calls himself "just a skinny kid from Birmingham," and the 11th, including a Japanese title, in his career.

Now Green, who won this one by two strokes with a 12-underpar total of 276, would like to get lucky enough to win one of the game's Big Four crowns, the only thing he really needs to gain his full stature as one of golf's leading practitioners.

"In my estimation," said Green, a run-away, record-setting winner of the Doral Open a week ago, "a great player is a player who plays well in the major tournaments."

"I haven't had a particularly good record in the majors. That's what I want to do. That's the next step."

Schlichter, Conner receive honorable mention

All-Ohio class AAA basketball stars named

COLUMBUS (AP) — Miami Trace's Allan Conner and Art Schlichter received honorable mention all-Ohio honors today.

Conner, a senior, and Schlichter, a sophomore, were second team all-district selections earlier this month.

Butch Carter, following an illustrious line of Middletown High School basketball greats was named as the Associated Press' class AAA player of the year.

The 6-foot-5 Carter, a fluid senior forward averaging 26 points a game this season, edged 6-7½ Canton Timken ace Mike Miday for the coveted award.

Carter and Miday head the first team all-state squad. Carter was a second team All-Ohioan a year ago.

The Ohio Class AAA Coach of the Year is Don Everett of Canton McKinley.

The 57-year-old Everett, who served 25 seasons as a McKinley assistant mentor, moved into the head job this winter and guided the Bulldogs to an unbeaten regular season and The AP's state poll championship.

Everett edged Jene Davis of defending state tournament victor Columbus Linden-McKinley and Will Collins of Bellefontaine for the coaching title.

The selections, based solely on regular season performances, are made on the recommendations of a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Miday posted more than 900 points in his career, including a Canton city record of 57 points in one game this season. He already has signed a Big Ten letter-of-intent to play for top-ranked Indiana.

Also landing a first-team berth was Todd Penn, the lone starter back from Linden-McKinley's 1975 champions. The 5-foot-9 junior guard averaged almost 18 points, was a pillar in the Panthers' rugged defense and triggered their fast break.

Other first teamers were 6-1 Kelvin Ransey of Toledo Macomber, 6-5 Tim Vala of Cleveland St. Ignatius, 6-foot Doug Petty of Lancaster, 6-3 Mike Stowers of East Liverpool, 6-1 Elmer Jackson of Canton McKinley and 6-2 Mike Gould of Bellefontaine. All are seniors.

Keith Oglesby of Cleveland East Tech, a third-team allstar in 1975, led the second team this time. Oglesby, a 6-4 senior, averaged 21.3 points.

Joining him were 6-1 Mark Bodnar of Barberton, 6-5 Jim Rhoden of Lebanon, 6-3 Jack Zimmerman of Kettering Alter, 6-5 Kevin Best of Canton Lincoln, 6-2 Billy Wilson of Columbus Eastmoor, 6-9 Rich Yonakor of Euclid and 6-7 Donald Collins of Toledo Scott.

Bodnar and Rhoden are juniors, the rest seniors.

On the third team were 6-8 Mark Hetz of Defiance, 6-foot Mike Rogers of Groveport, 6-3 Pat Burtis of Hamilton Taft, 6-5 Chuck Bradford of Cleveland Collinwood, 6-6 Manzie Williams, 5-10 Larry Greene of Portsmouth, 6-foot Mark Dudley of Columbus Walnut Ridge and 6-3 Kim Leonard. All are seniors.

Scouts lose to Sabres, 3-1

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The frustrations of a long, losing season marred by sagging finance and fan support may have reached a peak for the Kansas City Scouts.

They had two shots on goal disallowed in Buffalo during a 3-1 loss to the Sabres Sunday night, extending their National Hockey League winless string to 20 games.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — Come April 1 and 2, actor Steve Railsback, a slight, soft-spoken Texan, is starring in a two-hour CBS show in a role that might understandably give any actor the willies.

He plays Charles Manson, the diminutive leader of a hippie-style "family" who with three female followers was convicted in 1971 in the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six others in Los Angeles.

Railsback, 30, says he was a bit wary of taking the Manson role in the show, "Helter Skelter," considering that some members of the original Manson clan are still around and still may be loyal to him.

"As a matter of fact, I turned the part down at first," said Railsback, a native of Wichita Falls, Tex., and a struggling actor in New York at the time of the Tate-LaBianca murders in August 1969.

"I'd started hearing rumors. And you know, once a rumor gets started it builds and builds. So I really started getting nervous about it. But it didn't last but a couple of days.

"Because I started thinking that if I began letting other people dictate to me what I should do, by fear or whatever way they do it, then I'm not going to be able to live with myself."

The actor, who said he never was threatened before, during or after filming "Helter Skelter," was asked what sort of rumors he'd heard when it became known a dramatization of the Manson case would be made for TV.

"Well, there was a rumor that Tom Gries, the director, had been threatened, gotten guard dogs and was moving his family to Florida — which wasn't true," he said.

"One rumor that turned out to be true was that the wife of the casting director had gotten a phone call from somebody — I don't know who — who said, 'If this picture is done, you'll be killed.'"

"But it could have been from anybody because LA's filled with crackpots. It could have been anybody just getting a charge."

Railsback, who has lived in New York 10 years, resembles Manson from a distance. Indeed, yours truly, present at the Manson trial the day Manson gently said, "I've killed no one and I've ordered no one killed," had a brief, chilling flashback when the actor walked into the office.

But even though Railsback's voice is eerily reminiscent of Manson's, he's about four inches taller. And his eyes don't have the intensely bright and unnerving quality of the man he's portraying.

Railsback, who studied films of Manson in preparing for the role, agrees that the convicted murderer's eyes were his most striking physical characteristic. He says he tried to convey that in his work.

"A lot of people say Manson is a man of a thousand faces, which he is," he said. "But I think he's more than that. He's also a man of a thousand eyes. At times, when he was talking to somebody in the films, his eyes seemed to change, almost burn."

"There was a moment when I wanted to meet him. But I couldn't. They (California prison officials) wouldn't let me."

Railsback paused. "When I think about it," he said softly, "I'm kind of glad I didn't."

Dellums silent about candidacy

CINCINNATI (AP) — U.S. Rep. Ron Dellums, D-Calif., goes before the National Black Political Assembly today to answer its offer to head an independent presidential campaign.

Dellums has refused to comment on the nomination by the assembly's executive council, but promised he would address the 3,000 delegates who are gathered to attend a national convention which is laying the groundwork for an independent political force which will operate beyond the November election.

An assembly official said the convention was also tentatively scheduled to hear from its original choice, Georgia state legislator Julian Bond, who expressed doubts about the effectiveness of a third party effort.

The assembly's executive committee withdrew its nomination from Bond, who had asked to be removed from consideration, and settled instead on Dellums, from California's 8th Congressional District.

The 40-year-old Dellums was originally elected in 1970 and currently serves on both the Armed Services and District of Columbia committees of the House of Representatives.

The assembly's candidate will also have the support of several other groups which have combined to form the National Committee for Peoples Politics.

The committee will direct the campaign and will consist of 51 per cent black representation and 49 per cent Third World and White representation.

Many Swap Homes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Home exchange has become a way of life for many vacationers, says Wilma Ferguson of Winnetka, Ill., who has a service that helps link the people who want to swap homes.

"It's a way to have a rent-free vacation but houses are exchanged for many reasons by people attending universities, grandparents who may want to be near their children, but not underfoot, and by businessmen who want their families with them on their temporary assignments." House-swapping also gives people the opportunity to go abroad.

"And some people trade houses for security reasons. They want someone in the house while they are away. Not all house exchange is done by families. Lots of it is done by singles, divorcees, widows. Retired people use house trading as a way to study different communities," says Mrs. Ferguson.

On a membership basis, Mrs. Ferguson provides a service, Adventures-In-Living, which is a directory of people who would like to exchange homes. Some photographs are included in the booklet. House swappers make their own arrangements using the advice Mrs. Ferguson provides.

"One must be sure to get all details of the house, apartment, condominium, the number of rooms and beds, kitchen facilities, recreation and so on," she says.

"And it is important to get business, personal and bank references and to check out everything. A security deposit should be given and I suggest that photographs of the family as well as the home should be exchanged."

The house swapper should also be sure her insurance covers the use of the house, car, boat or whatever by the other people. There should be agreement on phone calls, major appliances, special equipment. And one might want to store antiques, heirlooms and other valuables in a locked closet. Many traders leave everything as-is, the cleaning service, yard service, laundry pick-up and so on, making the deal even easier.

Mrs. Ferguson always advises her members to write to 10 or 15 house offerings before they make a decision, but other than that she doesn't actually get involved.

"The only complaints I've heard have been minor. When people exchange they usually take good care of the house because they know the other person is responsible for their dwelling. That's why a security deposit is a good idea," she says.

Some listings are particularly tempting. One man sent a postcard from Greece with an X marking the spot of his house, just below the Acropolis... an American actress wrote that she had a European villa and would "willingly trade her Mercedes for a like car." A color photograph of a chateau in France illustrated another good offering, but Mrs. Ferguson pointed out "these people would expect an elegant house in return." Sometimes, though, when the deal is not even Steven, other arrangements are made. For example, one person may be permitted to have more time in a house than the other.

One offering stressed gold mining opportunities near Anchorage... A Tokyo house was touted as being near a shrine

... A five-bedroom Paris home was offered by "two adults, two children, for exchange anywhere." One man wanted to trade a big cruiser for a house, another wanted to trade house and plane for house and plane elsewhere. The most easily traded house is a villa which "seems to be everyone's dream," Mrs. Ferguson said, "probably because it suggests a relaxed way of life." But many houses described and pictured in the directory are just average, comfortable-looking dwellings.

The most popular areas for trade are winter resorts and the south, but people go anywhere, she maintains. One Englishman traded a four-story

London flat for a house near Chicago for six weeks. Often a long-term business arrangement dictates where a man and his family must seek an exchange, perhaps in a small town or city.

Dorset show sets new sales records

The Dorset sheep show and sale held 12:30 p.m. Friday on the Fayette County Fairgrounds attracted 59 consignors from 14 states and Canada. A new national record of $296 as the average price for the sale of 116 head of sheep was established.

The $296 average was $42 per head higher than last year's Fayette County show and sale figure.

The adjudged champion ram was owned by Jim Meno of Huston, Iowa, and it sold for $3,100. Andrew Shaffner of Annapolis, Illinois, received $850 for his champion ewe.

The winners' trophies were provided by the Fayette County area bankers. Local consignors included Lowell Douce, Phil Grover, Dave Ogan, and Robert Highfield.

Approximately 160 people attended the Friday night banquet held in the Mahan Building on the fairgrounds. Musical entertainment was provided by the "Syndicated Singers."

The junior judging contest took place Sunday at 9 a.m., with the trophies for the event being sponsored by the Federal Land Bank of Washington C.H.

There were 140 contestants, including 41 teams participating in three categories of judging: aged ewes, ram lambs and ewe lambs.

The first place individual winner was Ben Stockwell, 3593 Miami Trace Rd., who received 278 out of a possible 300 points for his showing. He is a member of the A-OK 4-H Club.

The first place team winner was the Ben Logan FFA from Logan County. They received 769 points out of 900.

Land-use planning still touchy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mention land-use planning or management around some federal farm officials or private organizations and often you get a glassy eyed, tight-lipped response which occasionally breaks into audible vituperation against such "government meddling" into the private affairs of landowners.

But in Canada land-use policy is taking hold, including classification of land and a mechanism for restricting the use that farmers can make of their property. A report published today by the Agriculture Department highlights the system in one Canadian province but does not mention the problems in the United States.

"In Canada, where the continuing loss of productive farm land to nonfarm use poses a serious problem to federal and provincial officials, the government of one province—British Columbia—has taken the first positive steps toward arresting the decline in prime agricultural land area," the report said.

The problem is basic: urban growth and other nonfarm demands have been taking increasingly larger bites out of some of British Columbia's best farm land. In 1972, British Columbia imposed a moratorium on "all future use of certain agricultural land for purposes other than farming" and later set up a commission to implement the plan.

Under the system, "a farmer wishing to assign some of his poorer land to some nonagricultural uses would not be able to obtain a building permit unless his proposed land use had been approved, nor could he sell it by subdivision without approval," the report said.

The report was written by Clancy V. Jean, U.S. agricultural attache in Ottawa and appeared in the current issue of "Foreign Agriculture" published by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

"For the farmer wishing to sell his entire farm, no approvals are required, but the new owner becomes subject to the land-use restrictions," Jean said.

Various bills have been introduced in Congress over the years calling for some sort of national land-use policy, but none has gone so far as the British Columbia system nor have any survived to become law. The most severe critics of such plans contend that land-use planning could lead to outright federal management of agriculture.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, for example, earlier this year adopted a policy stating that "land-use planning can best be accomplished at the county or comparable level of government and by private landowners. The federation opposed federal assistance to states for

Zoning board appointment

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners' meeting on Monday, opened with the appointment of Dwight Duff to the Fayette County Zoning Board of Appeals for a five year term commencing immediately. Duff will replace Wilbur Rapp.

Other items on the day's agenda included bidding for the closed circuit television for the sheriff's department which was to begin at 11:00 a.m.

Commissioner Robert Mace stated that he wanted to make it clear to the public that the closed circuit TV differs from a regular television, in that it provides a system which allows the sheriff's dispatchers and deputies to watch the movements of the prisoners. The outside area surrounding the sheriff's department will also be monitored by this device.

Scheduled for 11:30 a.m. was a public hearing concerning the vacating of alleys in New Martinsburg Village. These alleys were originally township alleys but haven't been used for a long time.

1975 raffle; 1976 winner

The newly formed French Club at Washington Senior High School recently held a raffle. The Daryl Stewart family won the raffle and found 250 lbs. of beef in their freezer.

The French Club started planning for it in November of 1975, but before Christmas vacation the raffle was cancelled, because a school group or organization cannot hold a raffle unless it is backed by a booster club. Then several parents formed a booster club so the raffle could be held.

On Thursday, March 11, the drawing was held at 3:10 p.m. at the Washington Senior High School.

Congratulations to the Stewart family for winning.

Treatment sought for gunshot wound

Alleged robber apprehended in Fayette Memorial Hospital

A Celina man matching the description of a suspect wanted for armed robbery in Greenfield was treated for a gunshot wound Sunday in Fayette Memorial Hospital.

David J. Chaffer, 26, of Celina, was treated for a small caliber bullet wound in the emergency ward, and after the projectile was recovered by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, Washington C.H. police officers contacted the Highland County Sheriff's office. He was taken into custody after his release from the hospital.

Chaffer was reportedly involved in a Sunday night hold-up attempt at Beechler's Market in Greenfield. After first requesting a pack of cigarettes, Chaffer allegedly drew a gun on owner Charlie Beechler and stated, "This is it." Beechler succeeded in pulling a gun out of his pocket and firing it at the robber who was wounded in the shoulder.

The would-be thief took off, in his car, after which the area hospitals were notified, and Chaffer was apprehended in Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Other weekend incidents investigated by local law-enforcement agencies, included the arrest of a Tennessee man for improperly transporting a firearm in a motor vehicle.

Upon arriving at the Rocking Chair Inn at 9:14 p.m. Sunday, to investigate a reported domestic dispute, Washington C.H. police officers learned that one of the participants had just left in his car with a gun. The police officers pursued the vehicle, succeeded in stopping it, and upon checking the interior, found a gun in the front seat. The car was stopped near the 300 block of East Market Street, after which John L. Sturdivant 47, of Paris, Tenn., was cited for improper transportation of a firearm in a motor vehicle.

Winifred Havens, 31, of 809 E. Temple St., reportedly took an overdose of aspirin and wine at 7:25 p.m. Saturday in her residence. She was treated at Fayette Memorial Hospital and released.

Broken glass from a door on the Dr. Dwight Ireland residence, 517 E. Temple St., was reportedly due to a break-in attempt, though nothing inside was disturbed. The incident occurred sometime between 12:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. Saturday with $25 worth of damage.

A watch, ring and silver knives of undetermined value were reported stolen from the Virginia Cain residence, 522 Columbus Ave., sometime since October of 1975.

Bobby H. Dean told sheriff's deputies that after hearing a noise in front of his residence at 10 p.m. Friday, he discovered the next morning that a head light on his car, valued at $2.75, had been broken, and a part of a beer bottle was lying inside of the damaged light.

Helicopter kicks off Guard awareness week

By MARK REA

Under the auspices of the United States Army National Guard, the Junior Naval Reserve Officer's Training Corps cadets from Washington Senior High School were treated to a ride in an Army helicopter, Saturday morning.

As part of the National Guard's program of public awareness to the Guard's presence and service, seventeen cadets rode in the "Huey" type helicopter. They were taken in groups of six for a 20 minute aerial view of Washington C.H. area and surrounding Fayette County.

The helicopter, piloted by Lt. William Yasco, took off from the National Guard base in Columbus and, after its journey to Washington C.H., touched down in the Washington Square Shopping Center parking lot.

Previously, the helicopter was okayed for landing on land situated behind the Washington Senior High School by Washington City School officials. It is hoped that the helicopter will return next week to the school. If school officials again concur, the remaining 80 cadets in the JNROTC program at WSHS will get their chance for helicopter flight.

The host of the cadets for the event was Guard Capt. Larry Hott of Washington C.H. Hott, a police officer, who recently took over the reigns of the local National Guard operation and is the commander of the local armory.

On hand, for safety reasons, were the Washington C.H. police and fire departments along with a representative from the Fayette County Sheriff Department.

The event was termed a success by National Guard and JNROTC officials in attendance and was paid for by the Army National Guard.

The ride was restricted solely to JNROTC cadets in uniform.

The JNROTC program was started in Washington C.H. in 1970 and was headed for its first four years by Cdr. Robert Self. For the past two years, the program has been headed by Cdr. Harold Vail. The assistant Naval Science instructor is CPO Kenneth Hays.

Other activities scheduled in conjunction with the Ohio National Guard awareness program include Monday morning's proclamation by City Manager George Shapter. He has designated March 21-27 as Ohio National Guard Organization and Affiliation Week.

The action was taken to recognize the continuing efforts of the local Guard company to secure Ohioans from civil disorder and to provide emergency service in time of disaster.

Candidates await Carolina vote

By The Associated Press

Republican Ronald Reagan and Democrat George Wallace blitzed North Carolina today for votes in Tuesday's presidential primary, while President Ford and Jimmy Carter, the apparent frontrunners, looked ahead to future races.

In Washington, R. Sargent Shriver prepared to announce a decision on the future of his already shaky Democratic campaign. Shriver, after a poor showing in Illinois last week, said he would limit his efforts to Texas' May 1 primary and the election May 8 in Maryland.

And the Federal Election Commission was scheduled to meet, also in Washington, to certify a final $1 million to presidential candidates. Its authority to give out matching federal funds expires at midnight under a Supreme Court order.

North Carolina's election is important to both Reagan and Wallace, who are trying to reverse earlier primary setbacks. They have spent more time campaigning in the state than the others.

Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson, Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall and former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris also are trying for some of North Carolina's 61 Democratic convention delegates. But they spent very little time in the state, concentrating their efforts on other upcoming races.

Ford spent some time over the weekend in North Carolina, and aides said after he left that they are confident of a sixth straight victory over Reagan, the former California governor. Carter, the ex-Georgia governor, was working elsewhere as the week ended.

Reagan scheduled appearances today at the Asheville, Charlotte,

Shriver bows out

WASHINGTON (AP) — R. Sargent Shriver, the Democrats' 1972 vice presidential candidate, today withdrew from the race for the party's 1976 presidential nomination.

Shriver, who finished third in last week's Illinois primary, released all of his convention delegates and said he will spend a week or so vacationing and then is likely to endorse another candidate.

Even before his announcement at a news conference, Shriver had dropped from active campaigning. With his announcement, he became the fifth Democratic candidate to stop major campaigning.

Shriver's withdrawal leaves seven major Democratic candidates in the race for the White House.

Panel power ends

No more election funds to support candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Election Commission loses its most important powers at midnight because Congress has been unable to meet a deadline to cure what the Supreme Court says are the commission's unconstitutional defects.

The Supreme Court ruled Jan. 30 that the commission's makeup was unconstitutional because four of its six members were selected by Congress, rather than the president. The court then set a March 1 deadline for Congress to remedy that problem. When that deadline was not met, the court extended the deadline for an extra 20 days.

Because there is no chance that Congress can act by midnight, the commission is meeting today to certify another $1 million in matching funds to presidential candidates.

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he would meet with other leaders to decide whether to ask the Supreme Court for another extension. However, Mansfield said there was no guarantee that Congress would be able to meet any further extension either.

The commission earlier this year certified $11.6 million to 14 presidential candidates. Once candidates have raised $5,000 in donations of $250 or less in each of 20 states, they are entitled to dollar-for-dollar matching money.

The Supreme Court ruling did not abolish the commission but terminated its powers to pay matching funds. Nor will the FEC be able to carry out other responsibilities for administering and enforcing the law passed in 1974 to govern the financing of federal election campaigns.

The law set limits on contributions and expenditures, in addition to providing for taxpayers' subsidies for the campaigns of presidential contenders.

Supporters of the commission say the panel's objectives would not be harmed by a brief period of suspended powers.

Legislation to restructure the FEC in compliance with the court's decision has bogged down. The Senate debated the measure last week, adopting some amendments and rejecting others, and then agreed to try again this week to break the impasse. The House starts consideration of its own version of the legislation Wednesday or Thursday.

The basic dispute is whether to amend the law merely to meet the Supreme Court requirement that all members of the commission be appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate.

Some lawmakers, including some prominent Democrats, also want to limit the power of corporations to set up employe groups to solicit campaign contributions and to make other changes in some of the commission's rulings.

President Ford has threatened to veto any bill that goes beyond restructuring the commission.

Council accepts loans for village projects

BLOOMINGBURG — The Bloomingburg Village Council met in special session this morning to work out remaining details for the proposed sewage plant construction and the upgrading of the village's water system.

After the brief meeting, contracts for FHA loans totaling $472,000 — $322,000 for the sewage plant and $150,000 for the water system — were signed.

A luncheon was slated for noon in the village and several state and federal elected representatives were invited. A brief groundbreaking ceremony was to follow at 1 p.m. followed by the finalization of land contracts for the construction sites.

The money borrowed from the FHA represents approximately 25 per cent of the total cost of each project. Federal grants will cover the other 75 per cent of the cost.

Following some two years of actual construction, the village will have central sewage service in addition to a central water supply. Water meters being installed at each residence will monitor the flow of water and be used for the billing of both water and sewer rates.

The project includes construction of a sewage treatment facility, installation of sewage lines to each home, drilling of a second water well and improvement of the iron filtering system, and installation of the water meters.

The village will bear the cost of installing the sewer lines on public property, but each homeowner will be responsible for installing the tiles from the street sewer to his home.

Hearst sentencing studied

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, convicted of bank robbery by a jury convinced of her guilt by her words and actions as the revolutionary "Tania," faces up to 25 years in prison and another trial on more serious charges.

Evidence presented by the government to show that the kidnaped newspaper heiress willingly embraced the terrorism of her captors outweighed her testimony that she cooperated with them to save her life, jurors said.

"I don't think it was any particular thing at all that led to our finding her guilty," said Marilyn Wentz, a member of the panel that found Miss Hearst guilty of armed bank robbery Saturday after 12 hours of deliberation. "I think it was a combination of all the evidence."

Mrs. Wentz, 36, a dental assistant and mother of four from Hayward, Calif., said in an interview Sunday night, "I know I went over it, and over it — everything — before deciding."

She said she thought that both the prosecutor, U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr., and chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey "did a very good job in presenting the case."

Another juror said the ordeal of deliberations was so intense that some members of the panel wept and others became sick to their stomachs.

Today, the 22-year-old Miss Hearst waited behind bars for the unfolding of a fate now in the hands of her judge, attorneys and prosecutors.

Sentencing by U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter is scheduled for April 19. He said Sunday that the maximum penalty he would consider would be 25 years in prison and a $10,000 fine for armed bank robbery.

Miss Hearst also was convicted of using a weapon in a felony, which carries a maximum 10-year sentence. But Carter said, "I don't consider that I could impose the second penalty on top of the bank robbery, since that really is included in the first offense."

The minimum sentence would be probation.

The heiress to a vast publishing fortune showed no emotion Saturday afternoon when the guilty verdict returned by the seven women and five men was read in the hushed courtroom.

Miss Hearst had testified tearfully that she had joined the April 15, 1974, holdup at a Hibernia Bank branch here after being raped, tortured and threatened with death by the Symbionese Liberation Army band that kidnaped her two months earlier.

Carter said the federal government would turn her over to authorities in Los Angeles for arraignment on state kidnapping, assault and robbery charges within the week. If convicted on those charges, which stem from a crime spree a month after the bank robbery here, she could be sentenced to life in prison.

Carter said he and Browning had agreed to allow her transfer to Los Angeles — probably by mid-week — upon completion of interviews with probation officers on the condition that she be returned here for sentencing "without any legal squabble."

JFK conspiracy rumors probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet KGB agent who defected to the United States in the months immediately after the November 1963 slaying of President John F. Kennedy sought to assure U.S. investigators that Lee Harvey Oswald was not a KGB agent, newly released CIA documents show.

The Russian, Yuri Nosenko, was one of two defectors from hostile intelligence agencies who played a key role in the U.S. investigation into whether Kennedy's assassination was the work of a foreign conspiracy, according to CIA documents.

The other defector, a Cuban linked to Fidel Castro's intelligence service, also arrived in the United States in the months immediately after the assassination. The Cuban told his interrogators that Oswald may have been in contact with Cuban intelligence agents just seven weeks before he killed Kennedy, according to the documents.

Because both defections came so soon after Kennedy was killed, former U.S. intelligence officials say they doubted the authenticity of the information provided by the two men, particularly Nosenko, since his testimony seemed to eliminate any possibility of Soviet involvement.

The Warren Commission concluded there was no evidence of a conspiracy, but a CIA memo written in May 1975 said that the Warren report "should have left a wider 'window' for this contingency. That, indeed, was the opinion at the working level ... in 1964."

That memo is among some 1,500 pages of documents just released by the CIA in response to a Freedom of Information request.

A March 1964 CIA memo to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says Nosenko "reported that his own department was involved directly with Oswald because Oswald came to the USSR in 1959" but "there had not even been thought given to recruiting either of them (Oswald or his Russian-born wife, Marina) as agents."

Thailand demands full U.S. pullout

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The United States began dismantling its big radio listening post in northeast Thailand today following the Thai government's weekend decision that all but 270 of the 4,000 American military personnel in Thailand must leave the country within four months.

Thousands of leftist students marched on the U.S. Embassy Sunday for an anti-American demonstration. A bomb thrown into the procession along the way killed four students and wounded more than 80.

Representatives of 18 rightist groups in favor of the U.S. military presence broke into the headquarters of the National Student Center of Thailand (NSCT), smashed furniture and broke windows. They also demanded that Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj "suppress Communists," investigate Soviet spying in Thailand and arrest a top leftist student leader.

Some NSCT leaders blamed the rightist groups for the bomb attack, but police said they had no suspects. One youth was badly beaten by students who believed he threw the bomb, but police let him go after questioning him.

A U.S. military spokesman said two C130 transports took 118 American personnel and equipment from the Ramussen Electronics Intelligence Center out of the country.

The listening post 300 miles northeast of Bangkok ceased its monitoring of radio transmissions from Communist Indochina before midnight Saturday, the deadline set by the Thai government. About 900 U.S. employees remained at Ramussen, a spokesman said, and the withdrawal of them and other American personnel is expected to continue at a rapid pace.

Kukrit told reporters the contingent of 270 U.S. advisers to remain "could be fewer if the United States cuts its military aid to us." He added that the question of the American military presence might be reopened by the new government to be chosen by the new parliament that is to be elected April 4.

"If the new government wants to renegotiate and have a new debate, it must be submitted to parliament, and it won't be a secret agreement as with the military regime (that ruled Thailand before 1973)," he said.

The Ford administration has proposed a $51.5-million program of sales, grants and loans to Thailand for the coming fiscal year.

Deaths, Funerals

Cecil Bane

Services for Cecil Bane, 71, of 236 Hickory St., will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Stan Toler officiating.

Claudine Longet held in slaying

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Singer-actress Claudine Longet has been arrested in connection with the shooting death of Vladimir "Spider" Sabich, who dominated the world professional ski tour in the early 1970s, Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker says.

Tucker said Miss Longet posted a personal recognizance bond at the Pitkin County sheriff's office Sunday and was released.

"I anticipate Miss Longet will be charged sometime Monday in connection with the shooting death of Mr. Sabich," Tucker said in a telephone interview.

Tucker said the charges would be filed in Pitkin County District Court here. He refused to say what charges would be filed.

Tucker said Sabich died at his home in an exclusive subdivision near this Rocky Mountain ski resort town from a shot fired from a handgun.

Earlier, Dr. Charles Williams, the county coroner, said Sabich, 30, had been shot in the abdomen. He was taken to the Aspen Valley Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival shortly after 5 p.m.

Tucker declined to say how many times Sabich had been shot or provide other details.

He said the body was being removed to Denver for an autopsy.

Israel, PLO to clash today in U.N. debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Israel today squares off against the Palestine Liberation Organization for the first time in the Security Council against a backdrop of Arab unrest in the occupied West Bank.

Moslem Libya and Pakistan asked for the council meeting to press a charge that Israel is creating an increasingly explosive situation in East Jerusalem and other Arab towns by its "policy of absorbing occupied Jerusalem into Israel."

Arab and other Moslem countries were expected to seek a resolution finding Israel guilty of changing the status of Jerusalem, taking "measures of repression" against West Bank Arabs and desecrating Moslem holy places in Jerusalem.

An uneasy calm was reported throughout the West Bank after the worst Arab rioting there since Israel seized the territory from Jordan in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. The riots were sparked by an Israeli court decision six weeks ago permitting Jewish worship on Jerusalem's Temple Mount, site of two Moslem shrines and of King Solomon's Temple.

On Sunday, however, the Israeli Supreme Court overruled the decision and upheld a police ban on Jewish prayer in the area.

In other attempts to ease the situation during the council debate, the Israeli army withdrew its troops from Hebron, a West Bank town that was the scene of some of the fiercest riots, and closed for two weeks a Palestinian newspaper that called for continued demonstrations.

In their letter requesting the council meeting, Libya and Pakistan said the furor unleashed by the Temple Mount dispute must "be seen, along with recent expropriations of Arab-owned lands in Jerusalem and the establishment of Jewish settlements in Arab areas, as part of a policy of absorbing occupied Jerusalem into Israel and changing its cultural and demographic character."

Israel's decision to participate in the council debate alongside the PLO was seen as an indication of the importance Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's government puts on publicly defending its policies toward Jerusalem and other territories captured from the Arabs in 1967.

Israel refused previously to debate the PLO in any forum, although it is recognized by the United Nations as the spokesman for the Palestinian people, because it is a terrorist organization dedicated to the destruction of the Jewish state. Israel's U.N. delegate, Chaim Herzog, boycotted two previous Security Council meetings to which the PLO was invited.

William W. Scranton also was making his debut as chief U.S. delegate at the council meeting. His predecessor, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, was a vociferous supporter of Israel in U.N. debates, while Scranton is the author of a widely quoted 1968 call for a "more even-handed policy" in the Middle East, that is one less oriented toward Israel.

Lebanese fighting worst in 11 months

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslem and Christian militias fought the heaviest artillery battle of the 11-month-old Lebanese civil war Sunday night and today across Beirut.

More than 1,200 rockets, mortar rounds and artillery shells were fired between 4 p.m. and midnight Sunday, "an all-time record for Beirut," a police spokesman said.

The heavy firing continued this morning, and explosions shook the city and resort areas in the mountains behind the capital.

One shell hit the French Consulate, seriously wounding Vice-Consul Guy Bariolet and slightly wounding Andre Ringard, an attache at the French Embassy. Another shell damaged the French ambassador's car, while several rounds landed within 200 yards of the U.S. Embassy.

The escalation followed the capture Sunday of the 25-story seaside Holiday Inn by leftist Moslems of the Nasserite Ambusher militia. More than 40 persons were reported killed in the fighting for the gutted hotel, which had been a stronghold for the right-wing Christian Phalangists for six months.

The Phalangists launched an early morning attack to retake the building, and the Phalangist radio claimed the Moslems had been driven out. But leftist leaders said their forces had driven the Christian attackers back to a basement across the street from the hotel.

Two men have been arrested and a third is being sought by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department in connection with a grand theft incident that occurred at Truck-O-Mat of Ohio, U.S. 35, on November 30, 1975.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson stated that the two were arrested Friday afternoon by Sheriff's

South Solon man faces four charges

A South Solon man was arrested for two traffic violations early Sunday morning by Washington C.H. police officers, and after he became unruly, he was charged with resisting arrest and assault.

Ervin Miller, 35, of South Solon, was travelling the wrong way in the Municipal Parking lot, on S. Fayette Street, when, upon seeing a police cruiser, he stopped and then backed into a concrete retaining wall.

The minor accident caused only slight damage to the vehicle at 2:50 a.m. Sunday, but Miller refused to leave the car, in spite of repeated requests by Ptl. Larry Mongold and Aux. Ptl. John Bane.

Miller had to be removed bodily. Once outside, he broke free, attempted to strike Bane with his fist, and kicked Ptl. Mongold in the leg.

In the attempt to subdue Miller, he was injured, and though he was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital for treatment, refused any aid, and engaged in verbal abuse of the police officers, according to the police report.

Miller was charged with driving while intoxicated, driving while his license was under suspension, resisting arrest, and assault. He was incarcerated in the city jail.

Approximately a month ago, Miller was arrested by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. Making an appearance in Washington C.H. Municipal Court, he had been released on his own recognizance, pending a continuance of the case to be heard March 29.

Stocks post small gain

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices bounced up in early trading today, reflecting enthusiasm over several bright economic reports.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was ahead more than two points and more New York Stock Exchange-listed issues were advancing in price than declining.

Trading was brisk at the opening. The government reported Friday that consumer prices registered their smallest increase in more than four years in February and that orders for durable goods continued to rise.

Short-term interest rates also held steady despite the announcement late Thursday of a jump in the money supply.

Early prices today included Alcan Aluminum, up 3/4 to 27 1/2; Merck Co., up 1 1/4 to 72 1/2; and U.S. Steel, up 3/4 at 82 1/2.

Candidates

Greensboro-High Point and Raleigh-Durham airports before leaving in late afternoon to campaign in Wisconsin for the April 6 primary there.

Wallace prepared for a news conference in Charlotte, to be followed by a motorcade trip across the southern part of the state, with stops in five towns. He planned to return to his home in Montgomery, Ala., at day's end.

Reagan, in Asheville Sunday, told campaign workers he still believes his challenge to Ford for the GOP nomination is going better than he thought it would when he started. North Carolina "might be the first chance where there is a possibility of a victory," he said.

But he added, "We're not so optimistic as to say that we felt we were in any way a frontrunner."

The Wallace camp, too, spoke with guarded optimism about the fourth confrontation in a row with Carter. The Alabama governor finished ahead of Carter in Massachusetts but lost the next two primaries, in Florida and Illinois.

"At this point it's 50-50 or better for us," said Billy Joe Camp, the Alabama governor's press secretary. "Some polls had us behind last week, but we've picked up momentum since then."

In a television appearance later Sunday, Reagan continued his attack on Ford. He said the President talks about the country being on the road to an economic recovery while it has gone "deeper in debt in the last 19 months than at any period in our American history."

During his trip to North Carolina, the President made no mention of the challenger. He predicted victory Tuesday, and, when asked if Reagan would drop out after another primary setback, said, "I really don't care."

In other political developments over the weekend: —Carter picked up eight convention delegates as Oklahoma's Democrats met in weekend congressional district caucuses. Five went to Harris, 15 were uncommitted and nine others will be picked at the state party convention next month.

—Leaders of the National Black Political Assembly said they're determined to run an independent political campaign for president, despite the organization's trouble finding a willing candidate.

Within a week, Georgia state Sen. Julian Bond and Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., declined the nomination.

—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., reaffirming he has no intention of entering any primaries, declared in an interview he is "well equipped" to take on Ford in the general election. He has said he would accept a draft.

—Carter, in an interview for television in Israel, said he "would never betray Israel" if elected.

All Democratic candidates expected at state dinner

Ohio Democratic Party chairman Paul Tipps has announced that plans are being finalized for the Ohio Democratic Party's annual state dinner to be held Friday at 8 p.m. April 9th, in the multi-purpose building on the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

The chairman indicated that he has received confirmation of attendance from five out of the six U. S. Presidential candidates and expects all six candidates to attend. Those who will attend the annual dinner are ex-governor Jimmy Carter of Georgia, Senator Frank Church of Idaho, Senator Henry Jackson of Washington, Ellen McCormack of New York, Representative Morris Udall of Arizona, and Governor George Wallace of Alabama.

An added feature of the Ohio Democratic Party's annual $100-a-plate dinner will be the representation for the first time of a woman candidate for President. Ellen McCormack, the Pro-Life candidate, is running on the Democratic ticket and state treasurer Gertrude Donahey will be running as a favorite daughter on an uncommitted state slate.

"We expect this event to be one of the finest political events of this Presidential year," stated Tipps. The party expects to have in attendance between 2,000 and 3,000 people.

Tickets may be obtained from Democratic State Headquarters, 88 E. Broad St., Columbus.

Convict man of murder

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — A Washington County jury has convicted a Bentleyville man of first-degree murder in the slaying of a teen-aged boy who was shot to death at an ice cream stand last summer.

A jury of eight women and four men returned the verdict Saturday against Michael Campo, 26. The panel also set a sentence of life imprisonment.

Campo was accused of murder in the death of 15-year-old Sean Armstrong of Cincinnati.

Stamps in the News

By SYD KRONISH

AP Newsfeatures

There's good news for collectors of U. S. Bicentennial philatelic material.

The four Bicentennial Souvenir Sheets to be issued May 29 at INTERPHIL 76 will be an unusual memento even to those who are not stamp enthusiasts. The 6 x 8 inch Souvenir Sheets are based on famous paintings — Washington Crossing the Delaware, Washington Reviewing his Ragged Army at Valley Forge, The Declaration of Independence, and The Surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown.

Each of the Souvenir Sheets has five stamps as part of the design. The stamps are perforated and may be detached for postage, but most people will want to keep the items intact.

All five stamps in each sheet are the same denomination; however, each of the four sheets has a different rate. For example, the Surrender of Cornwallis has 13-cent stamps, Declaration of Independence — 18-cent stamps, Washington Crossing the Delaware — 24-cent, and Washington at Valley Forge — 31-cent.

The Souvenir Sheets will be sold in full sheets only during INTERPHIL 76 (U. S. International Philatelic Exhibition in Philadelphia May 29 thru June 6), at the philatelic centers in post offices throughout the country and by mail order from the Philatelic Sales Division in Washington. The cost of each sheet will be the face value of the postage stamps in the sheet.

Air patrol slide show

Cadet Lt. Jerry Curnutte and Cadet Sgt. Mike Graham gave a slide presentation of the Civil Air Program to students at Eber School recently.

The slides explained the purpose of the CAP, and any other school or group desiring to see the films may contact Major Paul E. Woods or JoAnn Davis.

The local CAP Squadron 206 has completed a weekend survival course. This section of the training included emergency shelters, the use of a compass and mapping under the Ranger program.

Those completing the weekend training were Cadets Curnutte, Graham, Bob Rhonemus, Jim Everhart, David and Ora Rhoads. Seniors participating were Major Woods, WO Richard Pierce, Rosemary Rhoads, and CIO JoAnn Davis, along with new recruits Dewayne Wright, Bob Philips, and Joe Smith.

Work completion delay reported

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A delay in completion of spillway repair work will hamper early spring boating at Cowan Lake State Park in Clinton County, the Department of Natural Resources said.

The lake is usable, but it may be difficult to launch some types of craft until the water level returns to normal about April 10, park Manager Roger O'Dell explained.

The level of the 700-acre lake was lowered six feet this winter while repairs were underway, O'Dell said.

The centenary of Alexander Graham Bell's first telephone call is echoing throughout the world and countries are issuing stamps to honor the occasion.

We previously reported the U. S. 13-cent commemorative issued March 10. On the same date, the British Post Office released four new stamps highlighting the importance of the telephone in every day communications.

The 8.5-pence shows a mother at home making a telephone call. The 10-p depicts a policeman making an emergency call. The 11-p illustrates a nurse making a social welfare call. The 13-p features an industrial worker on the phone giving instructions. Each stamp bears the vignette of Queen Elizabeth II in the upper right corner and the inscription "Centenary of the First Telephone Call by Alexander Graham Bell."

Two other nations issuing stamps for the telephone anniversary are Malawi and Ethiopia, where phones are not so plentiful. Malawi's set consists of four stamps and Ethiopia's has three adhesives.

OSU senior Miss Ohio

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — One of the first things the new Miss Ohio, a loyal Ohio State University football fan, said after being crowned here Saturday night was she wished the Buckeyes had been as successful.

"I wish Ohio State would have done this at the Rose Bowl," said Karen Myers, 23, an OSU senior, after being selected from a field of 38 contestants.

The 5-foot-6, 115-pound Miss Myers, who competed as Miss Columbus, now will represent the state in the Miss USA pageant at Niagara Falls, N.Y. in May. The winner there advances to the Miss Universe contest.

Runnersup were Vicki Nye, Miss Franklin County; Debra Smith, Miss Springfield; Tina Keith, Miss Middletown, and Diana Carty, Miss Cincinnati.

Contestants were judged on their appearance in swim suits and evening gowns and on personality. There was no talent competition.

Opinion And Comment

Olympic professionals

As someone used to exclaim when conversation veered a trifle from the norm: "Oooh, what the man said!" The man, in this case, being Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee. And what he said being that, in effect, he thought admitting professional athletes to Olympic competition was not a bad idea.

It is a heresy that the late Avery Brundage inveighed against without letup during his 20 years as kingpin of the Olympics. Brundage was far from being alone in this. To many, the idea of letting in the pros runs counter to the essential spirit of the international games.

This may be. We ourselves lean toward that view. Somehow, the notion that professional athletes who compete or train for pay on a regular basis should be matched against dedicated amateurs goes against the grain.

The realities of the situation must be considered, however. Brundage did not like the Winter Games because he regarded them as pretty much a circus staged for the benefit of ski manufacturers. There is considerable basis for this judgment; some of the competitors, though technically amateurs, reap handsome rewards from their association with manufacturers of sports equipment.

Another pertinent element in the picture is the de facto professionalism of athletes from some countries, notably the Soviet Union. The Soviets train the year

'round under full subsidy from the government. The definition of amateur has to be stretched far out of shape to accommodate them. Yet they compete on equal terms with bona fide amateurs from many other countries, including ours.

What Lord Killanin said the other day in an interview at Innsbruck was, "I am not against open competition, particularly in the period between the Olympics Perhaps that is a realistic position, but we would modify it to this extent: either the rules defining amateurism should be tightened to eliminate current practices which make a mockery of the word, or the Olympic Games should be thrown open to all comers whether amateur or professional.

"MOMENTUM — NOW THERE'S A WORD I CAN USE."

EDITOR, Record-Herald:

Adolph Hitler said "The most foolish mistake would be to allow subject races to bear arms." Stalin said, "If the opposition disarms well and good. If it refuses to disarm, we shall disarm it ourselves."

Very recently the House Judiciary Committee (Peter W. Rodino N.J., chairman) came within one vote of reporting out to the full House a bill which would have banned a known 71 per cent of all hand guns in the United States.

Legend has it that if the king did not like the news the messenger bore, then he had the messenger killed. Sort of like the man who did not like the news being reported in the media, so he simply quit reading. The anti-gun fanatics and sociologists would disarm law-abiding citizens because criminals use guns to commit crimes.

According to "Accidental Facts for 1972" deaths due to accidental discharge of firearms ranked seventh, trailing suffocation, poison, fire and burns, drowning, falls and motor vehicles. A September 1973 report of the FBI said 628,488 guns were reported stolen or missing. This whole business of gun control is a hoax on the part of liberal politicians, social planners and totalitarians to put us at the mercy of a police state, common criminals or possibly an invading foreign power.

"How can one enter a strong man's house and plunder his goods, unless he first binds the strong man. Then, indeed, he may plunder his house." Matthew 12:29. "He who kills a beast shall make it good; and he who kills a man shall be put to death." Lev. 24:21. "If a thief is found breaking in, and is struck so that he dies, there shall be no blood shed for him." Exodus 22:2. "If a man steals an ox or a sheep, and kills or sells it, he shall pay five oxen for an ox and four sheep for a sheep." Exodus 22:1.

Isn't it about time folks who live peaceably, productively and respectfully of the law and their fellowman be given more consideration by our legislators—both elected and appointed.

The second amendment to our Constitution states, "A well regulated militia being necessary for the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed." Please note the Constitution does not grant the right but protects an already existing privilege of a free people. Please note also that this right cannot be infringed upon.

This might be a good subject to discuss with Senators Glenn and Taft and Representative Harsha.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

A golden oldie

from Abby's mailbox

DEAR READERS: I am presently writing a book that will contain choice letters I've received in the last 20 years. In selecting the material, I came across a letter that gave me a chuckle. I hope it gives you one, too. It was published in my column in October, 1968.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 44-year-old bachelor who digs women, but I'm not looking for any matrimonial involvements. I live alone in a modest bungalow and enjoy my privacy.

My problem is an aggressive divorcee who lives next door. She's not bad looking, but she comes on awfully strong. She's a rip-roarin' Republican and a Nixon booster from way back. If she sees a light in my place, she runs right over with a prepared meal and an armful of Nixon campaign literature. She's even offered to cook for me and do my ironing, but I'm not about to fall for that trap. When she's not trying to sell me on Nixon, she's talking about marriage.

Last week I had it, so I moved my refrigerator, stove and TV down to the basement so she won't know I'm home. So now she phones me! What should I do?

NOT INTERESTED

DEAR NOT: Tell her you're going to vote for Hubert and move back upstairs!

DEAR ABBY: PENNA. READER wrote: "I went to a nice supper club with my lady friend and another couple, when a male friend of the other couple approached me and asked if I minded if he danced with my date. I said 'Yes, I do mind,' and my date thought I was rude."

You said, "You were. You should have asked your date if SHE wanted to dance with the stranger."

Well, I think you were wrong. Why should a man who goes to a supper club (probably left his wife or girlfriend at home) expect some other guy to provide him with a girl to dance with?

I say nuts to him. If he likes to dance, let him bring his own date!

WYOMINGITE

DEAR WYOMINGITE: I led with my chin on that one. You're right!

DEAR ABBY: A school dance is coming up next month, and the girls are supposed to ask the boys.

I want to ask a certain boy I know, but my mom says I shouldn't ask a boy who hasn't ever asked me out, and this one hasn't.

Abby, I think it's only fair that this once I should be able to ask the boy I really want to ask. What do you think?

TO ASK OR NOT TO ASK

DEAR TO ASK: The purpose of a girl-ask-boy dance is to change the boy-ask-girl tradition with which girls have been stuck for so long. If girls ask only boys who have asked them out, where's the breakthrough?

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, March 22, the 82nd day of 1976. There are 284 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1765, the British Stamp Act became law in the American colonies, requiring revenue stamps on such things as newspapers, playing cards and legal documents. Public opposition prevented effective enforcement.

On this date —
In 1622, some 350 Virginians were killed in the first Indian massacre of European colonists in America.

In 1794, the U.S. Congress passed a law prohibiting U.S. vessels from supplying slaves to another country.

In 1820, an American naval hero, Stephen Decatur, was mortally wounded in a duel with Commodore James Barron near Washington.

In 1917, the United States became the first nation to recognize a new provisional government in Russia.

In 1945, the Arab League was founded in Cairo.

In 1941, the Grand Coulee Dam on the Columbia River began producing electrical power.

Ten years ago: The head of Anglican Church, British Archbishop of Canterbury Arthur Michael Ramsey, arrived in Rome for a precedent-breaking meeting with Pope Paul VI.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon declared that a South Vietnamese invasion of Laos had helped disrupt enemy supply lines and aided progress of U.S. withdrawal from the Vietnam War.

One year ago: Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said he was suspending his efforts to get an agreement between Israel and Egypt over the Sinai because the rift between the two countries was too great.

Today's birthdays: Former Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans is 68. General James Gavin is 69.

Thought for today: We shape our buildings. Thereafter, they shape us — Sir Winston Churchill, 1874-1965.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, an American force under General William Heath had arrived in Norwich, Connecticut to embark for New York after a march from Cambridge, Mass.

The Music Teachers' National Association was founded at Delaware, Ohio, in 1876.

Your Horoscope

by FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Your planetary aspects advise against useless activity, negative attitudes, opposing others without reason. A day for exercising tolerance and plain common sense.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

A splendid day for improving methods and for experimenting generally. With your innate enthusiasm, you can give a lift to practically any project.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

A day in which you MUST avoid extremes: They will tempt in various ways. Some situations may prove difficult, but all can be made easier through the trying.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

You may consider making some changes now, but be careful not to make too many, or go too far in any one direction. A good adjustment should work out well, however.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

It will take patience, soft words and a great deal of humor to keep some things (and persons) in line now. But well worth it — and for a long time to come.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Stellar influences now suggest prudence, careful deliberation before acting. Don't "toss a coin" or make decisions in a haphazard way. Be painstaking.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Stellar influences excellent! Both artistry and imagination stimulated. Use both well and results will please.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Weigh fitness and the validity of proposed action carefully. Keep eyes on the farthest horizon possible as you steer your course.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You may have an unpleasant situation to deal with, or some complexity in a job matter. But your optimism and know-how can turn things to advantage if you don't panic.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Information needed to consummate a business deal now forthcoming. With the added facts on hand, proceed as originally planned.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Be cautious in dealing with associates. Some may urge you to make certain commitments against your better judgment. Don't let yourself be pressured.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Your intuition and self-reliance stimulated now. And both will be needed if you are to solve some possible "tricky" situations. Don't yield to anxiety, however.

YOU BORN TODAY are governed by Mars, a Sign of power, ambition and intensity. You are a person of extreme capability, though many of you have no realization of your potentials. Realizing them fully, however, you can be an effective leader, an enthusiastic organizer. You can excel in the fields of art, science, the theater or the law. Whatever you do, you will do well, but a profession, backed by a sound education, will get you further than a business career.

Manpower program applications being accepted for fiscal year 1977

The Regional Manpower Services Council, Area 6, is requesting proposals for fiscal year 1977 Manpower programs.

Programs are funded through Title I money authorized by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 (CETA). As a component of CETA, the general purpose of Title I programs is to provide job training and employment opportunities for economically disadvantaged, unemployed and underemployed persons and to assure that these services to maximum employment opportunities.

Economically disadvantaged persons have been chosen by the primary priority group for the manpower plan. Within this group, other priority groups to be served include, but are not limited to: unemployed heads of households; youth-in-school, ages 14-18; youth out-of-school, ages 14-18; disabled; older workers, age 55 or older; and, veterans with each of the groups.

The council has established certain goals for fiscal year 1977 to establish marketable skills for economically disadvantaged persons within the region so they can become and remain competitive job seekers in the labor market; continuation of subsidized employment to persons chronically disregarded by the mainstream of jobs in this region, in order to prepare the participant for placement in an unsubsidized position; and, emphasis on expanding training opportunities to affect long-range solutions to the expanding unemployed, underemployed, and disadvantaged population of Region 6.

Any individual or organization may submit a proposal; however, the CETA regulations disallow the funding of a program which would produce profit for the contractor. The geographic area to be served is RMSC, Area 6 which includes Fayette Clinton, Fairfield, Madison, Pickaway, and Union counties.

Applications may be obtained from the Fayette County Action Commission office, 110 E. Market St.

Further information may be obtained from the CAP office, John Borrowman, 18 1/2 E. Sugartree, Wilmington, or from Barbara Thall, Manpower field representative at (614) 466-8428.

Completed applications should be returned to Chester White, planning coordinator, Office of Manpower Development, 30 East Broad St. - 27th Floor, Columbus, Ohio 43215, no later than April 9, 1976.

Proposals must be submitted in triplicate in the form provided by request.

Weekend weather damage heavy

By The Associated Press

Violent weekend windstorms, often accompanied by precipitous drops in temperature, have left death and damage in widespread areas east of the Mississippi.

Tornadoes were blamed for several deaths in the Midwest and South Saturday and early Sunday. Then a line of furious storms accompanied a sharp cold front into the Northeast, putting a quick end to the June-like temperatures that ushered spring into that area.

The mercury plunged 20 degrees between noon and 3 p.m. in Washington and 10 degrees in a half-hour in New York City. A tornado-like storm was reported in New Jersey, where funnel clouds are rare.

Large chunks of glass showered to the street near mid-Manhattan's Pennsylvania Station when some windows on a skyscraper shattered. A number of autos were crushed by falling trees in Washington.

In Pennsylvania, television station executive Patrick H. Mahoney, 36, of Unionville, was pinned under rubble when galeforce winds picked the roof off his barn. His wife suffered a broken neck.

And a tornado killed Thomas Maculley, 14, of New Castle, Del. He was on a fishing trip and had sought shelter in a portable toilet which overturned. Ten persons also were hurt when a roof collapsed at the Mother Union American Methodist Episcopal Church in Wilmington, Del.

Meanwhile, Kilbourne, La., was picking up after a tornado touched down Saturday night. Twenty-two of the town's 340 persons were injured, two seriously. Sixteen other twisters were seen. Three churches were severely damaged, the town's water storage tank flattened and electrical and telephone service knocked out. Seven homes were destroyed and 29 damaged, and four businesses damaged or destroyed. The recreation center, post office and town hall were flattened.

In Mississippi, Rex Johnson, about 40, was killed when a tornado destroyed his trailer home in Dancy. Tornadoes, high winds and hail were accompanied by up to 2 1/2 inches of rain.

Alabama Civil Defense officials said they probably would recommend that the state seek federal disaster aid. Forty persons were injured and authorities put damage estimates at $1.25 million. There were at least two tornadoes and a number of heavy thunderstorms.

In Illinois' Champaign County, a tornado caused more than $2.5 million in damage and left three persons hospitalized on Saturday.

Tornadoes left two persons dead in Michigan and at least 40 injured Saturday night. In one mile-long path through West Bloomfield Township in Oakland County, about 50 homes were demolished or heavily damaged and at least a dozen business establishments hit. A motor home was flung through the window of a bank.

Claim MM was hooked on sex

(NEW YORK (AP)) — Fourteen years after her death, Marilyn Monroe is quoted as saying she was "hooked on sex" and her image as a sex goddess became a burden to her — "an albatross."

"There was a period when I responded too much to flattery and slept around too much, thinking it would help my career, though I always liked the guy at the time," she is quoted as saying in a book being excerpted in the April issue of the Ladies Home Journal.

British journalist William J. Weatherby, who says he interviewed Miss Monroe between 1960 and 1962, the year she died, quotes her:

"My body turned all these people on like turning an electric light, and there was rarely anything human in it.

"Marilyn Monroe became a burden, a what-you-call-it? — an albatross. People expected so much of me I sometimes hated them."

Weatherby also says Miss Monroe told him, "I was never kept, I always kept myself. . . . I sometimes felt I was hooked on sex the way an alcoholic is on liquor or a junkie on dope."

Weatherby quotes Miss Monroe as saying she was having an affair with a Washington politician whom she never identified. "Only problem is, he's married right now and he's famous, so we have to meet in secret," she is quoted as saying.

One of the best-paying part-time jobs in town ...for men and women

Today's high pay rates make the Ohio National Guard one of the best paying part-time jobs in town.

After basic and specialty training with good pay, it takes one weekend a month and two weeks each summer. Guard training is also one of the best ways around to qualify for solid full-time jobs in private industry.

Men and women with prior military service qualify for part-time duty and pay immediately.

There are a lot of good spots available in local units. Take an hour to talk with someone who knows the whole story.

NOTICE TO EMPLOYERS OF WITHHOLDING REQUIREMENTS FOR MUNICIPAL INCOME TAX

Effective April 1, 1976

- Ordinance No. 5-76 enacted as an emergency measure by the Council of the City of Washington, Ohio on March 1, 1976 levies a one half of one per cent (.005) city income tax effective April 1, 1976.
- In accordance with the provisions of the abovementioned ordinance, employers within or doing business within the City of Washington, Ohio are required commencing April 1, 1976, to deduct at the time of payment of salaries, wages, commissions and other compensation the tax of one half of one per cent (.005) of the gross salaries, wages, commissions and other compensation due by the employer to an employee.
- Employers shall on or before the last day of the month following the close of each calendar quarter make a return and pay to the Tax Administrator the amount of taxes so deducted. Said returns are to be made on form or forms prescribed by or acceptable to the Tax Administrator and shall be subject to the rules and regulations prescribed therefor by the Tax Administrator.
- Employers shall be liable for the payment of the tax required to be withheld whether or not such taxes have in fact been withheld.
- On or before the thirty-first (31st) day of January following any calendar year employers shall file with the Tax Administrator an information return for each employee (Wage and Tax Statement, Form W-2) from whom the City of Washington, Ohio income tax has been or should have been withheld, showing the name, address and social security number of each employee, the total amount of compensation paid during the year and the amount of City of Washington, Ohio income tax withheld from each employee.
- Employers collecting the tax are deemed to hold same, until payment is made by such employer to the City of Washington, Ohio, as a trustee for the benefit of the City of Washington, Ohio and any such tax collected by employer from his employees shall, until the same is paid to the City of Washington, Ohio, be deemed a trust fund in the hands of such employer.

What's ahead in puddings?

NOODLE PUDDING — This version includes canned apricots and peaches.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Noodle Pudding, from Jewish cuisine, can be prepared in dozens of ways. Last spring we used a recipe for it, concocted by a friend's mother, that included medium-wide egg noodles, apples and raisins. Recently another friend gave us her cousin's recipe for a noodle pudding that features fine egg noodles, canned apricots and peaches. Now that we seem to be in the business of cadging noodle pudding recipes from friends' relatives, who knows what will turn up next?

NOODLE PUDDING,
BARBARA'S VERSION

$\frac{1}{2}$ pound (about 4 cups) fine egg noodles
1 cup commercial sour cream
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup small-curd creamstyle cottage cheese
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar
2 tablespoons salad oil
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon cinnamon
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon vanilla
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt
1-3rd cup apricot syrup, from a 16-

ounce can
1-3rd cup peach syrup, from a 16-ounce can
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup apricot halves, from a 16-ounce can $\frac{1}{2}$ cup peach slices, from a 16-ounce can

Cook the noodles according to package directions; turn into a colander to drain.

Stir together the sour cream, cottage cheese, sugar, oil, cinnamon, vanilla, salt, apricot syrup and peach syrup. Add noodles and eggs and stir until well mixed.

In a 1-quart round casserole layer $\frac{1}{2}$ the noodle mixture. Arrange the apricot halves and peach slices over the noodles; spread the remaining noodle mixture over the fruit.

Bake, uncovered, in a pre-heated 350-degree oven until center is hot — about 1 hour. Garnish with extra apricot and peach slices. Serve hot or warm as an accompaniment to meat or poultry or as a dessert.

Makes 8 servings.

SHEPHERD'S PIE — A mashed potato topping goes over leftover cooked meat for a family supper.

Shepherd's Pie is Old-Time

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Through the years Shepherd's Pie has been a favorite way of using leftover cooked meat. For example, in her "Domestic Receipt Book," published in 1846, Catherine Beecher (sister of Harriet Beecher Stowe) gave a recipe for it. She titled her dish "A Nice Way of Cooking Cold Meats" and her directions follow:

"Chop the (cold cooked) meat fine, add salt, pepper, a little onion, or else tomato catsup, fill a tin bread pan one-third full, cover it over with boiled potatoes, salted and mashed with cream or milk, lay bits of butter on the top and set it onto a Dutch, or stove oven, for fifteen or twenty minutes."

Modern cooks, when making Shepherd's Pie, are inclined to add gravy to the meat mixture; and they are also likely to mash butter into the potatoes instead of dotting it on top. Here's such a recipe.

SHEPHERD'S PIE

4 to 5 cups finely chopped leftover cooked meat (1 to 1 $\frac{1}{4}$ pounds)
1 small onion, finely chopped (about $\frac{1}{4}$ cup)
1 cup leftover gravy from meat
Salt and pepper to taste
Mashed potatoes, see below

Into a medium saucepan or skillet turn the meat, onion, gravy and salt and pepper. Prepare the Mashed Potatoes. Just before the potatoes are ready, bring the meat mixture to a boil and then keep hot over very low heat. Turn the hot mixture into a 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ -quart baking dish. Top with the Mashed Potatoes. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until potatoes are lightly browned — about 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

MASHED POTATOES

2 pounds (about) potatoes
1 cup water
Salt
One-third cup butter or margarine
one-third cup (about) milk
Pepper to taste

'A Sunday in America' Cecilian program theme

Mrs. Kenneth Kelly was the hostess for the March meeting of the Cecilian Music Club. Preceding the regular program Miami Trace students Lynn Acton, Denise Beedey, and Bud Mountcastle presented selections from "South Pacific" which will be performed on April 2 and 3 at their school.

Mrs. Frank Creamer, President, welcomed guests Miss Lorie Robison and Mrs. A. B. McDonald. Introduced as a new active member was Miss Anita Pruitt and as an associate, Mrs. Gilbert Crouse.

"A Sunday in America" was the theme of the program with Mrs. Edwin Thompson as chairman. The first portion of the program was a miniature church service. Mrs. Creamer played a medley of hymns as an organ prelude. They included "Onward Christian Soldiers," "O Sacred Head Now Wounded," "Softly and Tenderly," "What a Friend," "Old Rugged Cross," and "In the Garden."

The Federation Hymn of the Month, "Amazing Grace," was sung by the members accompanied by Mrs. Creamer. A vocal ensemble composed of Miss Fonda Fitchthorn, Mrs. James Grinstead, Mrs. John Frederick, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. William Temple, and Mrs. Creamer, accompanied by Mrs. Wayne Spengler, sang "Whispering Hope." Miss Fitchthorn read the 98th Psalm. The church portion was closed by special guest, Mrs. Damon Merritt, who sang "Stand Up for Jesus," and "Rock of Ages," accompanying herself on the auto harp.

The second portion of the program featured a Sunday afternoon Musicales. Mrs. Grinstead played several organ selections which had belonged to her grandmother: "The Wreck of the Titanic," "General Sigel's Grand March," and "Scottish Bells." Mrs. David Fabb, guest violinist, played "Beautiful Dreamer." Mrs. Merritt played and sang "When Irish Eyes are Smiling" and "That's an Irish Lullaby." Mrs. Frederick read the poem, "Sing, America, Sing." The Musicales closed with "The Sound of Music," presented by the ensemble.

The last portion of the program was a Sing-Along featuring songs which describe other Sunday activities in America. Included were weddings with 1 Love You Truly; bicycling in Daisy Bell; While Strolling Through the Park One Day; In my Merry Oldsmobile; Take Me out to the Ball Game; Row, Row, Row your Boat; and those who stay home and Let the Rest of the World Go By.

Following the program refreshments were served by the hostess committee, Mrs. Wayne Spengler, chairman; Mrs. Ira Barchet, Mrs. Donald Schwaigert, Mrs. Carl Meriweather, and Mrs. Edmond Woodmansee.

Jenny Adams Circle meets

Mrs. John Case welcomed the Jenny Adams Circle of the First Baptist Church to her home for the March meeting. Assisting hostesses, Mrs. Hubert Dowler, Mrs. Charles Manker and Mrs. Howard Burnett Sr., served Italian cream cake and ice cream preceding the business meeting.

Mrs. Frank Reno read "Colors of Spring" followed by roll call. Members responded with naming of Baptist mission fields, and pen sketches were presented of missionaries. Mrs. Robert West's devotion theme was "Missions," since it is Missions Month. Names of those serving in the various mission fields were given and other reports made.

Mrs. Albert Caplinger, program chairman, announced that seven large boxes of clothing had been sent to Christian centers, and that several boxes of clothing had been given to the local Church Women United center.

Mrs. John Baker announced the Baptist Women's Retreat to be held March 26 at Camp Kirkwood near Wilmington.

The annual Mother-Daughter banquet was announced for 6:30 p.m. May 15, to be held at the church.

Mrs. Myrtle Swayen presented several interesting readings from memory, "Burial of Moses," "Out of Balance," and the "Old Homelace," an original poem written by the late Mrs. Carrie Wilt.

Cards were signed for shutins and offerings collected. Mrs. Marshall Boggs gave the closing prayer.

Association studies 'Esther'

The Women's Association of McNair Presbyterian Church met in the home of Mrs. Ted Long with Mrs. Marvin Waddle the assisting hostess. Mrs. Charles Wood, president, opened the meeting with "Look to This Day." In memory of Mrs. Faye Stult, she read "On the Other Side of Death" and "Death is only a Part of Life." She also read from the news letter concerning missionaries for 1976.

Eleven members answered roll call with things pertaining to Lent or Easter. The next meeting will be

March 22 in the home of Mrs. William Bricks, and Sewing Day was set for 10 a.m. April 29 at the church with a potluck lunch. The Spring Presbyterial was announced for March 31 at 9:30 a.m. at the Lancaster Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. John Warnecke gave an interesting Bible study on "Esther."

Refreshments were served following the Mizpah benediction. A white elephant sale was featured during the social hour.

WAHANKA KA TA

The Wahanka Ka Ta Camp Fire group held a meeting at Wilson School Tuesday. We started on the Potlatch project and completed some of the decorations. Ann Sollars served treats and the next meeting, Pam Yarker, will serve them.

Two girls were present when they worked and completed items for the Potlatch decorations. The group also presented Wilson School with three Liberty Bell plaques for the three sixth-grade rooms, for Camp Fire Birthday Week in appreciation for the use of the school for their meetings. Refreshments were served by Pam Yarker.

JOLLY JILLS 4-H

Bridget Meredith, president, called the meeting of the Jolly Jills 4-H Club to order in the home of Kili Mick. Kathy Junk called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting. Reports were heard on health by Rhonda Dean entitled "A Daily Food Guide." She gave all pamphlets on the subject.

Cheryl Coil's safety report was entitled "Toward Safer Cycling." She, too, gave pamphlets to all.

Service projects of painting trash cans and volunteer program at the Memorial Hospital were discussed.

A committee was appointed to plan possible trips for the club. The committee members are Debbie McHolan, Lisa Jackson, Bridget Meredith, Kellie Mick, Rhonda Dean and Melissa Wheeler. A committee to decide new fund-raising projects is composed of Kathy Junk, Leann Mattson, Teresa Dean and Janelle Meredith.

Refreshments were served by Kellie Mick and Debbie Tice. Melissa Wheeler gave a demonstration on "Mixing Colors for Art." Debbie Tice gave a demonstration on "Meal Appeal" and Bridget Meredith gave one on "Preparing a Salad and its Dressing."

CHERRY HILL HOMEMAERS

Jennifer Barnette called the meeting to order, and led the 4-H Pledge. All answered by naming a favorite food. Dawn Ellars made the secretary's report and Jenny Slager the treasurer's report. Merri Surritt read a health report and Jenny Slager and Merri gave a community report.

The club voted to collect for the Cancer Society, and make favors for a nursing home. Merri Surritt brought refreshments.

The next meeting will be March 23. Karen Ingram, reporter

EASTSIDE CUB PACK 20

Bear Dens 1 and 3 and Webelos Den 7, 8 and 9 met in Eastside School Thursday evening. Cubmaster Charles Starkey introduced County Engineer Charles Wagner who spoke on engineering, bridges and maps. This informative talk helped the Webelos who are working on their Engineer Activity Badge. At the close of the meeting, Mr. Wagner distributed maps of Washington C. H. and Fayette County to the Cubs.

Conner Farm Women meet

Mrs. Emerson Martin entertained the Conner Farm Woman's Club at her home, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. W. Barton Montgomery, president, opened the meeting by reading "So You're Going to Marry a Farmer." Mrs. R. Carleton Belt, chaplain, gave the devotion and read an interesting article concerning St. Patrick's Day in Ireland. The Club Creed was read in unison. Mrs. Lorain Morter, secretary-treasurer read the minutes and gave the roll call. Each member responded by telling "Your Irish Heritage." Cards of thanks were read from Cassandra Delay and Lelia Palmer. A letter was read by Mrs. Morter from the Veterans Administration announcing Hospital Day for Sunday, May 2. Mrs. Montgomery announced the April roll call would be "The Time You Made the Biggest Fool Out of Yourself."

Mrs. Maryon Mark, program chairman, turned the program over to Mrs. Marting, who in turn introduced Mrs. Richard Winttingham. Mrs. Winttingham, assisted by Mrs. Marting, told of the proper skin care and the correct use of the art of make-up. Their models for the demonstration were Mrs. Mark, Mrs. Belt, Mrs. Russell Lanman, Mrs. Maurice Sollars, Mrs. Heber Deer, Mrs. Kenneth Bush, and Mrs. Anna Smith.

At the close of the afternoon, Mrs. Marting served St. Patrick's Day refreshments to Mrs. Belt, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Orville Bush, Mrs. Robert I. Case, Mrs. Robert D. Energy problems due to federal regulations?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Switch on the gas stove, start the car, turn down the heat from the oil furnace. These everyday activities are all touched by the federal energy regulators.

From the price on the gasoline pump to how warm a home is in winter, the regulators' decisions affect the costs and availability of energy in this country.

Indirectly, the energy regulators' decisions affect the surf and sand of a summer vacation and the purity of the air.

The energy regulators, created to shield consumers from industry abuses role in setting base prices for oil and and monopoly price gouging, make up a major portion of Washington's alphabet soup — FPC, FEA, NRC, BLM, EPA, FTC, ICC.

From the consumers' level, federal regulators seem to have little impact. None of the federal energy regulators has a direct consumer price authority like the Civil Aeronautics Board does on airline fares. Such visible consumer impact is wielded by state and local regulators — mostly utility commissions.

But federal energy regulators play a natural gas and in providing incentives for marketing some types of energy.

Industry critics blame federal agencies in part for recent energy shortages and warn of more severe shortages to come unless regulatory policies are changed.

Although these broad charges do not always withstand close scrutiny, they do cast a harsh light on one fact — energy regulations have a cost.

NATURAL GAS

Perhaps the single most controversial energy regulation today is the Federal Power Commission's control of prices charged for natural gas by producers to interstate pipelines.

The nation is faced with a growing shortage of natural gas, which industry spokesmen repeatedly blame on "22 years of federal regulation."

In fact, there is evidence the shortage had other important causes: heavy industry promotion of gas usage, disappointing production from overrated fields and the shift of exploration in the 1960s from the United States to the Middle East and other low-cost areas.

But the accusation against federal regulation has gained legitimacy in recent years as inflation accelerated drilling costs.

The wheels of federal regulation grind slowly. By the time the FPC is ready to authorize price increases, costs may have soared even higher.

For example, Pennzoil Producing Co. asked the FPC in 1973 to approve natural gas sales at 47 cents per thousand cubic feet. But the commission balked, demanding actual cost figures.

Two years later, after studying the figures, an FPC examiner concluded Pennzoil really needed 65 cents a thousand. But, by then, the company wanted 80 cents.

Price increases granted in recent years by the FPC for gas at the well have shown up later as price increases on the homeowner's gas bill. But such federally approved hikes are not even the major factor in soaring gas bills.

Industry statistics show that, since 1969, the national average price of natural gas at the well has added about $30 to the average annual gas bill. But, in the same period, the average bill has actually jumped a total of $82.

This means about two-thirds of the increased prices paid by gas consumers reflect increases in costs all down the distribution system and not just the wellhead price rises.

The industry complains that federal regulation simply cannot adjust prices quickly and fairly enough to stimulate all out exploration for new gas supplies.

And the nation does face a deepening shortage of natural gas — temporarily disguised this winter by a slow economy, availability of substitute fuels and mild weather.

The Federal Energy Administration estimated gas supplies were 11 per cent below needs in 1975 and projected a 16 per cent shortage for this year — a shortfall that might not be cushioned again by the economy or the weather.

The industry's solution is for Congress to end federal price regulation of natural gas.

If the industry is right, the consumer will pay more for gas — perhaps a lot more — but a reliable supply will be assured.

But what if the industry is wrong?

Oil

In the 1950's, Arab oil was cheaper than U.S. oil, and the domestic producers wanted protection against a raid on their customers. They got it in 1959 when President Dwight D. Eisenhower imposed a quota limiting oil imports.

But domestic oil production has dwindled until the United States now depends on foreign sources for nearly 40 per cent of its oil, the dependency that made the 1973 Arab oil embargo possible.

Some industry spokesmen now blame the very quota system, imposed for their protection, for driving domestic production down.

They say the quota system was not tight enough, that it let in too much foreign oil. And they say the threat of larger quotas was used to keep domestic producers from raising their prices higher, and earning the profits they claim were needed for exploration at home.

The quotas were removed in 1973 because the nation simply needed all the oil imports it could get.

But while they lasted, did the quotas protect consumer from high prices, or did they discourage domestic supply and set him up for even higher prices once the foreign producer's cartel was in the driver's seat?

Another dilemma of energy regulation.

Sentencing slated in factory arson

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Six men convicted of plotting to blow up a Shelton factory a year ago are scheduled to be sentenced today in U.S. District Court.

They are the Rev. David N. Bubar of Memphis, Tenn., Peter Betres and his distant cousin, Ronald Betres, both of Butler Pa.; Dennis C. Tiche of Boyers, Pa.; Anthony Just, Greensburg, Pa., and Albert R. Coffey, Akron, Ohio.

They were among 10 men originally indicted in connection with the March 1975 dynamiting of the Sponge Rubber Products Co. plant. The FBI has called it the costliest arson case the bureau has investigated.

Bubar, who claims to be a psychic, Peter Betres and Tiche were convicted early this year of four arson-related counts. They could receive prison sentences as long as 30 years, but shorter terms are expected.

Just, Coffey and Ronald Betres were convicted of two of the four counts against them and could be sentenced to up to 10 years. They also were indicted recently on first-degree kidnapping charges filed by the state in the same case. They and six others face state charges ranging from kidnapping to burglary.

Bubar, an ordained Baptist minister who was an adviser to the president of Sponge Rubber's parent company at the time of the blast, was accused of paying $35,000 in company funds to eight other arsonists.

The president Charles C. Moeller of Cridersville, Ohio, also was indicted but was acquitted. He heads Ohio Decorative Products Co. of Spencer, Ohio.

The government's star witness, John Shaw of Pennsylvania, was allowed to plead guilty to reduced charges after he agreed to testify against the others. His sentencing date has not yet been set.

Of the two remaining defendants, one was acquitted and the other, Michael Tiche of Boyers, Pa., is awaiting word on whether he will be retried. Proceedings against him ended in a mistrial.

Meanwhile, Moeller's company has filed two lawsuits totaling nearly $74 million against insurance companies and brokers involved in policies issued on the Shelton plant. Claims for damages were rejected after Moeller and the other nine men were indicted.

A high pressure system covering the Great Lakes and extending through the middle Mississippi Valley to east Texas should bring clear skies and moderating temperatures to Ohio in the next few days.

Skies cleared over much of the state overnight with clouds remaining only in the northeast. Temperatures ranged from a low of 13 at Toledo to 23 at Youngstown and readings in the low 30s along the Ohio River.

Fair Wednesday and Friday and a chance of showers Thursday. Highs during the period in the 60s and low 70s. Lows in the upper 30s and 40s.

LEGAL NOTICE REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS FISCAL YEAR 1977

COMPREHENSIVE MANPOWER PROGRAMS
Notice is hereby given that the Regional Manpower Services Council, Area 6, is requesting proposals for FY-77 Manpower Programs. Programs are funded through Title I money authorized by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 (CETA). As a component of CETA, the general purpose of Title I programs is to provide job training and employment opportunities for economically disadvantaged, unemployed and underemployed persons and to assure that these services lead to maximum employment opportunities. Economically disadvantaged persons have been defined as the primary priority group for the RMSC plan. Within this group, other priority groups to be served include, but are not limited to: unemployed heads of household; youth in-school, ages 14-18; youth out-of-school, ages 14-18; disabled; older workers, age 55 or older; and, veterans (within each of the above groups). The Council has established the following goals for FY-77: 1) to establish marketable skills for economically disadvantaged persons within the region so they can become and remain competitive job seekers in the labor market; 2) continuation of subsidized employment to persons chronically disregarded by the mainstream of jobs in this region, in order to prepare the participant for placement in an unsubsidized position; 3) emphasis on expanding training opportunities to affect long-range solutions to the expanding unemployed, underemployed, and disadvantaged population of Region 6. Any individual or organization may submit a proposal; however, the regulations disallow the funding of a program which would produce profit for the contractor. Geographic area to be served is RMSC 6: Clinton, Fairfield, Fayette, Madison, Pickaway, and Union Counties. Applications may be obtained from your county's Community Action Program office. Further information may be obtained from the CAP office. From John Borrowman, RMSC 6 Chairman at (513) 382-8356 or from Barbara Thall, RMSC 6 Field Representative at (414) 466-8428 or 1-800-282-1050 (toll free). Completed applications should be returned to Chester White, Planning Coordinator, Office of Manpower Development, 30 East Broad St., 27th Floor, Columbus, Ohio 43215, no later than April 9, 1976. Proposals must be submitted in triplicate in the form provided by request. Mar. 22, 29 - April 5.

Prevention week observed

Poison among top child killers

This week's observance of National Poison Prevention Week, March 21-27 is a reminder that man is still attempting to remedy an age-old emergency medical problem.

Today thousands of children are accidentally poisoned each year through the ingestion of common household substances such as cleaning agents, laundry detergents, furniture polishes, medicines, cosmetics, petroleum products such as gasoline and turpentine, and garden chemicals.

The theme for 1976 poison prevention week, "Children Act Fast... So Can Poison," points to the heart of the problem, according to the Council on Family Health.

Small children, especially those between ages one and three, are naturally inquisitive. This tendency, says the council, places an unavoidable responsibility on parents to keep youngsters away from household items that can tempt their instincts to touch and taste.

Most parents strive to prevent accidents through close supervision of their children. But few adults also consider the basic safety of the home environment from day to day and in the course of using and storing potentially toxic substances.

As a result, despite educational efforts and the increasingly widespread use of child-resistant packaging or

"safety caps," poisonings continue to rank among the five leading causes of death to children under age five.

To help make National Poison Prevention Week of year-round benefit to families with small children, the council, a non-profit, public service organization sponsored by the manufacturers of medicines, offer these tips to homemakers —

—At spring cleaning time, and routinely during the year, survey the home from room to room to be sure all potentially toxic products are stored where children can't reach them; —Examine medicines and other substances to determine whether any items are no longer being used and may be discarded.

Legislators introduce "Truth in Labeling" bill

State representatives Phale D. Hale (D-Columbus), Ed Orlett (D-Dayton), C.R. Saxbe (R-Mechanicsburg) and John Brandenburg (R-Cincinnati) are jointly sponsoring legislation in the 111th General Assembly designed to help Ohio consumers make more cost effective decisions when purchasing drug products.

Called the "Truth in Labeling Law", H.B. 1153 would require that the name of the actual manufacturer of the finished drug product be disclosed on all drug labeling and advertising. The consumer bill, originally introduced by Representative Hale, is based on similar legislation already enacted in California.

At a State House press conference, Monday the state representatives graphically demonstrated recent drug source information which illustrates that in many instances the finished drug products - that is the actual tablets, capsules, etc. - of one manufacturer are sold under the trade marks of various other firms. Although 18 companies market "chloral hydrate," a sleep inducing prescription drug, the capsules all are made by one manufacturer, R.P. Scherer Corp. of Detroit, Mich.

The prices charged to retail pharmacists for the different brand names of chloral hydrate very widely, and inevitably must be reflected in the pharmacists' drug price to the public.

Among other misleading trade name products described by the representatives was the product "erythromycin Stearate," a commonly prescribed antibiotic, which is marketed by 14 companies under their trade names, but is actually produced by only three manufacturing firms.

Representatives of the Ohio State Pharmaceutical Association have given their unqualified endorsement to H.B. 1153. Pharmacy spokesmen stated that pharmacists have endeavored to hold the line on drug costs in a time of rapidly spiraling inflation and pointed to the most recent U.S. Department of Labor Consumer Price Index indicating that the average price of prescriptions dispensed in U.S. cities has increased only by slightly more than one per cent annually from January 1967 through December 1975.

They said lack of actual manufacturer information imposes inequities on physicians, pharmacists and patients alike. By making public the actual source of the manufacture of drug products, both at the point of sale and prior to sale, H.B. 1153 would provide consumers with valuable information, and give physicians and pharmacists another tool to more effectively select brands of prescription drugs on a cost versus quality basis, thus resulting in lower inventory costs to the pharmacists and lower purchase costs to the consumer.

CAMERA Angles

By Irving Desfor
AP Newsfeatures

A valuable new tool is now available to help advance the national rising trend of teaching photography in our nation's schools. The new tool is designed to make it easier than ever for any high school to introduce a photography course in its curriculum. It consists of a pair of newly-published companion books — a comprehensive photography text and a curriculum guide for teachers — which guide both students and teachers on every step on the road to photographic experience.

Mark Jacobs and Ken Kokrda, two qualified teachers, are the authors of "Photography in Focus" and "Curriculum Guide for Photography," published in paperback format by National Texnook Co., of Skokie, Ill., in cooperation with Popular Photography magazine. Distribution of the pair to camera and book stores is handled by Amphoto, Garden City, N.Y.

"It's a visual world we live in today, and the camera is making an impact on our lives as it never has before," says Sidney Holtz, publisher of Popular Photography in the Introduction.

"Because photography is a tool that can unlock your creativity, make you see yourself and your world in a very special way, and communicate that special insight to others," he adds, "learning to use this tool can help you to lead an enriched life."

The text, "Photography in Focus," clarifies the photographic process in simple language and step-by-step progression in 13 chapters illustrated by hundreds of photographs, drawings, charts and assignments.

Authors Jacobs and Kokrda offer four reasons why teaching photography is important for students, the schools and the community:

Photography is an excellent motivator. It has an element of magic that draws students to it and then provides them with instant involvement and gratification as they see results.

Photography increases visual awareness and the skills needed for visual communication. Students learn to observe and select from all they see only what is important to show to others. They record in a split second an event or a scene that may never happen again in exactly the same way.

Photography techniques teach discipline and organization. Students must learn basic rules in handling films, camera and processing in order to achieve results. Sloppy or careless work can't be covered up — the results show it.

Photography can develop vocational skills. Even if students do not plan a professional career in photography, the knowledge and skills acquired can be useful in other areas of school work, as a part-time vocation or with any career that may develop.

The text is designed to start students working with photography projects from the very beginning, with "Photograms." These are pictures of objects made with a camera but with the one essential element: light. Without light, photography can't exist.

The second chapter deals with the simplest of cameras, the pinhole camera. This is followed with a chapter on how to use the adjustable cameras now in use. Next come separate chapters on the basics of processing, contact printing and enlarging. Each includes assignments which should familiarize students with each aspect of darkroom work.

Having built a foundation establishing photography's technical working ability, chapter seven discusses its ability to communicate and say something significant. A photograph that is technically proficient but lacks meaningful content does not fulfill its mission. A photograph that has esthetic potential but is hampered by poor technical handling is equally unsuccessful.

It's fair to say then that good technique is important as one element of a good photograph, but it is not enough to stand alone. It requires good content as well, a hard thing to define since it's a matter of taste, appreciation and esthetics. At this point, students encounter visual awareness and can develop a personal viewpoint. As a photographer, he or she must supply a satisfactory statement; as a viewer, he or she must be open to receive a photograph's message.

From chapters 8 to 12, the text reinforces its foundation with advanced explanations of light, lenses, films and filters, cameras and an introduction to color photography. And in the final chapter, the authors take a step backward into the history of photography and how it evolved over hundreds of years. Students, having been given a background of today's photo processes, can then understand and appreciate the early processes and early masters of photography from a personal perspective.

King Kong actor still has flair

CHICAGO (AP) — King Kong is alive, well and happy as a security guard for a Chicago insurance company.

"It was me in my gorilla suit up on top of the Empire State Building, clutching Fay Wray in one hand or putting her gently on a ledge and knocking down attacking planes until the bullets got me," says Carmen Nigro, recalling the memorable, final scene of the 1933 movie classic, King Kong.

"Of course, what I was on was an eight-foot model on the RKO stage with a backdrop of New York City," said the man who was known for 25 years as the Hollywood Ape-man.

"Fay Wray was an animated doll. Planes were projected on the backdrop. There were a few little gasoline-powered planes hooked on wires that were aimed around me. I wore fur-covered ballet slippers with rubber suction pads on the bottom. I looked 50 feet tall."

Nigro, whose professional name was Ken Roady, is a lively 71-year-old who still can mimic the shuffle of an ape. He appeared as a stuntman in about 100 movies and played a gorilla in 33 others.

A barrel-chested 5-foot-6, Nigro was the hairy beast in Mighty Joe Young, The Unholy Three, Tarzan and His Mate, Night of Horror and Ape Man Nabonga. His last gorilla movie was Gorilla At Large in 1954.

Nigro said he studied the way an ape moves when he accompanied the late

Frank Buck, the animal collector, on two jungle trips.

"I was ready when I heard RKO was looking for a gorilla man in 1931 to play the title role of King Kong," said Nigro. "I had to beat out a couple of other guys. I was the most realistic and besides I paid $3,500 to have a gorilla suit made out of six bear skins. I still have it at home but it's in pretty bad shape now."

"The hardest part of the job was withstanding the heat buildup inside the suit. I'd have to take the head off every 10 minutes to get my breath. Over the years I wore out eight Kong heads and 10 sets of arms and extension hands."

For his part as King Kong, one of the most famous roles in movie history, Nigro said he was paid $7,500, "and when you deduct the cost of the costume, I netted only $4,000."

Nigro now lives in a small apartment in Cicero, a Chicago suburb. He says producers would not let him use the name King Kong in the girl-and-gorilla acts he took across the country. He also worked as a dining car cook on the Sante Fe Railroad, finally became a chef and retired in 1970 after 32 years of service. He said he gets no money when King Kong or some of the other old movies he appeared in are on television.

They are remaking King Kong now in Hollywood, but Nigro says he is through with gorillas. "I'm just happy being a security guard and having my memories," he said.

HAYES MUSEUM — Visitors at the Hayes Museum stop to look at an exhibit on the military life of President Hayes when he was a general in the Union Army during the Civil War.

Located outside Sandusky

Hayes Memorial offers insight to Ohio history

Ohio has figured significantly in America's past 200 years, supplying the country with no less than eight U.S. Presidents.

One of them was Rutherford B. Hayes, elected to office during the nation's first centennial celebration in 1876. The beautifully preserved estate in Fremont, where he lived prior to and following his years at the White House, is now a state memorial offering vacationers an intimate insight into the lifestyle of the former chief executive and his family.

Located 21 miles southwest of Sandusky, nestled in a wooded plot on the outskirts of town, "Spiegel Grove" stands a century apart from the concrete and steel of our modern day architecture.

Here, is the well-furnished house that Sardis Birchard purchased for his promising young nephew and his family in 1846. Looking much smaller in old prints of Birchard's time, the "modernization" of the home, can be largely attributed to Hayes. Here he lived with his wife and three sons during his second term as governor of Ohio, until 1877, when he left Spiegel Grove and headed for Washington to become America's 19th President.

Agreeing to serve only one term in office, he returned to his Ohio home in 1880, but not before building another substantial addition and remodeling the interior of the older section. At 51, Hayes, far from "retirement" was kept busy raising his youngest son and daughter, and, as a speaker on prison reform, was in popular demand.

In 1889, he made further changes to the home, adding a large dining room and several rooms upstairs. Living as a private citizen and keeping out of public observation, his remaining twelve years in Fremont were happy ones, as his last wish to a friend testifies: "I would rather die at Spiegel Grove than to live anywhere else."

Today, softened by age, the gracious four-story brick home is made even more so by the collection of personal belongings of the Hayes family. Inside, the tastes, traditions and the quality of life that grew out of a more romantic era, have been preserved for 20th century visitors.

Although not an ostentatious home, the dignified portraits, gas-burning chandeliers, ornate brass door knobs and fifteen fireplaces found throughout the rooms, indicate that the owners were a family of wealth and importance.

Outside, the spacious grounds of the estate contain as much history as the home it surrounds. A section of the famous Sandusky-Scioto Indian trail follows one of the major drives, running along the southern portion of the estate. Used by the French and Indians in their war against the British, it later became a supply trail for William Henry Harrison during the War of 1812. Winding through the estate for nearly half a mile, the trail provides visitors a scenic walk through the well-landscaped grounds.

Dennis seeks re-election

Ohio Senator Max H. Dennis (R-Wilmington) today announced the filing of petitions and his candidacy for re-election to the Senate subject to the June 8 primary election.

Dennis presently represents the Tenth Ohio Senate District which comprises all of Greene and Madison Counties, the greater portion of Fayette Clinton, and Highland Counties, and the city of Springfield, together with the southwest portion of Clark County including Enon and New Carlisle.

He has served in the Ohio Senate since 1963, originally by appointment, and has been successfully re-elected in 1964, 1966, 1968, and 1972.

Dennis is currently one of the senior Republican members of the Ohio Senate and is the ranking minority member of the Senate finance committee. He also serves on the health and retirement and the elections, financial institutions, and insurance committees.

One of Senator Dennis's current key assignments is upon the State Controlling Board which supervises the allocation and release of funds for all of the various state departments and agencies as well as approving contracts for the construction of state buildings and the hiring of architects and consultants.

He holds the distinction of being the only Republican chairman of a committee in the General Assembly under Democrat control. He heads the Legislative Budget Committee, comprised of both House and Senate members, whose responsibility is to study and recommend improvements in the various aspects of the state fiscal system.

During his period of service in the Ohio Senate he has served on a variety of special projects and select committees such as the Ohio Tax Study Committee, the Task Force on Higher Education, the Legislative Service Commission, the Select Committee to Investigate the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, and the Interstate Cooperation Commission.

In addition to his Senate duties, he also maintains a law practice in Wilmington. A graduate of Wilmington High School and Washington and Lee University, he and his family reside on a farm in the Clinton County community.

Toledo Edison hearings delayed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hearings on Toledo Edison's proposal to build two additional nuclear units at the DavisBesse nuclear power station in Ottawa County have been postponed by an Ohio Power Siting Commission administrative law judge.

The delay from May 4 to July 6 was granted by Ralph E. Nusken as a result of a request by Toledo Edison Co. for additional time to answer commission questions. Nusken gave Toledo Edison until April 5 to provide the data.

Plan programs about nature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Five weekend programs on nature awareness and outdoor recreation are planned this spring by the natural resources department.

The first workshop, to study wildflowers, is scheduled April 23-25 at John Bryan State Park in Greene County.

Local group sponsors medical training class

A group of Washington C. H. area citizens concerned about a shortage of trained medical technicians in Fayette County have formed the Fayette County Emergency Medical Service. Their goal is to increase the number of area residents who are trained to cope with emergencies and provide on-the-spot medical assistance.

In accordance with this goal, the group has obtained the services of Phillip Brewer, an employee at Mac Tool, Inc., who is a certified as an emergency medical technician instructor.

He will hold medical training classes each Tuesday night beginning April 13. Ralston Smith, Fayette County Disaster Services director, said a site for the classes has not yet been selected.

Smith, who has served as spokesman for the Fayette County Emergency Medical Service, said the program will consist of 60 hours of training. The class will convene for approximately four hours each night. The weekly meetings may continue for as long as four months.

Tuition has not yet been established, but Smith estimated that it would be $10-$15 per enrollee. Those who are interested in participating may contact 335-4608 or 335-2590 to register or obtain additional information.

Smith said the group was prompted to action by a report of the Ohio Bureau of Information Services which cites deficiencies in skilled areas for each of Ohio's counties. Among those listed for Fayette County was a shortage of emergency medical service technicians.

PTO slates school fair

The Madison Mills Parent-Teacher Organization will hold its annual "Fun Fair" Saturday, March 27.

The cafeteria will open from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. when sandwiches, salads, pie, pizza, coffee and soft drinks will be served.

The game area will be open from 6 to 9 p.m. These games will include cake walks, basketball and football throw, fish pond, rifle match, cartoon movies and bingo.

Drawings for a $50 and $25 Savings Bonds will be held at 9 p.m. All proceeds from the Fair will be used to purchase a duplicating machine and other items for the school.

Wilson School spelling bee

Wilson Elementary School held a Spelling Bee last week with Mrs. Vicki Leasure serving as spelling judge.

The winners were Emily Engle, fifth grade; Steve Main and Ann Sollars, sixth grade. The top three students in the school received a plaque and will participate in the Miami Trace Spelling Bee March 27.

MEDICINE IN THE COLONIAL ERA

Pauline Thornton
When old Doctor Hillman called on a patient and left some medicine, he'd say: "If the dose I've prescribed doesn't have any effect, take a double dose. Then you'll either be better or worse, or you'll be about the same."

As this anecdote suggests, the practice of medicine throughout the colonial period was pretty much a "hit-and-miss" affair.

Another medical man, Dr. John Arms of Brattleboro, Vermont, was likewise skeptical about his ability to cure disease. Of his own illnesses, he said, "I live on corn meal pudding until my disease gets disgusted and leaves me."

The first doctors in this rather "dark era" of colonial medicine were the local ministers. These clergymen-physicians tended the souls as well as the bodies of the sick. The difficulty of importing medical supplies led them to use native plants and to imitate the practices of Indian medicine. The common cold, for example, was treated with "Wormwood, Sage, Marygolds and Crabs-claws boiled in posset drink."

According to the medical observer John Josselyn, the residents of Massachusetts in the late seventeenth century combatted the dread disease smallpox, which "carried away abundance of their children," with pills of cotton which they swallowed, with sugar and salad oil boiled thick and made into pills, and with allos taken in the pap of an apple.

From the Indians, the colonists learned to prepare a great variety of purgatives. Already a favorite Old World cure-all, the emetic or laxative was used to rid the body of almost any disease or poison. Induced sweating and bloodletting were also practiced widely and indiscriminately. Josselyn says of the Indian practice of sweating that after sitting next to a great fire, the smallpox victims "run into the Sea of River." Soon after, "they come to their Huts again where they either recover or give up the Ghost."

In the early eighteenth century, theories of sympathetic medicine gave rise to a number of peculiar practices. During epidemics, many colonists carried little boxes, each containing a spider and a toad. Both of these supposedly venomous creatures would draw the contagion away from the carrier and protect him from disease.

So much quackery abounded in connection with this medical theory that one Revolutionary Almanack maker proclaimed: "From quack lawyers, quack doctors, mad dogs and yellow fever, Good Lord, deliver us!"

During the Revolution itself, military conditions favored the spread of fevers and the pox and pointed up the complete insufficiency of all the usual cures. The founding father, John Adams, wrote that smallpox was "ten times more terrible than Britons, Canadians and Indians together." It was, in fact, the chief killer during the Revolution.

The diaries of army physicians contain everything from complaints to Congress for its failure to supply adequate staff and supplies (nurses were paid one-fifteenth of a dollar per day), to vivid accounts of death from disease on the front. Dr. Lewis Beebe of the Canadian campaign reports that "No mortal will ever believe what these suffered unless they were eye witnesses." His diary records the daily death toll of hundreds of soldiers herded into large barns, while he himself "had not one article calculated for their assistance."

It was Dr. Benjamin Rush, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, who finally restored some order to the chaos. He had been shocked by the sight of feverish soldiers lying uncovered on the cold October ground. Moved to compassion by the sight of so much suffering ("My heart is almost broken at seeing the distresses of my countrymen without a power to remedy them"), Dr. Rush instituted sane medical reforms. He focused especially on the dress, diet, cleanliness, and encampment of American soldiers.

Men like Rush, who emphasized sanitary conditions and inoculation, lead America out of the dark ages of medical practice.

Prep basketball semifinals

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "People said it was a fluke last year. We've got something to prove," said Jene Davis, who led Columbus Linden-McKinley to the Ohio Class AAA state tournament title last spring.

Davis hit the jackpot in his first head high school basketball coaching season in 1975, leading a quick, short team all the way.

So the Panthers are back in their customary underdog role. Their 21-3 record is the poorest of the four big school semifinalists. And they were ranked 10th statewide to Barborton's No. 2, Toledo Scott's No. 3 and Middletown's No. 5.

"We snuck up on everybody last year. We've had a lot of pressure this time. Our kids have a lot of confidence from winning last year," said the young, intense Davis.

Linden-McKinley is rematched with seven-time state champion Middletown (22-2) at 11 a.m. Friday. Barborton's 24-0 Magics and Scott's 23-0 Bulldogs battle in the other AAA semifinal at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

The two games are part of a three-day spectacle in Ohio State's St. John Arena to crown Ohio's 53rd state boys champions.

In opening Class AA semifinals Thursday, third-ranked Lorain Catholic (24-0) tangles with Brookfield (23-1) at 6 p.m. while No. 4 Wellsville

(22-0) goes against Dayton Roth (20-5) at 9:30 p.m.

In Class A semifinals Friday, Arcanum, ranked second and 25-0, bids for its third state title against Pettisville (24-1) at 6 p.m. Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South (23-1), the 1972 Ohio victor playing in its fifth straight state semifinals, tests Windham (20-4) at 9:30 p.m.

The title contests will be played Saturday with the AA finale at 11:30 a.m., the AAA championship at 3 p.m. and the A windup at 7:30 p.m.

Linden-McKinley has only one regular back from its 1975 championship squad, but he's all-state guard Todd Penn, the spindly, swift Panthers' acknowledged team leader.

"He can do whatever it is necessary to win games," Davis promised of his 5-foot-9 junior guard. "He could score 35 points a game if we played that way."

Paul Walker, who has coached five of Middletown's unprecedented seven state titles, guided 17 of his 30 teams into regional play, but this is his first state semifinal appearance since 1959. Aware of that, Ohio Commissioner Harold Meyer shook his hand at a meeting of state coaches Sunday and said, "Welcome back, Kotter."

The 64-year-old Walker, his career victory total at Middletown up to 694, concedes Butch Carter and "our great improvement over the season" are the reasons for his return to the state semifinals.

"Carter and Lucas are the two best players I ever coached. But they were in different categories. Lucas was the best high school player ever to come out of Ohio," said Walker.

Carter, a 6-5 senior forward, has all the tools that major colleges look for, too. He's averaged nearly 24 points in the Middies' 24 games this winter. Barborton Coach Jack Greynolds, who has produced 21 straight winning seasons in his career, took a look at his starting five of four boys 6-1 and another at 5-7.

"We've got to be the smallest team ever to play in the state tournament," he said. "With that size, we should be in a junior high tournament. But we play bigger when they throw the ball up."

The Magics, pressing full court defensively and running on offense, have sped by four big, powerful teams in a row, Akron Central-Hower, Akron East, Cleveland East Tech and No. 1 Canton McKinley.

"We forced something like 38 turnovers by McKinley," said Greynolds proudly of his team's 77-70 conquest of the Canton powerhouse in a regional championship Saturday.

A Toledo school never has won an Ohio basketball championship. That, however, does not ruffle tall Ben Williams, the coach of Scott.

"No, it doesn't bother me," said Williams. "It's encouraging to me."

In 6-7 second-team All-Ohioan Donald Collins, Barborton's shorties will tangle with another tall, talented star. Collins averaged nearly 19 points and 11 rebounds and led the Bulldogs in assists and blocked shots and was second in steals, helping Scott to the Toledo city championship.

Miami Trace sets cage all-star game

A junior high school all-star basketball game will be held Tuesday night at Miami Trace High School.

The contest will match a north all-star squad composed of eighth graders at Jeffersonville and Bloomington against a south squad from Wayne, Eber and New Holland.

The junior high school contest will begin at 7 p.m. and a game between non-varsity juniors and non-varsity seniors at Miami Trace will begin at 8:15 p.m.

The finals of the high school's one-on-one competition will be held between games. A donation of 50 cents for children and $1 for adults will be collected at the door.

Owls upset Gears, 6-4

By The Associated Press
The Columbus Owls, in the cellar of the International Hockey League South Division, upset the North Division-leading Saginaw Gears 6-4 Sunday night in an IHL game at Saginaw.

Steve Lyon had three goals to pace the Owls, now 24-45-7. The loss dropped the Gears to 41-24-9.

In other IHL games Sunday, Muskegon and Flint fought to a 2-2 tie.

UCLA, Indiana rematch

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Gene Bartow remembers the first time UCLA played Indiana this season. It's not a very pleasant memory, but it's one he's getting a chance to erase.

"It was my first game at UCLA," said the man who stepped into the shoes of the legendary John Wooden as coach of the Bruins. "It meant so much to me, the pressure that was on me was extended to our players. I think we were over-prepared."

Indiana overran UCLA 84-64 in that season opener in St. Louis Nov. 29, the Hoosiers' first triumph in a perfect string of 30 so far this year. The Bruins, meanwhile, stumbled through the early part of their schedule but then put the pieces together to win the Pacific-8 title and a berth in the NCAA tournament, where they are defending the title they won 10 of the past 12 years under Wooden.

Bartow will get a chance to wipe out the memory of that initial defeat Saturday when Indiana and UCLA square off again in the NCAA semifinals at the Spectrum in Philadelphia. It's the second game of a doubleheader that will be nationally televised (NBC, 2 p.m., EST), with Rutgers, 31-0, and Michigan, 24-6, meeting in the first semifinal. The winners meet in the final Monday night, March 29.

If top-ranked Indiana's 65-56 triumph over No. 2 Marquette in the Midwest Regional Saturday was the Game of the Year, the UCLA-Indiana matchup must rate as the Rematch of the Year.

The last time, All-American center Kent Benson of Indiana was the dominant factor, controlling play at both ends of the court. But since then, 6-foot-10 freshman David Greenwood has replaced 7-2 senior Ralph Drollinger as UCLA's starting pivotman, and Bartow hopes the two of them will be enough to contain Benson.

Also on display in the big rematch will be two of the game's premier forwards, Scott May of Indiana and Richard Washington of UCLA. The 6-foot-7 May is a first-team All-American and college basketball's Player of the Year, while the 6-10½ Washington was a second-team All-American.

Both played prominent roles in Saturday's regional finals.

Washington scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead fifth-ranked UCLA, 26-4, past 15th-ranked Arizona 82-66 in the West Regional on UCLA's home floor, Pauley Pavilion. The game was tied 58-58 with eight minutes left before UCLA broke it open with 12 consecutive points, Washington getting two baskets and an assist in the burst.

May picked up three personal fouls in the first 6½ minutes of Indiana's game against Marquette at Baton Rouge, La., and sat out the rest of the first half. But he came back in the second half to help his team to its 64th victory in the last 65 games.

The red-hot Hoosiers hit 15 of their first 21 shots from the field and raced to an early 30-19 lead before Marquette closed to 36-35 at halftime. The Hoosiers built a 10-point lead midway through the second half, but again the Warriors rallied.

Wildcats capture NIT championship

NEW YORK (AP) — The North Carolina-Charlotte 49ers took three bites of the "Big Apple" — but couldn't get the fourth down.

After delicious victories over the University of San Francisco, Oregon and North Carolina State, time finally ran out Sunday for the cinderella team of the 1976 National Invitation Tournament.

"I think we did a tremendous job and I'm really proud of my team," said North Carolina-Charlotte Coach Lee Rose after losing the NIT finals 71-67 to the red-hot Kentucky Wildcats. "I think you must keep in mind that Kentucky's got three high school All-Americans on their team — and we have none."

The unheralded 49ers had a seven-point lead with ten minutes left in the game and the opportunity to knock off one of college basketball's traditional powers. But strangely, they went into a slowdown while Kentucky's entire starting front line was sitting on the bench in foul trouble.

"When they started backing off," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall, "that was just fine with us. We appreciated that."

Eventually Mike Phillips, Jack Givens and James Lee — all of them saddled with four fouls — came back into the game to help Kentucky win the 39th NIT title.

The Wildcats, who landed in the finals at Madison Square Garden with close victories over Niagara, Kansas State and Providence, didn't do things the easy way in the championship game, either. Phillips scored five points in the last minute, including a crucial tap-in on a missed foul shot, and the 49ers contributed two key turnovers at the end.

"Phillips' big play at the end was a super effort," said Hall, whose team was given up for dead in midseason but finished with 10 straight victories. "The big thing about this team is that for the last 10 games, they have simply refused to be beaten. I had all the confidence in the world that we were going to win this one."

Hall, whose Wildcats lost the NCAA championship game last year to UCLA, put the whip cream on his 1975-76 season by beating the 49ers.

The Wildcats' dramatic victory overshadowed a splendid performance by UNC-Charlotte's Cedric Maxwell, who scored 24 of his tournament-leading 109 points to win the NIT's Most Valuable Player prize.

"Cornbread" just came in here and captured the imagination of the New York press," said Rose. "That's really a heck of a thing."

Hubert Green wins Jacksonville Open

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Hubert Green counts himself a lucky man.

"I'm lucky I can play golf for a living," he said.

"I'm lucky that playing golf enables me to go all over the world, places my mother and father never even thought about going. I've played in Australia and New Zealand and Morocco and Japan. I've played in England and Scotland and other places in Europe. I'm lucky I can do this. Not everybody can."

And how about the money he's piled up while playing his game, well over one-half million dollars in the last 3½ seasons?

"Money isn't everything," Green replied in his curiously quick, clipped delivery. "It's nice to have, but it isn't everything."

"I'm trying to pile up the titles, not money. If you win the titles, win the golf tournaments, the money will follow."

And Green, rapidly advancing

through the ranks of the game's premier performers, piled up another one Sunday, rallying from the potential disaster of a double bogey with a gritty, two-under-par 70 that won him the $35,000 first prize in the Greater Jacksonville Open.

It was the second title in as many weeks for the man who calls himself "just a skinny kid from Birmingham," and the 11th, including a Japanese title, in his career.

Now Green, who won this one by two strokes with a 12-underpar total of 276, would like to get lucky enough to win one of the game's Big Four crowns, the only thing he really needs to gain his full stature as one of golf's leading practitioners.

"In my estimation," said Green, a run-away, record-setting winner of the Doral Open a week ago, "a great player is a player who plays well in the major tournaments."

"I haven't had a particularly good record in the majors. That's what I want to do. That's the next step."

Schlichter, Conner receive honorable mentionAll-Ohio class AAA basketball stars named

COLUMBUS (AP) — Miami Trace's Allan Conner and Art Schlichter received honorable mention all-Ohio honors today.

Conner, a senior, and Schlichter, a sophomore, were second team all-district selections earlier this month.

Butch Carter, following an illustrious line of Middletown High School basketball greats was named as the Associated Press' class AAA player of the year.

The 6-foot-5 Carter, a fluid senior forward averaging 26 points a game this season, edged 6-7½ Canton Timken ace Mike Miday for the coveted award.

Carter and Miday head the first team all-state squad. Carter was a second team All-Ohioan a year ago.

The Ohio Class AAA Coach of the Year is Don Everett of Canton McKinley.

The 57-year-old Everett, who served 25 seasons as a McKinley assistant mentor, moved into the head job this winter and guided the Bulldogs to an unbeaten regular season and The AP's state poll championship.

Everett edged Jene Davis of defending state tournament victor Columbus Linden-McKinley and Will Collins of Bellefontaine for the coaching title.

The selections, based solely on regular season performances, are made on the recommendations of a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Miday posted more than 900 points in his career, including a Canton city record of 57 points in one game this season. He already has signed a Big Ten letter-of-intent to play for top-ranked Indiana.

Also landing a first-team berth was Todd Penn, the lone starter back from Linden-McKinley's 1975 champions. The 5-foot-9 junior guard averaged almost 18 points, was a pillar in the Panthers' rugged defense and triggered their fast break.

Other first teamers were 6-1 Kelvin Ransey of Toledo Macomber, 6-5 Tim Vala of Cleveland St. Ignatius, 6-foot Doug Petty of Lancaster, 6-3 Mike Stowers of East Liverpool, 6-1 Elmer Jackson of Canton McKinley and 6-2 Mike Gould of Bellefontaine. All are seniors.

Keith Oglesby of Cleveland East Tech, a third-team allstar in 1975, led the second team this time. Oglesby, a 6-4 senior, averaged 21.3 points.

Joining him were 6-1 Mark Bodnar of Barberton, 6-5 Jim Rhoden of Lebanon, 6-3 Jack Zimmerman of Kettering Alter, 6-5 Kevin Best of Canton Lincoln, 6-2 Billy Wilson of Columbus Eastmoor, 6-9 Rich Yonakor of Euclid and 6-7 Donald Collins of Toledo Scott.

Bodnar and Rhoden are juniors, the rest seniors.

On the third team were 6-8 Mark Hetz of Defiance, 6-foot Mike Rogers of Groveport, 6-3 Pat Burtis of Hamilton Taft, 6-5 Chuck Bradford of Cleveland Collinwood, 6-6 Manzie Williams, 5-10 Larry Greene of Portsmouth, 6-foot Mark Dudley of Columbus Walnut Ridge and 6-3 Kim Leonard. All are seniors.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 1976 Associated Press Class AAA All-Ohio high school basketball team, selected on the recommendations of a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters:

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The frustrations of a long, losing season marred by sagging finance and fan support may have reached a peak for the Kansas City Scouts.

They had two shots on goal disallowed in Buffalo during a 3-1 loss to the Sabres Sunday night, extending their National Hockey League winless string to 20 games.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — Come April 1 and 2, actor Steve Railsback, a slight, soft-spoken Texan, is starring in a two-hour CBS show in a role that might understandably give any actor the willies.

He plays Charles Manson, the diminutive leader of a hippie-style "family" who with three female followers was convicted in 1971 in the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six others in Los Angeles.

Railsback, 30, says he was a bit wary of taking the Manson role in the show, "Helter Skelter," considering that some members of the original Manson clan are still around and still may be loyal to him.

"As a matter of fact, I turned the part down at first," said Railsback, a native of Wichita Falls, Tex., and a struggling actor in New York at the time of the Tate-LaBianca murders in August 1969.

"I'd started hearing rumors. And you know, once a rumor gets started it builds and builds. So I really started getting nervous about it. But it didn't last but a couple of days.

"Because I started thinking that if I began letting other people dictate to me what I should do, by fear or whatever way they do it, then I'm not going to be able to live with myself."

The actor, who said he never was threatened before, during or after filming "Helter Skelter," was asked what sort of rumors he'd heard when it became known a dramatization of the Manson case would be made for TV.

"Well, there was a rumor that Tom Gries, the director, had been threatened, gotten guard dogs and was moving his family to Florida — which wasn't true," he said.

"One rumor that turned out to be true was that the wife of the casting director had gotten a phone call from somebody — I don't know who — who said, 'If this picture is done, you'll be killed.'"

"But it could have been from anybody because LA's filled with crackpots. It could have been anybody just getting a charge."

Railsback, who has lived in New York 10 years, resembles Manson from a distance. Indeed, yours truly, present at the Manson trial the day Manson gently said, "I've killed no one and I've ordered no one killed," had a brief, chilling flashback when the actor walked into the office.

But even though Railsback's voice is eerily reminiscent of Manson's, he's about four inches taller. And his eyes don't have the intensely bright and unnerving quality of the man he's portraying.

Railsback, who studied films of Manson in preparing for the role, agrees that the convicted murderer's eyes were his most striking physical characteristic. He says he tried to convey that in his work.

"A lot of people say Manson is a man of a thousand faces, which he is," he said. "But I think he's more than that. He's also a man of a thousand eyes. At times, when he was talking to somebody in the films, his eyes seemed to change, almost burn."

"There was a moment when I wanted to meet him. But I couldn't. They (California prison officials) wouldn't let me."

Railsback paused. "When I think about it," he said softly, "I'm kind of glad I didn't."

Dellums silent about candidacy

CINCINNATI (AP) — U.S. Rep. Ron Dellums, D-Calif., goes before the National Black Political Assembly today to answer its offer to head an independent presidential campaign.

Dellums has refused to comment on the nomination by the assembly's executive council, but promised he would address the 3,000 delegates who are gathered to attend a national convention which is laying the groundwork for an independent political force which will operate beyond the November election.

An assembly official said the convention was also tentatively scheduled to hear from its original choice, Georgia state legislator Julian Bond, who expressed doubts about the effectiveness of a third party effort.

The assembly's executive committee withdrew its nomination from Bond, who had asked to be removed from consideration, and settled instead on Dellums, from California's 8th Congressional District.

The 40-year-old Dellums was originally elected in 1970 and currently serves on both the Armed Services and District of Columbia committees of the House of Representatives.

The assembly's candidate will also have the support of several other groups which have combined to form the National Committee for Peoples Politics.

The committee will direct the campaign and will consist of 51 per cent black representation and 49 per cent Third World and White representation.

They'll Do It Every Time

Many Swap Homes

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Home exchange has become a way of life for many vacationers, says Wilma Ferguson of Winnetka, Ill., who has a service that helps link the people who want to swap homes.

"It's a way to have a rent-free vacation but houses are exchanged for many reasons by people attending universities, grandparents who may want to be near their children, but not underfoot, and by businessmen who want their families with them on their temporary assignments." House-swapping also gives people the opportunity to go abroad.

"And some people trade houses for security reasons. They want someone in the house while they are away. Not all house exchange is done by families. Lots of it is done by singles, divorcees, widowers. Retired people use house trading as a way to study different communities," says Mrs. Ferguson.

On a membership basis, Mrs. Ferguson provides a service, Adventures-In-Living, which is a directory of people who would like to exchange homes. Some photographs are included in the booklet. House swappers make their own arrangements using the advice Mrs. Ferguson provides.

"One must be sure to get all details of the house, apartment, condominium, the number of rooms and beds, kitchen facilities, recreation and so on," she says.

"And it is important to get business, personal and bank references and to check out everything. A security deposit should be given and I suggest that photographs of the family as well as the home should be exchanged."

The house swapper should also be sure her insurance covers the use of the house, car, boat or whatever by the other people. There should be agreement on phone calls, major appliances, special equipment. And one might want to store antiques, heirlooms and other valuables in a locked closet. Many traders leave everything as-is, the cleaning service, yard service, laundry pick-up and so on, making the deal even easier.

Mrs. Ferguson always advises her members to write to 10 or 15 house offerings before they make a decision, but other than that she doesn't actually get involved.

"The only complaints I've heard have been minor. When people exchange they usually take good care of the house because they know the other person is responsible for their dwelling. That's why a security deposit is a good idea," she says.

Some listings are particularly tempting. One man sent a postcard from Greece with an X marking the spot of his house, just below the Acropolis. An American actress wrote that she had a European villa and would "willingly trade her Mercedes for a like car." A color photograph of a chateau in France illustrated another good offering, but Mrs. Ferguson pointed out "these people would expect an elegant house in return." Sometimes, though, when the deal is not even- Steven, other arrangements are made. For example, one person may be permitted to have more time in a house than the other.

One offering stressed gold mining opportunities near Anchorage. A Tokyo house was touted as being near a shrine.

A five-bedroom Paris home was offered by "two adults, two children, for exchange anywhere." One man wanted to trade a big cruiser for a house, another wanted to trade house and plane for house and plane elsewhere. The most easily traded house is a villa which "seems to be everyone's dream," Mrs. Ferguson said, "probably because it suggests a relaxed way of life." But many houses described and pictured in the directory are just average, comfortable-looking dwellings.

The most popular areas for trade are winter resorts and the south, but people go anywhere, she maintains. One Englishman traded a four-story

London flat for a house near Chicago for six weeks. Often a long-term business arrangement dictates where a man and his family must seek an exchange, perhaps in a small town or city.

Dorset show sets new sales records

The Dorset sheep show and sale held 12:30 p.m. Friday on the Fayette County Fairgrounds attracted 59 consigners from 14 states and Canada. A new national record of $296 as the average price for the sale of 116 head of sheep was established.

The $296 average was $42 per head higher than last year's Fayette County show and sale figure.

The adjudged champion ram was owned by Jim Meno of Huston, Iowa, and it sold for $3,100. Andrew Shaffner of Annapolis, Illinois, received $850 for his champion ewe.

The winners' trophies were provided by the Fayette County area bankers. Local consigners included Lowell Douce, Phil Grover, Dave Ogan, and Robert Highfield. Approximately 160 people attended the Friday night banquet held in the Mahan Building on the fairgrounds. Musical entertainment was provided by the "Syndicated Singers."

The junior judging contest took place Sunday at 9 a.m., with the trophies for the event being sponsored by the Federal Land Bank of Washington C.H.

There were 140 contestants, including 41 teams participating in three categories of judging: aged ewes, ram lambs and ewe lambs.

The first place individual winner was Ben Stockwell, 3593 Miami Trace Rd., who received 278 out of a possible 300 points for his showing. He is a member of the A-OK 4-H Club.

The first place team winner was the Ben Logan FFA from Logan County. They received 769 points out of 900.

Land-use planning still touchy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mention land-use planning or management around some federal farm officials or private organizations and often you get a glassy eyed, tight-lipped response which occasionally breaks into audible vituperation against such "government meddling" into the private affairs of landowners.

But in Canada land-use policy is taking hold, including classification of land and a mechanism for restricting the use that farmers can make of their property. A report published today by the Agriculture Department highlights the system in one Canadian province but does not mention the problems in the United States.

"In Canada, where the continuing loss of productive farm land to nonfarm use poses a serious problem to federal and provincial officials, the government of one province—British Columbia—has taken the first positive steps toward arresting the decline in prime agricultural land area," the report said.

The problem is basic: urban growth and other nonfarm demands have been taking increasingly larger bites out of some of British Columbia's best farm land. In 1972, British Columbia imposed a moratorium on "all future use of certain agricultural land for purposes other than farming" and later set up a commission to implement the plan.

Under the system, "a farmer wishing to assign some of his poorer land to some nonagricultural uses would not be able to obtain a building permit unless his proposed land use had been approved, nor could he sell it by subdivision without approval," the report said.

The report was written by Clancy V. Jean, U.S. agricultural attache in Ottawa and appeared in the current issue of "Foreign Agriculture" published by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

"For the farmer wishing to sell his entire farm, no approvals are required, but the new owner becomes subject to the land-use restrictions," Jean said.

Various bills have been introduced in Congress over the years calling for some sort of national land-use policy, but none has gone so far as the British Columbia system nor have any survived to become law. The most severe critics of such plans contend that land-use planning could lead to outright federal management of agriculture.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, for example, earlier this year adopted a policy stating that "land-use planning can best be accomplished at the county or comparable level of government and by private landowners. The federation opposed federal assistance to states for

The Fayette County Board of Commissioner's meeting on Monday, opened with the appointment of Dwight Duff to the Fayette County Zoning Board of Appeals for a five year term commencing immediately. Duff will replace Wilbur Rapp.

Other items on the day's agenda included bidding for the closed circuit television for the sheriff's department which was to begin at 11:00 a.m.

Commissioner Robert Mace stated that he wanted to make it clear to the public that the closed circuit TV differs from a regular television, in that it provides a system which allows the sheriff's dispatchers and deputies to watch the movements of the prisoners. The outside area surrounding the sheriff's department will also be monitored by this device.

Scheduled for 11:30 a.m. was a public hearing concerning the vacating of alleys in New Martinsburg Village. These alleys were originally township alleys but haven't been used for a long time.

The newly formed French Club at Washington Senior High School recently held a raffle. The Daryl Stewart family won the raffle and found 250 lbs. of beef in their freezer.

The French Club started planning for it in November of 1975, but before Christmas vacation the raffle was cancelled, because a school group or organization cannot hold a raffle unless it is backed by a booster club. Then several parents formed a booster club so the raffle could be held.

On Thursday, March 11, the drawing was held at 3:10 p.m. at the Washington Senior High School.

Congratulations to the Stewart family for winning.

Treatment sought for gunshot wound

Alleged robber apprehended in Fayette Memorial Hospital

A Celina man matching the description of a suspect wanted for armed robbery in Greenfield was treated for a gunshot wound Sunday in Fayette Memorial Hospital.

David J. Chaffer, 26, of Celina, was treated for a small caliber bullet wound in the emergency ward, and after the projectile was recovered by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, Washington C.H. police officers contacted the Highland County Sheriff's office. He was taken into custody after his release from the hospital.

Chaffer was reportedly involved in a Sunday night hold-up attempt at Beechler's Market in Greenfield. After first requesting a pack of cigarettes, Chaffer allegedly drew a gun on owner Charlie Beechler and stated, "This is it." Beechler succeeded in pulling a gun out of his pocket and firing it at the robber who was wounded in the shoulder.

The would-be thief took off, in his car, after which the area hospitals were notified, and Chaffer was apprehended in Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Other weekend incidents investigated by local law-enforcement agencies, included the arrest of a Tennessee man for improperly transporting a firearm in a motor vehicle.

Upon arriving at the Rocking Chair Inn at 9:14 p.m. Sunday, to investigate a reported domestic dispute, Washington C.H. police officers learned that one of the participants had just left in his car with a gun. The police officers pursued the vehicle, succeeded in stopping it, and upon checking the interior, found a gun in the front seat. The car was stopped near the 300 block of East Market Street, after which John L. Sturdivant 47, of Paris, Tenn., was cited for improper transportation of a firearm in a motor vehicle.

Winifred Havens, 31, of 809 E. Temple St., reportedly took an overdose of aspirin and wine at 7:25 p.m. Saturday in her residence. She was treated at Fayette Memorial Hospital and released.

Broken glass from a door on the Dr. Dwight Ireland residence, 517 E. Temple St., was reportedly due to a break-in attempt, though nothing inside was disturbed. The incident occurred sometime between 12:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. Saturday with $25 worth of damage.

A watch, ring and silver knives of undetermined value were reported stolen from the Virginia Cain residence, 522 Columbus Ave., sometime since October of 1975.

Bobby H. Dean told sheriff's deputies that after hearing a noise in front of his residence at 10 p.m. Friday, he discovered the next morning that a head light on his car, valued at $2.75, had been broken, and a part of a beer bottle was lying inside of the damaged light.
